BELGIUM SUFFERED FOR PERFORMING DUTY AND TRUST

High Tribute Paid To Invaded Country By Lloyd George; Michaelis' Boasts To Reichstag Derided By Premier

(Through Reuter's Ottawa Agency) in the East, if their friends in London, July 23.—Speaking at the Belgian Independence Day celebration in Queen's Hall yesterday, Premier Lloyd George said: "We are here to-day on the anniversary of the independence of a people who have rendered such unforgotten service to the independence of Europe. (Cheers.) The world will never forget the service rendered by Belgium to international rights. (Cheers.) Half of the great battles of Europe during recent centuries have been fought on your soil. Belgium is the gateway between the Central powers and the west. A modern statesman has devised a plan, if I may use the phrase, of putting Belgium out of bonds and thus preserving Europe by making it impossible for an aggressive France to destroy Germany or an aggressive Germany to destroy France. (Cheers.)

"The treaty of the neutrality of Belgium was one of the bedrocks of public law of Europe. Belgium was the gatekeeper of European liberty, the highest, most onerous and most dangerous trust ever imposed on a people. Faithfully and loyally they have the Belgian people discharged their trust to Europe. "If I may quote from an historic document, a document which is part of the history of the world, namely the reply of the Belgian government to the German ultimatum, there is nothing that more clearly states not merely the duty of Belgium to Europe, but the way in which Belgium discharged that duty: 'The Belgian government, if they were to accept the proposals submitted to them, would sacrifice the honor of the nation and betray their duty toward Europe.' A great answer, greatly kept, too.

"What were the German proposals? They were the proposals of an assassin who approached a man and said: 'Open unto me your gates so that I may take your peaceful neighbor at a disadvantage.' What manner of mind must men possess when they suggest such infamy to anybody? Belgium, as an honorable people, rejected it with disdain, and great be their status forer in the history of the world.

Suffers for Duty Done "But Belgium has suffered for performing her high duty and her high trust. She has suffered the unbridled savagery of the conqueror; the men who are committing outrages in France and Belgium that Attila had not the refined cruelty to devise; the pirates of the high seas who are sinking unarmed merchant vessels and passenger ships and drowning women and children. Their fury has been concentrated for three years upon Belgium—three years of oppression, of humiliation, of servitude, of anxiety, of agony, but at the end, Belgium will be greater than she ever was. Her sacrifices will be her discipline, her fortitude will be her redemption. In the words of her heroic king: 'A country that is defending itself is respected by all; that country will not perish.'

Three Years of Agony "Three years, even of agony, are not long in the life of a nation, and the delivery of Belgium is assuredly coming. But when it comes that deliverance must be complete, France owes it, Britain owes it, Europe owes it, the civilization of the world owes it to Belgium that her deliverance shall be complete when it comes.

"But what have we in the way? There is a new Chancellor in Germany. The Junkers have thrown the old Chancellor into the wastepaper basket with his scrap of paper, and they are lying there side by side. (Laughter and cheers.) You will not have long to wait before Junkerdom will follow. What hope is there in his speech of peace—I mean an honorable peace, which is the only possible peace? "Not Ministers, but Clerks "It is a dexterous speech, a facing all ways speech. There are phrases for those who earnestly desire peace, many of them; but there are phrases which the military powers of Germany will understand, phrases about making the frontiers of Germany secure. That was the phrase that annexed Alsace-Lorraine; that was the phrase that has drenched Europe in blood since 1814; that is the phrase which, if they dare, will annex Belgium and Courland; that is the phrase which will once more precipitate Europe into a writer of blood within a generation unless that phrase is wiped out by the statesmanship of Europe.

"There were phrases for men of the democratic mind in that speech as many. He was going to call men from the Reichstag to co-operate with the government; they were even to get offices, the men of all parties. That was for the democratic sentiment in Germany. But there were phrases to satisfy the Junkers that the others meant nothing. There was to be no party with Imperialistic rights, as they will call the men from the Reichstag to offices, but they will not be Ministers, but clerks. (Laughter.)

Huns Await the Allies "It is thus the speech of a man waiting on the military situation; this, our Allies—Russia, Great Britain, France and Italy—all of them, bear that in mind. It is a speech that may be made better by improving the military situation, and if the Germans win in the West, if they destroy the Russian army we are now making arrangements for a programme of cultivation that will make the supply for 1918 secure, even if our losses are increased. These are rather distressing facts, but we have to mention them. We cut down our imports very considerably, by three million tons, in order to save our ships.

