

The Changes of Life.
All "Balance a Sheet."
Should the changes of life's e'er compel me to
In a Lodge of Freemasons I'll sure find a home;
There the kind smile of friendship shall welcome
me;
And brotherly love give me the welcome of a friend;
There that soul-binding union only is known
That links the poor peasant to the king on his throne,
There the rich and the poor on a level will meet,
And as brothers each other most cordially greet.
When I'm absent from Lodge pleasure courts
me in vain,
As I sigh for the moments of meeting again,
For friendship and harmony only are there, Where we meet on the level, and part on the square.
On the quicksand of life should a brother be thrown,
'Tis then that the kindness of Masons is shown,
As the heart prompts the hand his distress to remove,
For our motto is friendship and brotherly love.
When the Master of all, from his star standing throne,
His great mandate shall issue to summon us home,
May each brother be found to be duly prepared,
In the Grand Lodge above to receive his reward.
