

"Lastly," said Mr. Cahan, "I would facilitate the stringent and careful examination of proposed immigrants at foreign ports so that once an immigrant had been passed at foreign ports he would not be obliged to undergo a second examination at a Canadian port of entry.

"That is my position," concluded the speaker, amid loud applause, "and so far as I personally have political influence, that policy will be carried onto effect".

MEIGHEN PAPERS, Series B (M.G. 26, I, Volume 96)

PUBLIC ARCHIVES
ARCHIVES PUBLIQUES
CANADA