I also give a short explanation of the Chemical Toilet. The one I explain is the latest development in the line, but a perfectly sanitary one could be made locally for less than a ten dollar bill. Every earth closet in the city could be converted into a Chemical Toilet at the cost of only a few dollars each. and to anyone interested I should be pleased to give a drawing and explanation of the making of same. I would thank any architect or engineer to criticise or endorse my ex-

The following is Section 178 of the proposed City Charter and proves that the Septic-Tank System is not condemned by the Council. Section 178.-No privy or cess-pool shall be permitted within the City limits, but the Council shall have power to permit the use of Septic-Tanks in localities where sewage connections are impossible, provided the same shall be constructed and used according to the rules and regulations provided therefor. Trusting that if you think these explanations are of public interest, you will publish them.

Yours faithfully, JAMES MURDOCH.

SEPTIC-TANK SYSTEM OF SEWAGE

DISPOSAT. The Septic-Tank System or sewage purification and disposal is a process by which the raw sewage from a building, or a number of buildings, is conveyed to a set of collecting tanks and stored there until the solids have settled to the bottom and the floating material has gathered at the top, and a septic action has more or less purified the liquid between the sediment and the floating scum.
