

FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Henry Joseph On Coming Election

"If This Government is Returned Canada Will Recover Very Rapidly."

To many who have had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Henry Joseph of Montreal, the following clipping from The Times Weekly of October 18th, is of interest:

"Mrs. Henry Joseph of Montreal, well-known philanthropist, patriot, and social worker in this city, has been paying a visit to this country and is returning to Canada in time for the Federal election."

"Mrs. Joseph has been made president of the first Women's political organization, the Women's National Liberal-Conservative Association, to be recognized by the Canadian Government. While in this country Mrs. Joseph has spoken to large meetings of women in Glasgow and Paisley on Imperial Unity. She is full of enthusiasm for Mr. Meighen's programme and is prepared to line up her members on this side."

"If this Government is returned Canada will recover very rapidly," she said. "Our women's organization should help considerably in the election, for our Canadian women are very sensible. Though the women of Quebec have only a Federal vote they have been educated along political lines, and are inclined to vote to help their men folk without interfering unduly or demanding a special women's platform. Naturally, they want certain things redressed, for certain features of the old code of laws, which are unfavorable to women and children, prevail in the province of Quebec unchanged, though they have been four or five times revised. Married women cannot dispose of their own property without their husband's consent; there is no compulsory education for children and women have not got a provincial or municipal vote. We look to our men to help them, but we do not see our country revive as quickly as possible from the effects of the war, and we believe that the present Prime Minister is indispensable for such recovery."

"Our Association has branches all over the island of Montreal, and we are organizing the different districts so that when the election comes in December we can draw up our women-like regiments to register—and vote. The organization was formed by Mrs. John Scott last January, and Mrs. MacNaughton first approached the Government with the idea of forming it under Government authority. Every month we have a meeting on political education lines, and have some eminent speaker to address us on a political subject."

"Mrs. Joseph has declined to stand for the Federal Parliament, as she feels that no woman with young children, can do justice to both in a public position."

Victorian Order Nurses At Digby

Digby, Nov. 12.—Mrs. Hart, the nurse at the Victorian Order, has taken up her duties in Digby during the last month, made her first report at the monthly meeting of the local nursing committee this week. It shows that a large amount of work has been done and that the engagement of the nurse was fully justified. It was urged by many when this step was being taken that Digby was too small a town to take such a load upon its shoulders but from every way in which the matter can be looked at now it is thought this will prove one of the greatest steps the town has ever taken for the public good.

OUR GRANDMAS RAISED CAIN AND IN HOOPSKIRTS AT THAT

Short Skirts and Bare Knees Do Not Breed Divorces or Erase Blush of Innocence, Vassar Professor Avers, Staunchly Championing the College Girl.

Detroit, Nov. 12.—Grandma's ears would burn if she knew what Burgess Johnson, professor of English at Vassar College, said about her this afternoon.

"Grandma has no right to criticize the modern college girl," declared Prof. Johnson. "She probably has a few Calamity Jane tales tucked away in her memory. I don't think bare knees are any more immodest than the starchy hoop skirts of half a century ago."

"The worldly wisdom which the modern college girl attains is more of an advantage than a disadvantage, and does not erase the blush of youth and innocence."

"The college girl of today is a marrying girl as much as she ever was but she postpones it. During those four years at college she acquires poise, culture and a practical knowledge that enables her to meet situations intelligently."

"The intelligent college girl will help to decrease the great number of divorces in this country. The college girl is in a position to make the most intelligent selection of a mate. She is not forced to marry merely for the sake of a meal ticket because she is qualified to make a living for herself."

"Furthermore, man has made a new discovery in the college girl. The majority of men are no longer seeking butterflies for wives. They have discovered that an educated girl can be a business partner as well as a charming wife."

The last fifty years have brought great changes in the college girl, according to Prof. Johnson. In the old days a college girl was considered a radical. Her social position was jeopardized by her desire for Greek and Latin. The girls in those days used ladylike dumbbells and their athletic field was enclosed with a thick evergreen hedge that no masculine eye could penetrate. Today at Vassar the same field is crowded with admiring men on field days and instead of covering their knees the girls hide their ears.

Peggy Would Wed No. 4 If He's Good One

Three Bad Husbands Enough, She Says, as Joyce Gets His Divorce.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—I have had three bad husbands, but I'll get a good one yet. My next husband will be an American, said Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former British chorus girl, who today received $50,000 and other property valued at close to $1,000,000 from Stanley Joyce, who ceased to be her husband when Judge Sabin signed the divorce decree today.

"I suppose I am forever damned by yesterday's court proceedings," she said. "I have now got a black eye and have to take it. If the Judge gave him a divorce then I suppose I am the black one."

