

LOCAL STOCKS AWARDED BEST AT WOODSTOCK

Cattle and Horses Judged Today With U. S. Prize Winner Beaten.

Special to The Standard
Woodstock, N. B., Sept. 15.—Every body connected with the Woodstock Exhibition is happy. The third day of the show has passed off with everything working well. During the forenoon the weather was not inviting but despite this handicap 10,000 people were on the grounds today to study the exhibits and learn all that could be learned in viewing the large and varied stock show.

It was Holstein Day for Judge Melnot. He had an array of popular grade before him and it kept him in deep study all the time that justice might be done the different herds. The stockman made one's admiration and held it proof against any other attractions.

Beef Cattle There

The farmers interested in stock breeding have run largely to dairy herds. The exhibition here of a beef herd, the Hereford, by a well known stock man of Maine, has caused much interest among the farmers and they are beginning to think that living as they do so near the border and knowing there is always a good demand for beef stock on the other side of the line there is good profit for them in branching out in this line. The Hereford they saw today is the prize herd of Geo. H. Benn of Houlton and contains several championship winners.

Several sales of Hereford are said to have been made to farmers who are to give some attention to this grade.

Great Horse Show

Some years ago when one wanted a good driving horse one would go to Carleton County where the best was always to be had. Homer's horses, single and in pairs, were in the show ring today. They astonished Carleton's reputation gained years ago and showed that they were, providing, high stepping drivers as well as the pride of the county and can be secured here if one has the price. In draft horses Percherons were brought out for the owner over by Allan of Harland. The Harland horse was superior in every point and Dr. Watson took the trouble to show where he excelled.

Beat the Prize Winner

Here again New Brunswick breeders won out in competition with Arcoot's best. There was exhibited from Houlton a Percheron stallion that has been many times a winner of the coveted first prize at Maine shows. Today he was fairly beaten out by a Percheron owned by Mr. Allan of Harland. The Harland horse was superior in every point and Dr. Watson took the trouble to show where he excelled.

Exhibition there was in full operation today, the last of the exhibitors having got their booth in full swing. It is doubtful if any exhibition can boast of having produced anything that can surpass the display now in full view here.

The agricultural exhibit in the line of vegetables is large and attractive. Most favorable comments are heard on it from all sides.

Special Prize for Work
Other departments worthy of attention are the fancy work and displays by the Dominion Agricultural Department and Women's Institute. In the fancy work corner there is to be found the usual assortment of needle work. The prize introduced this year was the special offer made to ladies over 70 years of age to produce work for this department. There were many entries and not the least of the attractive pieces of work in some fancy needlework done by one lady over 80 years of age. The whole display of fancy work, and there are hundreds of pieces, is contributed by Carleton County ladies.

The Woodstock schools have a most interesting display of work showing what is being accomplished in their vocational department.

CAPTAIN AND PILOT CAUSE OF STRANDING OF THE J. A. MACKEE

Montreal, Sept. 15.—The master of the Canadian Government ship J. A. Mackee, James J. Mackee, loses his certificate for a period of two months and the pilot, Edmond Paget, is suspended for the remainder of the season in connection with the stranding of the vessel on Lark Reef near the mouth of the Saguenay River on August 26th last. This was the finding handed down today by Dominion Wreck Commissioner L. A. Demers. Both master and pilot were found to have been at fault in permitting the ship to proceed through foggy weather at full speed.

Miss Hazel Flewelling has left the city on the Governor Dingley to visit friends in Boston.

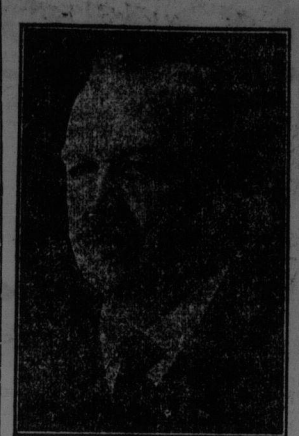

Indigestion, Sour Stomach and Bloating

One never knows till he has suffered himself what another person suffers from indigestion. The French Vital Tablets are wonderful. They assist the stomach to perform its work, they fortify the system, they help the heart to do its work, and we are certain if you will only try them that you will bless the day. As all drug stores. FIVE THOUSAND VISITORS AT ST. STEPHEN FAIR

Woodlands Defeats Home Team in Good Ball by Score of 9 to 2 Runs.

MR. JAMES GIBSON,
President of the Trotting Club at the St. Stephen Fair.

Special to The Standard
St. Stephen, N. B., Sept. 15.—The twelfth annual fair got away to a good start today. The attendance was about 5,000, which is considered good under the circumstances. The exhibits are all in place and of such a quality that the judges are having a hard time in many cases to make the awards.

