CONGREGATIONAL UNION.

CONGREGATIONAL UNION.—The Congregational Union met this year at Kingston, and was attended by delegates from Massachusetts, Vermont, New York, and Michigan. The statistical returns for the year show that the body has now in the Province 69 churches, 139 stations, 57 ministers, 2,877 members, 59 chapels, valued at £36,380, and affording accommodation for 15,875 persons. The following Resolutions were unanimously adopted. —

CLERGY RESERVE COMMUTATION.—“Resolved: That this Union records its firm protest against the appropriation of any part of the public domain to the support of the ministers of religion, and views with indignation the course which has been taken in the Commutation of the claims of individuals, by which it is to be feared there will be gained indirectly a very large endowment of certain churches, in spite of the often expressed decision of the Province upon that point.”

SECTARIAN EDUCATION.—“Resolved: That this Union recognising with gratitude to the Giver of all good, the multiplied blessings that have resulted to our beloved country from its improved and efficient system of Common School Education, views with alarm and disapprobation the efforts which are being made in certain quarters in favor of sectarian education, and enters its protest against the appropriation of public monies towards denominational objects of any kind, or in any shape whatever.”

TRACT SOCIETY AND SLAVERY.—The Rev. Jas. Nall, Agent, having addressed the Union relative to the Upper Canada Religious Tract and Book Society, it was resolved: “That the religious tract and Book Society, represented by our brother Nall, especially that carried out by colportage, is one which claims the hearty co-operation of our churches; and that their Agent be requested to convey to the Society the deep
