WITNESS AGAINST REBELS DISCREDITED

Convict Informer's Record Bared
In Court, the Judge Helping

Trial Held Secretly—Man and Woman,
Prisoners, Known in America,
Make Defense.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 10.—Nicholas V. Tschakovsky and Madame Breshkovskaya, revolutionists, who have many friends in America, were placed on trial today for alleged criminal activity in their case. The court adjourned its sittings at 11 o'clock tonight with the testimony of the prosecution and defense entirely in. The prosecution's whole case rests on the statements of Pateuk, a convict informer, who added nothing to what he had already given in the indictment. The cross-examination, which the judge played a prominent part, brought out Pateuk's criminal record of murder and brigandage. Pateuk has been cited as a crown witness in eight political trials yet to be held.

Tschakovsky's witnesses included business associates from England. The court also admitted as a witness a committeeman of the Labor party, who testified that Tschakovsky had been detected by the Labor party to collect funds in America for the benefit of exiles.

The public was not admitted to the courtroom, the audience being confined to the prisoners, court officers, Tschakovsky's wife and forty gentlemen in plain clothes officers. Judge Krastchenko presided. At the opening of the case denied a motion for separate trials as well as the request by the state for an adjournment of Tschakovsky's case in view of the non-appearance of Pateuk. The political agent of the secret police, Subpan for American witnesses were also denied.

Madame Bracy, daughter of Tschakovsky, was admitted to the courtroom momentarily. The father asked the court to permit Madame Bracy to remain at the trial, but this was refused.

The witnesses, including several prominent radicals and Pateuk, the convict, who appeared in the courtroom, were sworn in by the judge during the preliminaries. Just before the opening of the trial, Madame Bracy, in a letter from Premier Stolypin, in which he declined to revoke the order that the trial be within closed doors.

Tschakovsky pleaded not guilty and Madame Breshkovskaya responded, "I admit that I am a Social-Revolutionist," when the trial began. On the red-covered table were seated the judge and the three class representatives of the nobility, urbanites and peasantry. The presence of Pateuk, the political agent of the secret police, who represented the nobility was construed as a bad omen by the defense, since his son was killed by the terrorists in St. Petersburg. An aide and a peasant elder completed the jury.

Tschakovsky's emotion was marked as he replied to the customary questions. His occupation he said was that of a preacher and the doctrine he expounded was "socialism."

This abutment has been out several years, and an attempt to rebuild $1,000 had been expended, the work being carried away by the high tide after a week of labor.

Sensational Murder Trial Resumed in Venice Court—Alleged Slys Woman
Is Responsible.

VENICE, March 10.—The interrogation of Dr. Naumoff, one of the four defendants accused of the murder of Count Komarowski in 1907, was resumed in the Assize Court today. The other three defendants are Countess Tarnowski, who was the second wife of the Count Komarowski, a well known actress named Frikoff, and her maid, Ellis Perier. The woman had divorced her first husband, Count Tarnowski. Naumoff and Frikoff were lovers of hers. Count Komarowski insured his life for $100,000 in her favor, whereas it is alleged, the indicted the other defendants either to kill him or act as accessories. Dr. Naumoff, it is alleged, fired five shots into the Count's body.

Before the opening of the court for today, Count Orskoff, father of the Countess, met her outside the doors. Both were affected to tears. The Countess, however, soon regained her composure, and followed the testimony of Dr. Naumoff very closely. On Saturday Dr. Naumoff testified to his infatuation for the Countess, and how she had gradually persuaded him to murder Count Komarowski.

Today Naumoff adhered to his original statement that the Countess had ordered him to kill Komarowski. He said he still loved the Countess, although she had turned and reviled him. The judge proceeded to reconstruct the case. His highly dramatic narrative which makes her unanswerable for her acts. He recalled the fact that she has three times attempted suicide.

Suffered
Terrible Pains
From His Kidneys.

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys, and most people are troubled with some kind of kidney complaint, but do not suspect it.

There is no way of getting the kidneys out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

They help the kidneys to flush out the acids and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by old and young.