Peggy then made a detailed denial of the charges made by her secretary and her maid at yesterday's hearing. "If I were to marry every one that Mrs. Sawdon said I wanted to, why I would have to get married every day," Peggy was asked regarding the alleged report she is to marry Peter C. Meritt, the son of a former banker in Paris. She denied the report.

"I am not going to marry Peter Meritt. I shall never marry any foreigner. Mr. Meritt is my friend and a dear boy, but he is a nervous wreck over this affair. You know he is a war hero and has only one leg."

"All these reports about me marrying a prince or duke are ridiculous. There's a flock of broken down dukes and earls and princes going around Europe looking for women with money."

"I have close to a million saved up, but I'm not crazy enough to go fifty-fifty with a foreigner. You can also add that when a real red blooded American comes along in good health and he looks good to me I'll take another chance with a fourth husband."

Mrs. E.M. Whittemore Told of Rescue Work

New York Lady Spoke Interestingly to Congregations in Prince Ed. St. Church.

The necessity and success of rescue work carried on amongst the wayward and delinquent women and girls of New York, and her own experiences during the forty-eight years she has devoted herself to the work, formed the theme of interesting addresses delivered by Mrs. E. M. Whittemore, of New York, to congregations at the Prince Edward Street church, yesterday morning, afternoon and evening.

In the morning Mrs. Whittemore delivered a short address at the 11 o'clock services, in the afternoon she spoke at a special meeting for women only, held under the auspices of the King's Daughters' Guild, in the evening she again gave a general address to the congregation.

The large auditorium of the church was comfortably filled at the afternoon meeting by the women of the congregation and members of the King's Daughters' Guild from other churches.

Mrs. Whittemore held her hearers with an account of her life work, her descriptions of the surroundings of vice and sin to which she had to work and the wonderful results obtained in her efforts to win wayward souls back to Truth and righteousness.

The results obtained, had convinced her more and more, said Mrs. Whittemore, of her faith in God. During her missionary life, she said she had succeeded in establishing eighty-five homes which had been the source of rescue for thousands who were now leading lives of virtue, many of whom had since become leaders in the church and society.

Mrs. Whittemore during her stay in the city will conduct a campaign to foster and excite a proper attention to the work to which she has devoted her life.

She will be the guest of Mrs. J. E. Secord, South street, during her stay here.

Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

I was late for supper again last night, and I started to not down at my place as if nothing was the matter, thinking maybe it might make pop think nothing was. Only it didn't, him saying, Never mind sitting down just yet, I didn't distinctly tell you not to dare to be late again for at least a week?

Yes sir, but G pop, goah, it was the funniest thing you awt of him there, pop, till you hear about it, pop, I said.

Well how long do I have to wait? said pop.

Meaning go ahead and tell it if it was so funny. With I started to saying, Well, you see me and Puds Simkins and Leroy Shooter was walking along and G pop, do you know that fire plug down at the corner?

I know it intimately, am I supposed to last now? said pop.

No sir, not yet, I said, well me and Puds Simkins and Leroy Shooter was walking along and we started to see who could spread their legs and jump over the fire plug without touching, and first I did it, and then Puds Simkins did it and then Leroy Shooter did it, and none of us touched so we started to see who could do it with one hand behind their back, and first I did it and then Puds Simkins did it and then Leroy Shooter did it, and none of us did it touch.

In this was I late? said pop, and I said, No sir, not yet, G pop you awt of him there, it certainly was funny, and then we started to see who could do it with both hands behind their back, and first I did it that way and then Puds Simkins did it that way and then Leroy Shooter did it that way and none of us did it touch even that way.

Is that the funny part? said pop, and I said, No sir, and pop said, Well at a ruff estimate how long do you figure it will take you to finish this book?

Only about 30 minutes, I said.

Sit down and eat your supper, said pop.

With I did, the worst part being corn beef and cabbage and the best part being cinnamon bun.

TRIO FIGHT FOR LIFE WITH KING OF THE COBRAS

One Snake Escapes from Cage and Wraps Himself Around Men's Bodies.

New York, Nov. 12.—Three men fought for their lives with two king cobras, the deadliest creature of the jungle, in the reptile house of the New York Zoological Park yesterday. Raymond L. Dittmar, curator, with head keeper Tommy and keeper Taggart, struggled for more than an hour to carry out an operation on the eyes of the two big snakes, while at any moment the slightest lack of success in the hand, slithering of alertness in the eyes, might have meant death inside of two minutes.

The battle came when Curator Dittmar discovered that the methods he used last week, when he removed a film of skin from the eye of the larger cobra, were proving ineffectual and that a more direct method of subjugation would have to be tried. With one eye clear the big cobra's vision was swift as light. He shot out from under the wire screen tunnel that Head Keeper Tommy slipped over his head and struck savagely, lunging against the little door of his cage just as it slammed shut.

