

IN THE NORTH THREE YEARS.

Harry Radford, New York Naturalist, Will Take No Companion Into the Arctic Wilds.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Harry Vincent Radford, sportsman, naturalist and writer upon subjects relating to natural history, particularly with reference to the Adirondacks, will start from this city before the first of February for the Arctic trip, which will have the double purpose of geographical discovery and zoological investigation, will probably cover from 175 miles almost due north, and that is as far as it is possible to go by road.

Leaving New York he will go to Ottawa to confer with Canadian officials regarding the necessary permits and formalities, and then he will continue to Winnipeg and Edmonton, Alberta, the most northerly railway point in Canada. Four days' drive in a sleigh will bring him to Lac la Pêche, 175 miles almost due north, and that is as far as it is possible to go by road.

THEN BY DOG TRAIN.
There he will engage one or two Indians and a dog train of four huskies to draw the sleighs bearing his food and instruments. At intervals of 200 miles there is a Hudson's Bay post, where new dogs and men will be taken, as there Indians are unwilling to go further than 200 miles from their homes, and by these stages he will go directly north to Fort Resolution.

Mr. Radford believes that this is the first serious effort which has ever been made to study carefully the wood lands. Other men who have made expeditions into this country have selected the summer as the time of their trips. Warburton Pike was there in 1880, Caspar Whitney in 1895 and Ernest Thompson Seton, in 1897. Mr. Radford hopes that by being in the country in the winter when the blizzards may be found in the open, he will be able to get results where others have failed. He will spend the months of March and April in this region.

ACROSS THE BARREN LANDS.
From Fort Resolution, Mr. Radford will either go directly north across the barren land, of which no accurate maps exist, or if he fails in this because of not being able to find the dogs to go with him he will go down the Mackenzie River to its delta at Fort McPherson, where the former residents in the Arctic Ocean area at Bathurst Bay. Just what will be his year will find him at this point. Mr. Radford cannot say. But he expects to spend two or three winters in this country, where the snow zero is not uncommon, and he hopes to be able to make his home with the Eskimos in the severest portions of the Arctic.

Skirting the shores of the Arctic to the Alaskan boundary he will ascend the Yukon to its source and then descend it to its mouth. Then he will cross the Nome City, spending several weeks there reconnoitering.
TO CROSS BEHRING STRAITS.
Crossing Behring Straits on some Russian boat or junk, he will spend some time on the East Cape of Asia, studying any animals he may find of which little is known. The last lap of his extraordinary trip will be down the Pacific coast to San Francisco. Although he is only 28 years old, Mr. Radford is a student of many sciences, and is particularly interested in the study of naturalists and his explorations.

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—Three men, one of whom was John McKenna, coachman for Dr. McEachern, while coasting down the mountain side to-night on a toboggan, ran into a tree. McKenna was instantly killed. His skull was fractured. The other two were not hurt. The men were not sliding on the regular toboggan chute.

MANY DON'T KNOW
HEART AFFECTED.

More People than Aware of It
Have Heart Disease.

"If examinations were made of every person walking about suffering from heart disease,"
This startling statement was made by a doctor at a recent inquest. "I should not like to say that heart disease is as common as this would imply," said the expert, "but I am sure that the number of persons going about with weak hearts must be very large."
"Hundreds of people go about their daily work on the verge of death, and yet do not know it. It is only when the shock comes that kills them that the unsuspected weakness of the heart is made apparent."
"But undoubtedly heart weakness, not disease, is more prevalent nowadays. I should think that the stress of living, the war and rush of modern business life, have a lot to do with heart trouble. There is no doubt but that this is correct, and we would strongly advise any one suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

Price 50 cts. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FLUTTERING OF THE HEART.
Mrs. G. M. White, Williamson, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with weak pulse and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad I could scarcely live. I took a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they helped me so much I got another box and it has made a final cure. I cannot speak too highly of them. I think they are worth their weight in gold."

JAPAN MUST CONTINUE TO PROTECT KOREA

The Substance of Prince Ito's
Report

Weakness and Helplessness of the Country
Obvious — No Hope for Country
Without Japanese Protection.