The pike was in full working order tonight and doing a rushing business. During the afternoon a game of ball between the St. Stephen team and the Woodland aggregation proved interesting to a large number. The visitors were on the long end of a 9-2 score. Some classy ball was played by both teams, but the Woodland twice seemed to have his opponents at his mercy. The St. Andrew's Band was present and their selections added much to the enjoyment of the afternoon.

Tomorrow the St. George team will cross bats with the home team. The judges in the live stock department expect to complete their labors tomorrow morning, and at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a parade of the prize winners in front of the grandstand.

A record crowd is looked for tomorrow, if only the weather man is kind.

GREED COSTS GERMAN POTASH RING $8,000,000

Deal for Fertilizer Saves American Farmer Big Sum—Depreciation of Mark Causes Loss—Large Supply Available at Alsation Mines.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.)
Berlin, Sept. 16.—Eight millions of dollars have been saved for the American farmer by the successful hold out on the purchase of German potash for fertilizer. The German potash syndicate after standing out for months for an exaggeratedly high price for this important constituent of commercial fertilizers and endeavoring to charge American consumers a materially higher rate than the Dutch, British and Scandinavian buyers for the same grade of potash, because the American dollar has a higher exchange value than the currencies of these European countries, finally gave in and abandoned its insistence upon the basis quotation of $125 a ton and consented to consider lower price.

An agreement between German and American interests covering the purchase of the coming year's supplies is now expected to be reached shortly.

The exact price is still a matter of negotiation, but on the basis of figures now under consideration will in all probability run at least 20 per cent below that which the mine owners, super-confident in the strength of

CARLETON WELL SATISFIED WITH CROPS FOR YEAR

Potato Prices Expected to Rise as Part of Maine Crop is Very Light.

Special to The Standard.
Woodstock, N. B., Sept. 15.—The farmers of Carleton county are happy, and they have a right to be. Whenever one is used with crops are talked to him he has a smile of satisfaction, is well pleased with nature's bounteous gifts and is looking forward to a winter fall of hope when the shekels will roll into his strong box in exchange for his farm produce. One well posted on conditions in Carleton says that the country, taken as a whole, has never enjoyed such crops. The grain is especially good, the tops filling out to advantage, and will pass through the threshers' hands, returning full measure. While the hay was not up to last year's yield, yet it is crowding through the cracks of barns like tufts of hair through a tubercle's hat.

Hay Prices High.

Dealers in hay say the price is bound to be high for the baled stock, and the farmer with a surplus of hay is not worrying over the price of sugar. Potatoes, the real money-getter for the great majority of farmers, are turning out an average yield. Here, that is at 95 barrels to the acre. Carleton finds the chief outlet for potatoes in the New England States. At the present time the New England markets are glutted with stock from New Jersey, their early varieties being late in maturing this year, bringing them into competition with the early diggings from Carleton late grades.

This in a measure accounts for the present low prices prevailing here. While the outlook is not encouraging for a high figure in the immediate future, the potatoes, based upon facts drawn from specific examples.

Maine Crop Smaller.

Those equipped with good storage facilities are storing their spuds and will wait for the demand. Another thing to the advantage of Carleton is the falling off in the yield in Aroostook county, Maine, whose potatoes have a preference in Boston. Carleton potatoes, being as good if not better, are sure to secure a ready market. Aroostook cannot handle. The grain will be disposed of to the local trade at the top prices, and all farmers can contract to dispose of their oats now at the market price. This they refuse to do, knowing the price must advance as winter sets in.

THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM

Happily Stopped When He Began to Take "Fruit-a-tives"

3 Ottawa St., Hall, P. Q.
"For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief and thought I would never be able to walk again. One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it. The first box helped me, and I took a second box regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me."

WEST THINKS PROTECTION WON IN FIRST DAY

View is Strengthened by Labor Endorsing Government Policy at Windsor.

Special to The Standard
Windsor, Sept. 15.—The future of the Dominion Council of Agriculture to get down to concrete cases in presenting its low tariff arguments before the Tariff Commission hearings, here has given rise to considerable comment.

The Agrarian leaders were expected to make a strong arraignment of the National Policy based upon facts drawn from specific examples. Instead, Mr. Norman Lambert, who presented their case, contented himself with the reading of a memorandum which was more or less of an academic treatise on the evils of the protective principle, and entirely failed to come to grips with tariff question along direct practical lines.