The scheme of feeding him a snake to occupy his attention and his jaws while the two were plucking at the skin over his eye failed completely because the cobra, who has gained rapidly in strength and appetite since his arrival at the zoo, bolted his cannibalistic meal like a professional pie eating champion. He swallowed first a blacksnake six and a half feet long, gulping him down completely before the tunnel could be got over his head.

Followed a water snake five feet long, which he despatched with equal rapidity. He is thirteen feet long himself and his mouth reached a length of seven and a half feet. It was immediately after swallowing the second snake that the king cobra knocked the wire tunnel aside, and Dr. Dittmar and his assistants, to rest their nerves, decided to deal with the smaller cobra-time foot long.

They tackled him with their bare hands. Dr. Dittmar opened the door of his cage, waited until the cobra's head rose threateningly and his hood widened out, then shot his arm forward and grabbed the cobra round the neck, while Tommy and Taggart helped him get the writhing body out of the cage. They carried the snake to a laboratory room and held him down on a table while the film was removed from both his eyes.

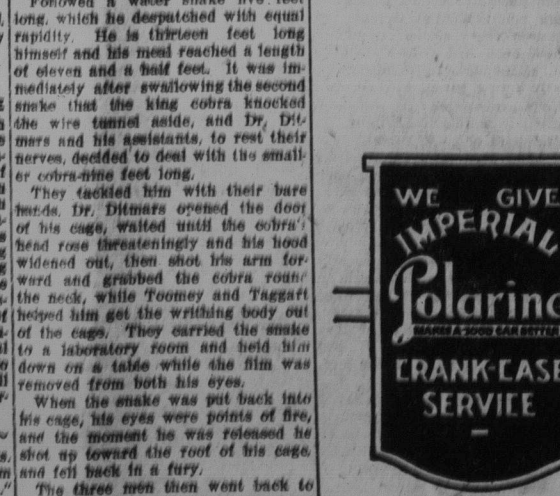

When the snake was put back into his cage, his eyes were points of fire, and the moment he was released he shot up toward the roof of his cage and fell back in a fury.

The three men then went back to the cage of the thirteen footer. They tried to hold him down with a hickory pole, but he slipped out from under and got two-thirds of his body outside the cage. The cobra was wrapped part of himself around each one of the three men, and it was only after the hardest sort of struggle that they were able to get the cobra back inside the cage and shut the door upon him.

Dr. Dittmar is still determined to remove the film from the one bad eye. He will try again in a few days.

Imperial Order Daughters of Empire

Official Organ Calls on All Women Voters in Canada to Exercise Their Franchise.

Schoes, the official organ of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, has an editorial in this month's issue on Voting. It is, in part, as follows:

A Word on Voting.

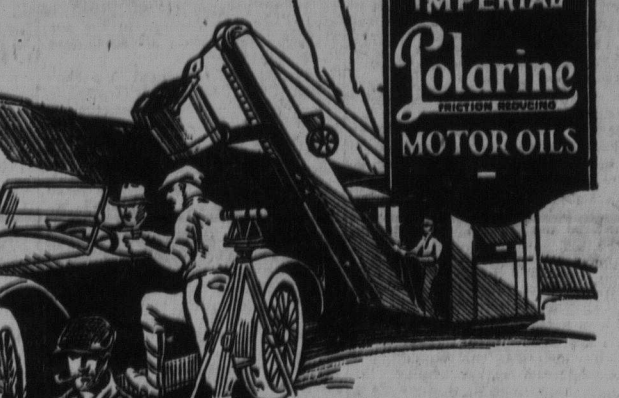

Of the three million electors in Canada half are women and the general election this autumn will be the first one at which women will be allowed to cast a ballot. The franchise in the last election was restricted, there being practically no issue but the war, so that the exercise of the ballot by Canadian women now will be the first in an election fought upon distinctly Canadian issues.

The members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire should not fail to live up to their privileges as voters. By virtue of their association with the Order, they should not be lacking in knowledge of government and legislation. Women should go in to politics as a crusade. Citizenship that votes, is a power either in the hands of men or women and women in astonishing numbers are taking advantage of every offer to teach them the use of the ballot. After all government and housekeeping are not unlike and the great need in both is a proper balancing of values and an ability to interpret the present as an outgrowth of the past.

In politics and public affairs each of us requires to stand on a basis of solid fact and facts are difficult to get to arrange and to comprehend. But they must be obtained if we are to decide any question as to its merits. Women have always been considered the conscience keepers and conscience-quickeners of the world. "Is it right or is it wrong?" is the issue on which we should make our decision, and having made it we must not underestimate the power of the individual.

Dr. Dittmar is still determined to remove the film from the one bad eye. He will try again in a few days.