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 23.—The strongest impression he retains of his recent tour of Northern Korea is that Japan must continue fearlessly in her attitude of protection and guidance toward the Koreans, and no matter how weak and helpless the country remained that there was no hope for the empire without the protection of Japan. This, Prince Ito announced, would be the substance of his report to his emperor on his return to Japan. Both the Korean emperor who is in splendid health and spirits since his return from the north, and Prince Ito, have granted audiences to the leading residents of Ping Yang and the foreign missionaries. To the latter the prince said that he made no difference in act or thought between the various creeds. He said that the good work of the missions in the enlightenment and civilization of Korea was self-evident and that in his own efforts toward the political salvation of the country he desired the aid and co-operation of the missionaries and native Christians. The expressions of good will voiced by the prince were received with enthusiasm and have created a feeling of friendship towards the Japanese administration of Korean affairs among the missionaries of Ping Yang.

Addressing his fellow countrymen residents in Seoul Prince Ito said that any marked improvement in conditions in Korea could not be achieved until the economic weaknesses of the empire had been overcome. He dwelt at length on the need for a more vigorous policy towards the natural resources of Korea, stating that he had worked and would work with the utmost energy for the betterment of the country. Prince Ito concluded his remarks by urging both Japanese and Koreans to work with the utmost energy for the betterment of the country. He thereby serving the best interests of every resident of the empire.

CHIEF DENIES STORY OF THE THIRD DEGREE

Says Mrs. Wilhelm Was Not Suddenly
Confronted With Husband's Corpses
—His Version.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 22.—Chief of Police Michael Corbett denies the accuracy of the report published on Feb. 4, stating that Mrs. Anna J. Wilhelm had been subjected by the police, to what is known as "the third degree." An investigation shows that the police in this case did not make use of Chief Corbett's statement of the occurrence is as follows:

"At the undertaker's the body of the slain was placed in a handsome casket; it had been made as presentable in appearance as it was possible for expert morticians to make it. No shot covered the body; consequently a sheet was not suddenly jerked aside to reveal the corpse when the woman entered. After Mrs. Wilhelm had gazed on the dead man's face for a few moments, the glass covering it was drawn down so that she might, if she desired, press a last kiss on the forehead. Not a question was put to her. This all took place in the large room used by the undertaker for the holding of funeral services and not in the morgue. After Mrs. Wilhelm had composed herself she returned to the coach, was driven back to police headquarters and was profuse in her thanks for having been permitted to make the journey."

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Wall Street—the market opened in an excited condition owing to the heavy declines in the prices of Americans in the London market during yesterday's holiday. New York American Industrials were mostly affected as a result of American steel trade. There were sales of 12,000 at the opening at 44 1/2 and 44 1/2 and the price subsequently touched 44 1/2.

CANADA'S FIRST
GOLD COINS

Struck in British Columbia in 1862—Only 4 Known to Exist

A Colonial Treasurer Who Achieved His Ambition in Defiance of Prorogative of the Crown

English gold sovereigns were coined on the North American continent for the first time in 1862, when a limited number of these pieces were struck at the newly opened Canadian mint at Ottawa. Permeation strikes these coins, it is said, was given by the British authorities as a special privilege to mark the beginning of operations and extended only up to Dec. 31, 1862, after which the mint was to confine itself to making silver and bronze coins.
Six ingots, containing between sixty and seventy ounces of gold, were sent to the Ottawa mint from the Redoubt mine, in the Larder Lake district, and this was the metal used to make the Canadian sovereigns. All are marked with the letter C. The intrinsic value of each piece is $146, although specimens already have been sold for $35.
It is the general impression that these are the only gold coins about which little is known, and which is associated with the United States for the reason that the dies were made in this country.

In 1883 R. W. McLaughlin, of Ottawa, a numismatic authority, while examining the coin collection of the British Museum in London came across two gold coins of the denomination of $10 and $20 with which he was entirely unacquainted, although the inscriptions borne by them indicated that they had been made for circulation in Canada.

The gold pieces were similar in design. The twenty dollar piece bore in the centre of the field with a crown in the bottom, while around the border was inscribed "Government of British Columbia." On the reverse was a wreath of oak leaves, which enclosed, in three lines, the inscription "20 dollars 1862," with the word "KUMER" in minute letters underneath the wreath.

Mr. McLaughlin had never heard of such coins before and upon his return he wrote to the Provincial Secretary of British Columbia for information. Secretary John Robson supplied the information that the coins were struck in the mint at Victoria in 1862, at the instance of Gen. Gossit, who at that time was treasurer of the colony.