Farmers Know Weakness

The farmers realize that the weakness in their fiscal policy is the reduction of customs revenue without furnishing an adequate remedy that will meet the enormous annual financial demands of the country. They have shifted ground on this issue several times. Once they favored a land tax, but this was unpopular in their own ranks and has been modified in its scope, and is now to be only applicable to undeveloped lands. To replace the deficit in addition to their modified land tax, they now present a personal income tax, an income tax on profits of corporations and an inheritance tax on large estates. As the first two are now in effect, they would increase the revenue from these sources, not by increasing the levy, but by greater efficiency in collection and, without any proof, they assured Sir Henry Bland that from the personal income tax alone he could raise $200,000,000.

There are two other charges that are worrying the Western Farmers party, the stigma of class and class demands, and the danger of the stagnation or destruction of industry. They protested that, while their demands were those of the farmers, they had the country's welfare at heart, and that in their crusade they were unselfish, as they were working equally for all wage earners. Nor were they demanding legislation which would tend to unsettle and injure Canadian industry.

Labor's Different View

Meanwhile the reports of the Trades and Labor congress report at Windsor, repudiating those who demand free trade and expressing fear for the future of Canadian works in the event of such a policy being adopted, has made considerable of an impression. It is expected that at various industrial centres the commission will hear representations from various labor bodies denouncing that its adequate tariff be maintained so that the standard for Canadian labor be not lowered and environment for Canadian working men be not lessened.

COX INSISTS HE WILL TAKE IRISH CASE TO LEAGUE

Presidential Candidate Claims "Irish Now Could Not Get Hearing in a Squire's Court"

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 15.—In arguing for the League of Nations here last night Governor Cox, in answer to a question, dealt again with the Irish question, reiterating his promise to call it to the attention of the League Council, if he should be elected. "It is not necessary for a League to start justice over there," the Governor's questioner declared, but the candidate replied that Ireland now could not get a hearing "even in a squire's court. Under the League, it can be carried to the bar of public opinion of the world."

Why He Takes Action

Citing Article Eleven of the League covenant, providing for bringing before the council any matter threatening international peace, Governor Cox continued, "The cause of Ireland appeals to many people and it is important that English speaking peoples shall live in harmony. 'It is an irritant and will continue to be under the present order,' he said. 'Promising to bring to council any matter interfering with the right of self-determination of peoples, whether in China, Turkey, Ireland, or anywhere else.'

HALIFAX DOCTOR FINED

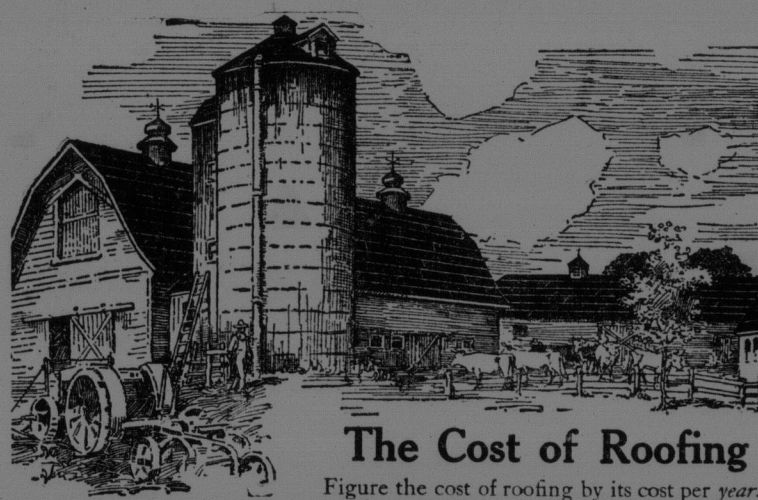

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 15.—In the police court this morning Dr. J. R. Warren was convicted of violating the Nova Scotia Temperance Act by issuing a greater number of certificates for intoxicating liquors than he was permitted by the inspector in chief and fined $50 and $7.50 costs, or thirty days in the city prison.

ECZEMA IN RASH CUTICURA HEALS

On Face and Head, Itched and Burned. Disfigured.

"Last year I became affected with eczema. It started on the cheeks in a rash, and the water spread and made my face sore all around the ear and partly on my head. The skin was very sore and red, and the breaking out itched and burned so that I could hardly help scratching. My face was very disfigured. 'Then I used a free sample of Cuticura. It helped so I bought three cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment, and my face was healed.' (Signed) Miss Martha Berger, Spanaway, Wash., Feb. 11, 1919.

Give Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum the care of your skin. Soap 25c, Ointment 25c and 50c. Sold throughout the Dominion. Canadian Depot: Messrs. Leslie & Co., Ltd., 100 St. Paul St., Montreal. Cuticura Soap shaves without soap.
