The Housefurnishing Club Endows a Home Library

THE New Book Cabinets had come home, and Mrs. Jack had hastened to get the books into them before Jack arrived for dinner. That evening they enjoyed the satisfaction of settling down for an hour or two in their own "library."

"Talk about Carnegie!" said Jack, "I tell you if people made nice little collections of books for their own homes like we intend to, it would "I think bookcases look so distinguished," said Mr. Jack, complacently. "Especially with books in them," said Jack. "The Housefurnishing Club will