Treasurer Gossit had an ambition to strike gold coins when the gold fever was at its height in 1862. He was a numismatic, and finally through his efforts a small mint was established. Before the mint was completed it was discovered that the colony had no authority to coin money, and there was a heavy penalty for doing so. It being a prerogative of the Crown, Gossit determined to have sample coins made anyway, and in opposition to the governor's wishes brought the mint to completion. According to Secretary Robson only two of these gold coins were struck, and I well remember the level of the season at St. James Palace at noon today which was well attended, among those present being the majority of the members of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps. The American Ambassador, Whitehall, was in the diplomatic corps. He was accompanied by John Rudley Carter, secretary of the embassy, Lieut. Commander John R. Gibson, the military attaché, Capt. Sidney A. Clemen, the military attaché, and Craig W. Wadsworth, second secretary of the embassy. He presented to His Majesty Arthur Ork, the new third secretary, Wm. Rockefeller Jr., James Stannard, a resident of London, and an American resident of London, and Lieut. Commander Chester Wells, U. S. N.

If we are spared for a few years more we shall see ships of thirty and forty thousand tons displacement."

SAYS LICENSING BILL WILL NOT BE DROPPED

"We are Not Going to Turn Back," Declares Rt. Hon. Mr. Birrell
at Nottingham

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Mr. Birrell addressed a public meeting of Nottingham, when a resolution was passed expressing indignation at the rejection of the Licensing Bill by the House of Lords.

Speaking of the Licensing Bill, he said it was not a political measure. No Government that had any regard for a quiet life or by-elections would have consented to take it up. "They knew exactly what they were doing. They made their appeal not merely to political supporters, but to the nation."

"We have," he said, "brought the question to a clear issue and we are not going to turn back. (Cheers). No member of the House of Lords need suppose that this bill will ever be dropped. We have behind us a vast vote of opinion; in fact everybody intimately acquainted with the social life of the people."

"We have great forces against us, and we are in a fight. Do you think we do not have the influence of the tap-room? The whole moral forces of the nation are behind us. Whether they are or not, we mean to go on fighting." (Cheers).
That brought him to the question of the House of Lords, which thought it to day the bill before it had been removed from the table of the House. He did not think the House of Lords ever did a more foolish thing in all their lives than to accept this Licensing Bill as the one on which to flout the determination and the expressed will of the popular chamber. (Cheers).
It marked an extraordinary thing, which he owned he hardly expected even that house to show. (A voice, "Reform them.")

On the franchise question Mr. Birrell declared himself in favour of granting votes to unmarried women taxpayers, but not to married women.

ORDERS OF MERIT MAY BE WORN BY WOMEN

Decoration of Royal Red Cross
Conferred on Italian Queen.

Oldest Is the Order of the Axe—Interesting Stories Connected With Their Origin.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The decoration of the Royal Red Cross which King Edward recently conferred upon Queen Elena of Italy for her conduct at Messina, is one of many orders of merit that may be worn by women.

The oldest of these is the Order of the Axe, established in the twelfth century by the last Duke of Barcelona, Ramon Berenguer. Its establishment was inspired by the devoted courage of the Spanish women in repelling the Moors, with whom the Spaniards were then engaged in a life and death struggle.

The first order in recognition of women's personal bravery on the field of battle was founded in Russia. In the battle of Pruthi, when Peter the Great led the Russian army against the Turks, defeat seemed almost inevitable. For long the fortunes of the Russian army hung in the balance, and the Emperor declared afterward that if he had not been accompanied by Catherine the entire army would have been defeated.

On the conclusion of peace Peter instituted the Order of Liberty and bestowed it upon his wife. During his lifetime it was conferred on no one else, but in 1797 Paul I. modified its character so that it might be conferred upon the higher nobility connected with the Imperial house. Each member was especially charged with the care, manners and morals of a pupil in the royal household. It is now the Order of Catherine.

The most highly prized order for women in Germany is the Order of William III. It was to commemorate the self-sacrifice of the women of Germany during the Napoleonic campaign which terminated at Waterloo. The women of Prussia then sold their jewelry and rings to raise money for the soldiers, and many accompanied the army into the field of battle to minister to the wounded.

After the Franco-Prussian war the Service Cross for Women and Girls was established in recognition of their aid during the war.

The Legion of Honor is now the only French order left, all others having been abolished during the Revolution. It was established first by the Order of the Eagle by Napoleon in 1804. The first woman to wear it was Marie Jeanne Schœlkel. In 1792 she enlisted in the Second Belgian Battalion and was wounded. In the course of which she was wounded more than once. After the battle of Austerlitz she was made a member of the Legion of Honor.

