Indeed, we were entirely unaware, at the time of issu-the pamphlet, of the vast number and variety of ments to which the new remedy would apply, having had our own experience for forty years since the discovery of the treatment, and knowing only its effects on our own constitution and our own diseased condition.
Since the first pamphlet was sent out some six months ago, many thousands of afflicted persons, embracing early all the known physical ailments, have made application of this remedy to their individual cases and with almost uniform beneficial results. More than two hundred of these purchasers, in the exuberance of their enthusiasm and delight, having written us letters declaring their complete recovery from their respective ailments, congratulating both themselves and us upon the irvellous advantages of the new treatment.
These unparalleled testimonials we have filed away for keeping, a few pages of which have appeared from month to month in the Microcosm.

Still, a few of those who have purchased the pamphlet have written us that they have experienced difficulties of a kind or another in making application of the treatment to themselves.

kind of syringe to be used. To these we have replied, saying that any form of instrument was all-sufficient so long as warm water was only passed freely and in sufficient simple detail to the ordinary judgment of the person himself or herself, after carefully having read and then studied the pamphlet and the rationale of the treatment.

Some doctors who have adopted the treatment prefer the fountain syringe, which consists of a rubber-bag
