Regina, June 10.—Regina's City Council has adopted a very novel way of dealing with the division of insurance risks on civic buildings, so that all companies having representatives in the cty get a share of the civic business. Civic boildings will be insured to the amount of $528,100. The original intention was to insure the buildings for $638,000, but the financial committee reduced the amount by $109,900. Company First Prospered But Support Dropped Away.

The report of the Insurance Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association submitted for consideration at the annual meeting is almost a complete history of the department showing its evolution from an information-bureau to an insurance brokerage business, and later to a mutual insurance company, and its trials and tribulations as such, until the responsibility was finally taken off the shoulders of the Manufacturers' Association, by Willis, Faber & Company, who recently took over the business of the Centra Canada company.

This report of the committee fully the C. F. U. A., and if it did this existence.

Mutual Company Formed.

A company was, therefore, formed known as the Central Canada Manufacturers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Mr. Heaton was requisitioned to at ms retirement from the insurance obsiness.

All those interested in the success of the World's insurance Congress and he various insurance events that will recede it will realize the value of Mr. lone's activity in its behalf, as he is a nan who has established a national eputation in his work as insurance ommissioner of Utah, and is one of he most influential representations. ommissioner of Utah, and is one of he most influential members of the National Convention of Insurance commissioners, being first vice-president of that organization, and up to he time of his resignation was looked upon as its next president. He as served on practically all of the important committees, and was chairman of the one on publicity. He is reparing a text book on insurance, which he expects to introduce in the ublic schools.

Prior to his appointment as insurance.

Success at First.

In the initial stages business was secured with a readlness that augurd well for the success of the enterprise. Contrary to expectations, however, what might be called the point saturation was soon reached. By he end of the first year the company and virtually as much business, or ts books as it had at the end of the ixth. New lines were acquired with ixth in the company of reparing a text book on insurance, which he expects to introduce in the oublic schools.

Prior to his appointment as insurance commissioner of the State of Itah he had many years of practical experience as an insurance agent, and hose who know him best to-day redize that his sympathies and understanding of the business is with the companies and the field forces in all of those things which make for their cood in the biggest and broadest sense. His removal to San Francisco is largely brought about by his faith in the sood that will come out of this congress and his confidence in the future of San Francisco.

Mr. Done's entering the activities of he executive end of this work will be one of the new active elements in its promotion that will relieve the Commissioner in charge of it of many responsibilities; and will be creative of nany new activities which the limited number of actively employed men has necessarily curtailed. Mr. Heaton Resigns.

By using the earnings of the brokerige business, and by negotiating a ank loan the company was enabled to teep its head above water for some ime, but on December 10th, followins
t vote to continue operations, Mr. Heaon resigned as manager.

Immediately upon his retirement namy propositions from firms and inlividuals were received. As the association's connection was deemed a Audit Company's Books.

An audit of the company's books was beened advisable. For this purpos Mr. Robert Miller, a Montreal charter ad accountant, and Messrs. Willis Faber and Co., Limited, insurance rokers, were called into consultation. The report of Willis, Faber & Co. thowed that were operations to be continued it would be immediately necessary either to call up a heavy assessment or else convert the company not a stock company and secure in the neighborhood of $40,000 paid up applied. The limited business enjoyed by the company in the past did not warrant the belief that either experiment would be justified, particularly in view of the distavor into which insurance stocks had fallen and the general technics of money then prevailing.

Service Uninterputed. hat President W. B. Joyce, contem-plates calling a convention this sumplates calling a convention this summer of insurance companies all over the United States for the purpose of formulating plans to get legislation to have the business of insurance established as commerce, in the meaning of the federal legislation. This action is to be taken in view of the recent Nebraska and Kansas decision, which will it is feared, lead to chaos in the insurance business.

The college has no enemies, however, and Brother Tertuillien has no deep with the first and the started at 11.30 p.m., but there was by confusion among the public who rendered good service in extinguishing the fire in the shed by means of a hose.

Department Was Formed.

As a result of this report, in 1915 a department was formed with Mr. E. I. Heaton as manager. The services the department. Was intended to afford were those of an information bureau, to point out with what companies risks could best be placed, and to give advice as to the standing of insurance companies. At the same time as the fire started in the shed, a fire broke out at one of the back entrances of the college. This combined with the fact that off-elsoaked rags were found in the burning shed is considered a sufficient proof that the fires were not due to the college her. where as to the standing of insurance companies.

Form Brokerage Business.
Evalution of this department quickly took place into an insurance brokerage to the universe of the department to place, by means of charging a small commission, the department was made self-sustaining. There were some, however, who objected to this move.

From the insurance brokerage business, the jump to the formation of a Mutual Insurance Company was not a big one. The antagonism by the Canadian-Fire Underwriters' Association hastened this move.

From the large and widely-scattered membership of the Association it was urged that a sufficient volume of business should be available to yield a fairly stable average for losses, and that from that basis, by the gradual accumulation of a reserve, a com-
