

GRIP'S SHAKESPEREAN GALLERY.—NO. 1.

"COMPANY, VILLAINOUS COMPANY, HAS BEEN THE SPOIL O' ME!"

—Henry IV., Act 3.

HIS LAST REQUEST.

They had been keeping company for some time, and one night he summoned up enough courage to lean over and kiss her. She was shocked at his audacity, and told him that she would have nothing more to do with him. It nearly broke his heart to receive such a rebuff, and he pleaded with her in vain to recall the cruel words. This she refused to do. Finally he said to her:

"Now that you have decided to shake me, I have one request to make before we part forever."

"I will listen to no request," she replied.

"But just this slight request," he pleaded eloquently.

"No (languidly), I will not."

"Oh, do not refuse me."

"Well, tell me what it is, and then leave me forever."

"It is please lean over the other way and take your arms from around my neck?"

His request was granted.