Obituary

Mrs. Hiram B. White

Very quietly yesterday afternoon Mrs. Mary Adeline White passed away at her residence, 55 Haven St. Although Mrs. White had reached an advanced age her wonderful vitality kept her young at heart and she will be missed, not only by the elder members of the community but by many of the younger ones.

Born in Yarmouth, N. S., she moved to Lubec, Maine, with her parents in early life, coming to St. John shortly after her marriage to the late Hiram B. White who predeceased her only by a little over three months. They were of the same age and both the last surviving members of their respective families. Though of a retiring disposition and finding her greatest pleasure in her home, Mrs. White took an active interest in everything pertaining to the Methodist church of which she had been a member since coming to the city. At the funeral services yesterday the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Fulton, spoke feelingly of the church's loss. Mrs. White is survived by two sons, J. Hunter White of this city and G. Vincent White of Moncton.

W. Tyng Peters

The death of W. Tyng Peters occurred Saturday morning at his home in Robesey. He was sixty-five years of age. Besides his wife he is survived by one daughter at home and by four brothers and three sisters in the west. The funeral will be held from his late residence this Monday afternoon. The body will then be taken to Apohaqui where services will be held in the Church of the Ascension. Interment will be in the cemetery at Apohaqui.

Mr. Peters was a son of the late William Tyng Peters, barrister, of St. John. One of his brothers is Frank W. Peters, a prominent official of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and other members of the family are prominent in the life of the west. Mr. Peters married a daughter of the late George Wilson of Apohaqui. He had been in the employ of the C. N. R. and the old Intercolonial Railway for many years and was well known to the men in the service on this division. A faithful officer, he was also a worthy citizen of Robesey, where his death is sincerely regretted by all patrons of the railway.

St. Dunstan's Second Team Victorious

Appearance This Fall Trimmed Prince of Wales 3 to 0

Special To The Standard.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Nov. 13.—A Saturday afternoon at the C. A. A. grounds St. Dunstan's University second team in their initial appearance on the gridiron this fall defeated P. W. C. College fifteen by a 3 to 0 score. The game was interesting all stages and at many times exciting during the first half the Prince of Wales men were completely outclassed but in the second they sprang surprise and came back strong. The efforts to score however proved fruitless as the Saints showed an ability to defend which although not altogether unexpected was surprising. The team displayed by the Saints was greatly superior to that of their opponents, the back field being well organized, and the forwards playing unusually good game. On the other hand the P. W. C. team was handicapped in this respect as their half line was not at all as well organized as it might be. Their forwards however did not seem to be in the same line of effort that the P. W. C. players made.

The game was played on a particularly muddy and slippery field and it was on this account that Tom Hines failed to go over for a touch in the second half after carrying the ball thirty yards only to slip and fall with P. W. C. man on top of him. In the first half after playing a loose game for the first few minutes the Saints came back to centre for the second half.

In the first period the Saints opened an attack of considerable variety and deception sprinkled with well conceived passes that proved successful to a high degree. The game was well played by the Saints, Nelson and McDonald, McDonald, Wedge and Gifford for the Saints, Nelson and McDonald for P. W. C. was particularly noticeable in the game. The Saints had the P. W. C. backfield went to pieces when their plays would have proved disastrous for the Saints but they were not aware of this and so the pigskins were kept with the ten yard line of their territory almost two thirds of the period. Gifford, a former normal school man who had been in the Saints' line for some time, was well in this half going around the P. W. C. end for several gains which helped materially in getting McDonald to the ten yard line. The half ended with the ball on the normal school ten yard line.

In the second half the University team started out well but the opponents taking advantage of the kick and the play in the Saints' territory for about three minutes. Here the Saints had several perfect chances for a touch but failed utterly. Gifford received the ball after a five yard line scrum and sent it back to a ten yard line kick. The Saints' line of the game the Saints for the game on P. W. C. ground. Hines and Shear played well for the Saints but it was not until the performance of McDonald, Wedge and Gifford that the game was a feature. Phil McDonald was easily the star of the game. He began and his rushing through the Saints' line several large gains brought the P. W. C. rosters to their feet with grand evasion for him. Art McDonald and Nelson were also in the game. The Normal School in this period as they too received their share of honors. But the big business of the Saints was in this half. On the fumble of the Saints in the second half the P. W. C. half line was practically perfect. The victory cry floated across the field uttered from the lusty throats of the Saints' followers led by Thunder Doy. Towards the end of the game the P. W. C. half line was practically perfect and it was only their staying power that kept the Saints from going over this time. On the fumble of the P. W. C. fullback captured the ball and sent it back to centre just as the Saints were about to go over. A large crowd witnessed the game despite the fact that the weather was very biting. Mr. Frank McDonald's efficient refereeing proved most satisfactory in giving sound judgment.
