DAIRY COWS,

Exhibition in John A. Nash's Art Gallery.

painting cottages with thatched roofs, friendly trees, inviting roads and gaily-hued flowers, but he has recreated the atmosphere of restruiness and quiet joy. One can almost sense the fragrance of blossoms, catch the droning of bees, and the notes of bird songs

There a new and colorful view of Anne Hathaway's cottage, embow-Anne Hathaway's cottage, empowered in flowers. There are gardens that are treasures in their wealth of suggestion to flower lovers who would make their own gardens places of beauty and harmony.

Mr. Walton isn't an architect. He paints the things he loves as he sees them, and he makes other people see them with his eyes. But he has brought from old England all manner of hints for the people of London and Western Ontario who are about o build their own homes.

Sometimes he has turned from the houses which spell "Home, Sweet Home" to reproduce a climbing, winding road, with a mass of wood in the distance. The purple, enveloping haze of the hour has been the temptation to which he has yielded, an atmospheric effect not unusual at any time of year in a country of many mists, but beautiful, nevertheless.

Sometimes he has been inspired by the harbor of a fishing town with its picturesque craft. Then he has returned to a quaint room with smallpaned windows, a cupboard hanging near by, a warming-pan on the wall beside the high old fireplace, over which the kettle sings on the hob. A clock ticks out the hour, and in front an inviting tea table is laid. The shadows are beginning to fall a feel of the shadows are beginning to fall of the shadows are beginning to shadows. The shadows are beginning to fall a bit, but a warmth of gold glows through the brown tones. The pictures prominently displayed this time sing the song of places where people dwell. They are the kind of pictures which are hanny "heartsome" nos-

Mr. Walton, who is in this city this week, confesses that he is hap-piest himself in doing this kind of subject,
"I don't want war," he says. "I have had enough of it. I lost my boy there."

Well known as a teacher as well as painter in England, he has been connected with the staffs fo Mont-gomery and Pitsmoor colleges in Sheffleid, England, and is returning there in the course of a few weeks.

David Jagger of London, whose works have been exhibited at the Canadian National Gallery, is among his pupils who have achieved fame Mr. Walton spoke with regret to-day of the passing of Florence Carlyle, paying warm tribute to the beauty of her work and the idealism revealed in her choice of subjects. "She was a rare artist," he said, "and her passing is a very real loss to the art world, especially in Canada." WOMEN'S LABOR PARTY TO SUPPORT KIBBLER Contest.

The Women's Labor Party will get behind Labor's candidate, H. Kibbler. in the coming aldermanic election in Ward Four. Final arrangements for an organization of workers for this purpose were made at last night's meeting of the party at the Labor Temple. Mrs. George Eddie, the president, was in the chair. The party is also preparing to enter into the provincial election fight as soon as a local candidate has been chosen. At last night's meeting, Mrs. S. White extended an invitation to all the members of the party and their friends to spend a social evening at her home, 487 Woodman avenue, on May 17. Next week it is hoped to have a speaker for the meeting.

STRIKE AT ANTWERP

Steamship Abandons Sailing on Account of Lack of Fuel.

Associated Press Despatch.

Antwerp, May 10 .- This city was almost completely isolated today by the strike of the postal, telegraph and telephone employees and the railroad men, which has completely tied up erce, and is apparently assuming grave proportions. The transportation of coal and coke was stopped by the walkout, and the Red Star liner Zeeland was forced to abandon her sailing for New York. Consignments of fish and other provisions from England are being hauled to interior points by river boats and trucks, and perishable produce is being sold on the docks at whatever price it will bring.

Wire communication with other parts of Belgium is cut off.

IT WOULD.

Would it sound good to you to hear that you could buy today the very finest quality of tea—a genuine Orange Pekoe—at about the same price as a year ago—right now when teas have advanced so much in price? Phone your grocer for a package of RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE TEA (the full name, please, there are many teas called Orange Pekoe), and you will get a ½-1b. package for 45c, or a generous big sample package for only 10 cents.—Advt.