Mr. Douglas A. McLean, Broad Cove Bank, N.S., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for several months, and suffered with such terrible pains across the small of my back all the time that I could hardly get around. After taking two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken three I was completely cured."

BIG PROFITS IN MOVING PICTURES

Edison, as Inventor, Gets About
$7,200 a Week

Recognized Producers Get an Injunction
Against Unauthorized Traders—Now
Some 13,000 Shows in U. S.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Since the settlement not long ago of the difference between Thomas A. Edison and the Biograph people and various independent moving picture companies, Edison has been receiving about $7,200 a week for the first time in nearly fifteen years. But a few months ago a number of new manufacturers sprung up, and it is charged, both by Edison and Mr. Edison's patents and set out justifying themselves on the ground that, as they alleged, the eleven manufacturers in this country and Europe who since the settlement have been paying Mr. Edison royalties were violating the Sherman anti-trust law. It is declared that Edison and the Biograph people would either break up the settlement or force Mr. Edison to open his patents to the public, or else, if he refused, the eleven manufacturers in this country and Europe who since the settlement have been paying Mr. Edison royalties were violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

It is declared that Edison and the Biograph people would either break up the settlement or force Mr. Edison to open his patents to the public, or else, if he refused, the eleven manufacturers in this country and Europe who since the settlement have been paying Mr. Edison royalties were violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

The president of one of the companies which are paying royalties to Mr. Edison, said yesterday: "You may see at a glance that with the 4,000,000 or 5,000,000 persons who make up the daily attendance of the 13,000 moving picture theatres in this country the question of the supply of these films is a matter of wide interest for the great bulk of the American people who admire the moving picture."

The story has never been told. Mr. Edison has always given his patents to the public, and the public has always given him his achievements almost before he had the patents out and before he had organized any companies to operate under them with the result that in no single instance, I believe, has he reaped the benefits of his own inventions.

Now, until the settlement of the moving picture patent dispute in his favor, which resulted in the union of the Edison and Biograph companies in the Motion Picture Patents Company, the plaintiff in the action, the Biograph people, were not getting anything from his patents. The Biograph people were not getting anything from his patents. The Biograph people were not getting anything from his patents.

THE CAMORRA
A Mysterious Body Whose Power is Always Increasing.

The historian Signor Pascual Villari contributes an article to the "Nuova Antologia" about the resuscitation of Naples, consisting in demolishing old houses and building new ones, which resulted in the increase of the population of the city. He explains at length the mistaken policy adopted towards the improvement of Naples, and in the consequent overcrowding of the slums.

After suggesting the proper remedies for the solution of the housing problem he concludes by giving some interesting particulars about the Camorra, the Italian Government has not succeeded in suppressing it. Signor Villari contrasts the fact that whereas under the Bourbon Government the Camorra was something mysterious which existed only in prisons, now no doubt it originated and flourished and people referred to it in whispers, at present it has extended to all classes of society and is a topic of public conversation.

Evidently the original character of the Camorra has been altered and the Camorra has become a secret mercantile undertaking with the sole object of making money at all costs even if crime has to be resorted to. The Camorra now fosters usury, clandestine lotteries and illegal pawn-broking.

It protects vice, organizes burglaries and actively participates in the legislative and political elections. The power of the Camorra increases daily. The police resort to the Camorra to detect crimes, and private citizens seek its aid to recover stolen property. Protection to prevent the girls from being insulted in the streets, since the police were unable to help him.

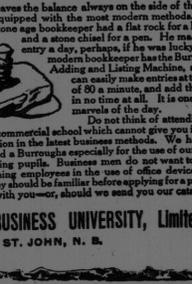

No deputy can be elected in Naples if the Camorra opposes him. All efforts to combat the Camorra are useless according to law no man can be convicted and punished unless he commits a crime, and to belong to the Camorra is not a crime. Thus when recently the police arrested the newly elected mayor of the Camorra they were acquitted, as they had committed no crime. Capt. Fabroni of the carabinieri initiated a war against the Camorra, but he had to give up as being members of the association and the judicial authorities ruled that he had
