"A Necessity with Balloons'

The Easiest Riding Car is a Ford H& D Equipped

Not only are the bumps and jolts ironed out but the car gets less wear and tear. H & D's ensure more real pleasure than any other accessory you can buy. They are at the cantilever princip. their work efficiently and satisfactily—no interference with the Ford pring.

H & D'a are a necessity with balloon tires. "Balloons" are not a substitute for shock absorbers,—they are too "bouncy" on rough roads. But balloons and H & D's are the last word in easy riding.

The Vibragraph (a machine for register-ing vibrations) has demonstrated that a Ford equipped with H & D's is the easiest riding car on the market.

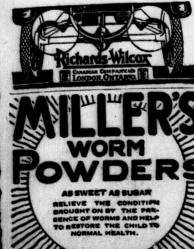

Ask your friends how they like H&D's.

They'll tell you they wouldn't do without them.

Amundsen, for instance, may have fied for Alaska, but I don't believe it. To do so would have been an unthinkable risk of the lives of his shipmates. He is courageous, but not foolishly reckless. In the first place, the nearest point in Alaska is approximately 1,800 miles from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, from which point Amundsen hopped off.