Don't Minimize U. S. "The people of this country have not yet been called upon to face privation comparable with those which the German population have endured for nearly two years. And do they really imagine that the British people are less capable of sacrifice for their free institutions than the German people are for their autocratic institutions? And we have got that power of sacrifice in reserve when the harvest of 1918 fails. I do not want them to harbor any delusions that they are not going to see Great Britain out of this fight until liberty is re-established throughout the world. 'But,' says Michaelis, 'America has no ships, as a matter of fact, no army, and when the British army has no ships to bring them across the sea.' And so he says too much about America.' He does not know America. He knows America in a title, but he does not know Britain. They are going to make exactly the same mistake about America as they made about Great Britain. They said we would not fight; if we would not, we would not have an army, we could not raise one. They need not worry about Great Britain. I think they have discovered their mistake about us and now they are just going through the same process with America."

Issues Clear Daily "I want to put this to them. If Britain, not a very large country, while she is maintaining and equipping and arming up equipment for an army of millions in the field and in reserve in full fighting array while maintaining the largest navy in the world, can organize herself in the third year of an onerous war to turn a fleet of 100 vessels into a shipping line, is America, with three times the population of this country, with endless natural resources, going to be beaten merely because she puts forth no effort to do so? I think she would not say it. I predict it is dangerous to indulge in predictions, and in war when changes are cyclonic and so dangerous, but I am going to predict that it will not be long before Chancellor Michaelis, if he survive will form a different opinion and make a different speech. And that is the one we are waiting for—that is the one we are fighting for. The issues are put clearer day by day. Belgium, with sure instinct, understood these in the first hour of the contest. You made no mistake about what this meant for you, for France, for Britain, for the European world, for humanity, for all generations. It is to your glory that you jumped to the right conclusion.

Free Germany "Free Germany. The other German newspaper said the other day that the Germans were fighting for the freedom of the fatherland, for the freedom of the fatherland, for the freedom of the fatherland. The freer Germany is, the better we are. Those who are enemies of freedom and independence in Germany are our enemies and not the allied powers. We prefer to free Germany. We could make peace with a free Germany, but a Germany dominated by autocracy we cannot make any terms of peace with. (Cheers) When they were fighting perhaps in the East they had some specious pretext for appeals of that kind to their own people. They have none for that. It is the appeal of a man who has become a great despot, who is not fighting to extend his own territory. It has actually degenerated into an appeal for independence which is prepared to concede independence to a nation which has once under the Russian flag. Since then the last shades of pretext on the part of Germany that she is fighting for her freedom and independence has completely vanished, if she ever had it. It has now become a struggle between two definite groups, one a democratic group, a group of democratic freemen, another a group of nations, governed by military autocracy, Germany, Austria, Turkey, Bulgaria, and the Balkan states—that was the whole thing.

Tribute to Kerensky "There has been a more significant change in the attitude of Michaelis for Bethmann-Hollweg, and that is the change that was announced a few hours ago, of that Russian young man, who succeeded to the leadership of the Russian democracy. "In coming to the great struggles on the East and on the West, every German soldier must know in his heart that if he fall he will be dying for military autocracy in fighting against the confederation of free peoples. On the other hand, every Belgian soldier, every French soldier, every Russian soldier, knows that he is risking his life for the freedom and independence of his native land. Every British, every American, every Portuguese soldier knows that he is fighting side by side with others for international right and justice throughout the world, and it is the growing conviction, more, even, than the knowledge of our vast unexhausted resources, which gives them all heart and gives them heart in fighting to the end, knowing full well that the future of mankind is our trust to maintain and to defend." (Loud cheers.)

FIFTEEN INNINGS Chicago, July 23.—The Chicago White Sox from the Boston Red Sox tied fifteen innings to a 5 to 5 tie here to-day, the game being called because of darkness. Both sides scored one run in the fourth, but the Sox took the lead in the fifth on Walsh's triple to right field. The White Sox tied the score on a triple by Risberg and a high throw by Scott on Lynn's grounder to get Risberg at the plate.

SEVERE RHEUMATIC PAINS DISAPPEAR Rheumatism depends on an acid in the blood, which affects the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain. This acid gets into the blood through some defect in the digestive process. Hood's Sarsaparil, the old-time blood tonic, is very successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It acts directly, with purifying effect, on the blood, and improves the digestion. Don't suffer. Get Hood's today.
