

Henry George's Last and Greatest Work

THE SCIENCE OF POLITICAL ECONOMY.

The monumental book, on which Henry George spent the last six years of his life, will be published this month by George N. Morang, Toronto. It will be a large octavo volume, containing about as much matter as "Progress and Poverty," about 9,000 copies of which have been sold in the United States during the past month. It was intended by its author to be the crowning achievement of his life. Wider in scope than the world-famous "Progress and Poverty," it is written in the same lucid and graphic style. It presents political economy in the new aspect of a clear and fascinating science; a science which needs no technical knowledge or special learning to study, and which appeals to the vast majority of men, because it treats of the burning problem—the getting of a living. With handsome Photogravure Portrait. Price, $2.00.

ANTHONY HOPE'S NEW WORK,

SIMON DALE,

A Novel.

Crown, 8vo. Cloth, with eight full-page illustrations. $1.50; paper, 75 cts.

"This novel deals with no imaginary realm in the scene of action this time, but England is the place, and the period of Charles the Second is the time chosen for this romance, which is said to have as great sustained interest as in the case of the best of its author's former work. As the story has chiefly to do with the English and French Courts, the material for a tale of love, intrigue, and adventure could hardly be surpassed, and Mr. Hawkins is said to have availed himself of his opportunities in a remarkable manner. The book lies in a slightly different field from that which he has previously cultivated, although the same brilliant and original touch which is so strongly shown throughout "Phroso" and "The Prisoner of Zenda" is noticeable in the new story. Nell Gwyn, Charles II. of England, and Louis XIV. of France figure prominently in this romantic tale, which promises to surprise and delight the novel-reading world.—Pocket Magazine.

SARAH GRAND'S NEW NOVEL,

The Beth Book

Being a Study from the life of Elizabeth Caldwell MacLure, a woman of genius.

By SARAH GRAND,

Author of "The Heavenly Twins."

12mo. Cloth, $1.50.

Paper, 75 Cents.

This is the life history of the heroine Beth. Since the publication of the "Heavenly Twins," Madame Grand has been at work upon this novel, which is her most important literary undertaking. The new novel traces the development of a woman of genius from her birth to her marriage, and afterward. It is a most subtle and extraordinary study of a woman's psychological evolution, while as a story it is characterized by an abundance of delightful humor and incident. With remarkable fidelity and a singularly graphic power of expression the author depicts the attitude of the child toward the outer world and toward her parents, the effects of increasing knowledge upon the young girl, the married life, the acquaintance with a larger world, the attitude of men toward women, and the position of women in modern society. Questions of intimate consequence are treated with courage and dignity. It is evident that the author has something to say which the public has been waiting to hear. Her novel is a book of serious import which will furnish abundant reason for thought and discussion. While some of the earlier scenes are laid in Ireland, the action takes place for the most part in London, and the reader is introduced to some vivid pictures of social and of poor life in the metropolis—pictures which include the hospital as well as the drawing-room.
