IT ALL DEPENDS ON GOVERNMENT

Whether Western Grain Comes Over N. T. R. This Coming Winter.

SAYS H. G. KELLEY

Vice-President of Grand Trunk Says His Company is Ready.

"It depends on the government whether the grain from the west comes thru on the Transcanadian line, or whether it is shipped by the Grand Trunk," said H. G. Kelley, vice-president of the Grand Trunk System last night when seen by The World on his private car "Ontario," en route to his home in Montreal. The vice-president had been in Toronto to confer with the National Association of Carriers, and on the question of car shortage, both in passenger and freight departments.

"If the government National Transcontinental ready for the wheat traffic, the Grand Trunk is fully prepared to handle the grain over its route," Kelley said. "I am in connection with the National Association of Carriers at Cochrane," he said. "From North Bay the Grand Trunk will take the grain to Scott's Junction, and from there direct to Montreal and the ocean ports."

The vice-president was of the opinion that there was very little doubt that this coming winter would see the grain coming through the above route.

Nothing further has been accomplished in connection with the Transcanadian and the Toronto viaduct. It had still to be definitely settled upon as to which route would be used for the grain.

At Convocation Hall last evening, a wonderfully interesting lecture was given before the members of the Teachers' Association of Toronto, by Dr. Kerr, medical official of the London council, England.

Dr. Kerr, medical official of the London council, England, spoke of the variation in their biological sense, which distinguishes between the large fair type that belongs to this country and the small dark type which does better in the town.

The variation first treated was that of height. By means of diagrams the speaker illustrated that children differ mentally in proportion as they differ in height.

It was Dr. Quarter of St. Louis who had first taken statistics of children of height. By means of diagrams the speaker illustrated that children differ mentally in proportion as they differ in height.

New Regulation for Government Ships Will Boost Home Industry.

BUILDERS REJOICING

Great Impetus to the Shipbuilding Trade All Thru Canada.

Canadian shipbuilders are rejoicing over the new Dominion Government regulation which has just come into force, and which provides that all vessels built for the Dominion Government must be constructed in the Dominion of Canada.

The head of a Toronto shipbuilding firm when seen by The World yesterday, declared that the new regulation would mean that millions more, that would otherwise have left Canada for the Dominion, will now remain in the Dominion.

The surprising statement was made that of the Canadian Government vessels built in recent years probably seventy-five per cent were constructed in Canada.

Under the new regulation all the above vessels would have been built in Canada. Another change made in the regulation is that the government must be composed wholly of British materials.
