Boston, Jan. 21,-John L. Sullivan ar rived home from New York at 3 p.m. yesterday, and stated that he would fight at any time in any place for any amount, from one cent up. He said the receipts of the house Monday night were $5320. He charged the reporters with being down on him and misrepresenting Monday night's encounter. Said he: "I will fight McCaff. rey and Ryan in the same ring, or I will fight McCaffrey and then Ryan two hours afterward." He thought Ryan was no better as a fighter than when he met him at Mississippi City, and that he rushed on him purposely Monday night so as to cause the match to be a second or the secon

New York, Jan. 21.—It has been asce Age 108k, Jan. 21.—It has oven ascer-tained that before the gate money was divided at the hotel yesterday between Ryan and Sullivan, Ryan declared that he could whip Sullivan. The latter said he couldn't, when Ryan landed a terrific blow on his nose. Sullivan, who was unpre-pared for the onslaught, let go his left, but missed Ryan. Then he tried his right, but Ryan met him with a cross counter in the ribs which made the Boston boy yelp. The backers stopped the fight, but not be-

The backers stopped the fight, but not before some furniture was destroyed.

Sullivan said yesterday he could have easily beaten Ryan on Monday night. He thought it best to "feel of him" to find out if he had improved any since their last meeting. To his surprise Ryan rushed at him like a bull at a barn gate. He got in half a blow which seemed to daze Ryan. He says he will fight Ryan with gloves at any time or place for fun or for $5000 or $10,000 a side. He will not fight with bare nuckles, as he has no desire to get into the penitentiary. Ryan was in a very jovial mood. He said he always knew he was Sullivan's master in or out of the ring. He had Sullivan licked when he had his head in chancery and was punishing him. He could feel his body shrink and try to wriggle away in a weak manner. He declares he will never be satisfied until the declares he will never be satisfied until the affair is settled one way or other.

The result of the Sullivan-Ryan glove contest has induced Dominick McCaffrey to include Ryan in his challenges. McCaffrey on receiving a despatch stating that Ryan had the best of the match when stopped by the police, said: "I don't want to say anything against Ryan, or Sullivan either, for that matter, but I ve got money to stake that I can knock either of them out in four rounds. I was sure their bout would be stopped by the authorities, so I to New York to see it, but now that it is over I am prepared to make a match with either for as large a stake as they choose, and will bet $5000 on the result. Mitchell and the rest of them will have to wait until after I meet Sullivan. There's nothing for me in a match with any of them except the receipts, and it's not money I am after just at present. I want to be champion of America, and when I beat Sullivan, or a man that beats Sulli-

The day, as the observatory people say, was clear and cold and the track was in magnificent order. A number of impromptu races took place during the day and in the aftermoon there was a rattling contest for a handsome robe between Tom Best's bay mare Lady Banker, Tom Connell's chestnut Dan, Billy Farrell's bay paser, H. Fred Archer as a Pugilist. From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.
It remained for New Orleans to furnish Archer with an exciting incident which served to divert his thoughts from himself for several hours. On Friday evening he and his party, so the story goes, left the St. Charles hotel for the L. and N. depot, where they intended to take the cars for a Florida winter resort. In arranging with the baggagemen about their luggage, they were talked to in that style, more forcible than elegant, which is peculiar to trunk the charge of aggravated assault against than elegant. served to divert his thoughts from himself the baggagemen about their luggage, they were talked to in that style, more foreible than elegant, which is peculiar to trunk handlers. Archer and party objected, and in the twinkling of an eye there was a lively amount of sparring, bare knuckles, go as you please rules. One round was fought, in which the jockey and his friends, so it is said, had the best of it, but found that while they were busy their train had left. The party have, therefore decided left. Capt. Tuthill, Jack Dempsey's backer, offers to wager $1000 that Dempsey can defeat Billy Edwards in four three-minute rounds. A match will probably be arranged between the two noted boxers. It is said that a party of young rich men have offered to subscribe a purse of $1000 for Mitchell and McCaffrey to fight to a finish. He discredited the report that Campbell had departed for Canada and had been seen in Winnipeg, and thought that Campbell, being aware of his immunity from arrest in the United States, would never cross the border. Capt. Dewey said he was satisfied that $3200 would cover the total amount istolen in the three robberies, and a portion of that amount was in canceled bills of the bank of Montreal.