Noble work in the cause of humanity and the welfare of the human race was the motive which inspired the decoration of Mary was made a member of the Catholic faith, but that limitation no longer obtains.

In England there are three orders confined to women. In 1877 when Queen Victoria assumed the title of Empress of India, she founded the Imperial Order of the Crown of India, which may be conferred upon princesses of the royal house, and wives and female relatives of Indian princes and of the holders of high office in India, such as the Viceroy and Commander in Chief.

The Royal Family Order of Victoria and Albert, founded in 1893 explains the title of the British woman's order. It is that of the Royal Red Cross founded fifty years ago as a recognition of services in nursing the sick and wounded.

The Order of Merit instituted by King Edward in 1902, is really a man's order, but it was conferred on Miss Florence Nightingale.

The Order of St. Anne at St. Anne at Munich was founded by the widow of the Elector Maximilian III in 1783 and originally was confined to the members of nobility. There are now three classes with twenty-five members in the first, forty-two in the second, and a third class to which daughters of military officers are eligible.

The order of the Starry Cross was founded by the Empress Eleanor of Austria in 1668. After a great fire had destroyed the imperial palace there was found in the ruins a little crucifix said to contain a relic of the true cross. According to the traditions of the family it had been worn by and protected the Emperor Maximilian from the perils of the campaign against Martin Luther. It was preserved in a casket of crystal and enamel and after the great fire was entirely unharmed.

Out of such a history this miraculous preservation of the relic decided to commemorate the event by establishing an order on a Toronto jeweller instead. It is to be hoped, however, the Crescents will hand the letter over to the M. A. A. A., and the latter will consult the National Skating Association. It might do some good—Record.

PERCY B. SOMERVILLE.

In Springfield, Kings Co., on Feb. 19, Percy B. Somerville, aged 18 years died suddenly. Up to within a few days of his death he had been strong and well. He was taken down with appendicitis early in the week. A consultation of doctors was held and an operation was speedily arranged for. This, however, proved ineffectual, the disease having gained two much headway to be overcome. His death cast a gloom over the whole village, as he was well and favorably known by all. He was of a bright and lovable disposition and gave promise of a brilliant life. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved mother and sisters in their loss.

The great clear-up sale of lace curtains at M. R. A.'s will be continued tomorrow, all day tomorrow. This is the housewife's opportunity to secure real bargain. Hundreds took advantage of the sale yesterday but there was still time to secure handsome curtains at a generous saving in price.

Band made by two of St. John's best bands, instrumental and vocal solo, and the production of that most realistic of military band compositions "A Soldier's Life," will be featured in the concert to be given this evening in Carleton City Hall by the combined band and Carleton Cornet bands. The concerted band numbers will be particularly attractive to all music lovers and in fact the best musical event held in the West Side for a long time.

Says a Trinidad paper, of Feb. 4th:—The W. S. Harnden Dramatic Company, who are giving their first performance at the Princess Building to-night, arrived yesterday morning from Barbados by the Canadian. Later in the day their baggage was thoroughly fumigated. The Ocampo's bill of health disclosed that up to the last instant 16 cases of yellow fever have occurred at Barbados, and we learn from a private source that in a single family were aided by a child with seven cases, three of which terminated fatally within 48 hours.

A grotesque echo of the ice palace storming was given at Montreal last evening at the Padreswald concert, where the audience of 50,000 people braved the elements to witness the performance. The Ocampo's bill of health disclosed that up to the last instant 16 cases of yellow fever have occurred at Barbados, and we learn from a private source that in a single family were aided by a child with seven cases, three of which terminated fatally within 48 hours.

The Crescents have decided to shandon the Maritime skating championships which were to have been held at the Arena Wednesday; nearly all of the skaters wanted expenses, some of them wanted sums away above expenses. Requests first received here were that the Crescents should be asked to pay the expenses of the skaters, but this was not accepted. The whole affair gives an idea of the present day style of amateurism. In days of yore the skaters were not paid; nowadays some of the people who call themselves amateurs want profit as well. Even Kerr, Longboat, and others who competed at the exhibition in 1928, were not only not paid, but Tim O'Rourke, their manager, declined the prizes offered, objecting to the order on a Toronto jeweller instead. It is to be hoped, however, the Crescents will hand the letter over to the M. A. A. A., and the latter will consult the National Skating Association. It might do some good—Record.
