Her Anniversary.

A TOUCHING LITTLE STORY OF A YOUNG ENGLISH WAR WIDOW—A TRAGEDY BEING ENACTED—MANY TIMES.

'Can you believe that there is a war on,' I asked my companion. 'Somewhere, high in the perfect sky, a lark was singing of its joy; tall marguerites proudly quivered over the green and gold of the meadows; the scent of hay was wafted from adjoining fields like a faint yet happy sigh over departed glories; in the distance cattle lazily browsed; a tiny stream murmured under the gentlest bridge, which, as it crossed while the sun touched everything with its magic wand.

'Surely there can't be a war on,' I murmured again, drinking in the quiet beauty of the scene. 'You've only to look at us to see that there is,' said Lillian. 'Ua?'

'Well, we should not be here by ourselves unless there was a war on, should we?' she answered practically. 'I never came the favorite walk with you Harry, and you always had Edward with you. Why, it was just two years ago to this very day that we made up the hay making party,' she went on.

'Rogery we recalled happy memories of days that seemed so very long ago—why is it we all go over these pre-war days so eagerly?—until a white-lead figure coming over the field claimed our attention. 'Slacker!' we cried out presently, as we laughingly recognized and greeted the newcomer.

'Whoever would have thought of meeting you here at this hour of the morning,' she replied. 'We had an occasional day's tramp over the old familiar ways the best antidote to worry and the biggest soothe in the world,' we told her, 'and it sends us back to business with new energy for work and a new optimism about the war.'

'Seems strange, doesn't it,' she said after a silence, 'that we three should be here by ourselves.' 'War time,' answered Lillian, with a strange note of finality in her voice, as the same thoughts ran through all three minds.

After we had asked after and discussed the brother, relatives and friends within the war zone. Let us pretend this is one of the good old days. 'We are going five miles before we stop for lunch. Come along!' 'Not to-day,' she said quietly. 'Why ever not?'

'I'd just love to come in the ordinary way—but not to-day,' she reiterated. 'To-day I must go alone—I have planned every step of the way. 'Oh, you understand, don't you?' She came nearer as she noted our surprised looks. 'To-day is my first anniversary.'

The First Line of Defense.

Pure blood is the body's first line of defense against disease. Strong healthy blood neutralizes the poisons of invading germs themselves. That is why many people exposed to disease do not contract it. Those whose blood is weak and watery and therefore lacking in defensive power are most liable to infection. Everybody may observe that healthy, red blooded people are less liable to colds and the grippe, than pale, bloodless people. It is the bloodless people who tire easily, who are short of breath at slight exertion, who have poor appetites, and who wake up in the morning as tired as when they went to bed. While women and girls chiefly suffer from bloodlessness the trouble also affects both boys and men. It simply affects girls and women to a greater extent because there is a greater demand upon their blood supply.

To renew and build up the blood there is no remedy can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They tone up the entire system, make the blood rich and red, feed and strengthen starving nerves, increase the appetite, put color in the cheeks, give refreshing sleep and drive away that unnatural tired feeling. Plenty of sunlight and wholesome food will do the rest.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., New York, N. Y.

The London Pall Mall Gazette is responsible for this—'Flying low over the G. m. m. lines, a British aviator was soon in the midst of a whirling swarm of German bullets. The German aviators were firing wildly up, hoping to wing the flyer or pierce his gasoline tank. The aviator, a cool youngster, looked down, saw a bullet slowly ascend the last feet of its maximum height. It stopped dead still for the smallest fraction of a second. The aviator reached quickly, grabbed the bullet and put it in his pocket.

'There are places in Canada where bread is selling at 7 1/2 cents per pound,' says the Canadian food controller. 'There are other places where it is selling at 12 and 14 cents and there are no possible excuses, except that someone is in control of the markets and they dictate what they like.'

T. H. Molloy, secretary of the provincial bureau of labor, estimates that 20,000 harvesters will be needed for Saskatchewan this season.

'I simply could not go to the office to-day, and I could not keep in the house. I wanted to be somewhere where I could talk if I wanted to, where I could laugh if I liked, and where I could cry when I liked. So, I have dressed myself in the clothes he liked me in best, I am passing through the places he liked most, and somehow, I think he will be very near me.'

For once we were unembarrassed by the tears that fell for the boy and companion we had all known and loved, but his wife shed no tears; she picked up her handful of buttercups—the flowers we always teased him about liking best—and went on her way.

Over the meadow we watched her go, stooping every now and again to add to her nosegay. Almost she looked like one of the marguerites herself with her slender girlish figure, her white floating garments, and her burnished head.

A Woman's Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

Philadelphia, Pa.—'I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have best flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough.'—Mrs. MARGARET GRASMAN, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—'I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it.'—Mrs. GEORGE A. DUNBAR, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Krie, Pa.—'I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me.'—Mrs. E. KIRKLAND, 931 East 94th St., Erie, Pa.

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving women's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Such letters are received and answered by women only and held in strict confidence.

It is unlawful to export out of the Province at any time any of the protected animals or birds; provided that the holder of a license may export any moose lawfully killed by him. A tag issued with the license and bearing the name and address of the licensee must be attached to the head or other portion of a moose exported by a non-resident licensee.

It is forbidden to export skins of any fur-bearing animals without first obtaining a permit from a game official who shall have examined such skins, and there shall be attached to the package containing such skins a tag or label on which the Warden shall have certified over his signature that he has examined such package and issued such permit. This permit shall, immediately after the shipment of the package, be returned to the Chief Game Commissioner.

MISCELLANEOUS.
No non-resident of the Province, whether holding a license or not, shall enter any forest or other place frequented by game for the purpose of hunting, fishing or camping without being accompanied by a licensed guide.
No person shall interfere with or obstruct any Warden, Constable or other officer in the discharge of any duty under the Game Act.

It is unlawful to kill or hunt any game on Sunday.
Any dog found hunting or tracking moose, caribou or deer, may be destroyed by any person.
Fines imposed for violations of the Game Laws vary in amount according to the nature of the offence. If a fine is not paid the person fined is liable to be imprisoned one day for each dollar of the fine. For further information regarding penalties see section 105 of the Game Act.

Eczema on Baby's Ear.
Mrs. F. Clarke, Belmont, Man., writes:—'My baby had eczema on her ear. The sore was very bad and nothing seemed to do her much good. Hearing of the remarkable cure Dr. Chase's Ointment was making, we sent for some, and after the third application the sore began to heal. I am glad to say that it is quite well now and we give the credit to Dr. Chase's Ointment. We cannot recommend this preparation too highly.'

An anti-conception orator in Montreal declared the other night that there were three things which needed smashing up—the British Empire, the Canadian Confederation, and the Montreal Gazette. It is a pity that a more newspaper is honored by inclusion in such distinguished company. But the three have been going strong for a good many years, and the future should have something in store for them all.—Edmonton Bulletin.

a Present for the Soldier

YOU can depend on the mothers to think of the little things which will be appreciated by the boy in the camp or trenches. And one article which many a mother has given her boy at the last moment is Dr. Chase's Ointment.

There are so many ways that Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful to the soldier that it becomes invaluable to him. It is used for chafing and skin irritation resulting from heavy clothing and equipment. It brings comfort to sore, scalded feet after the long march. Applied to wounds it prevents blood-poisoning and heals the skin. And it should never be forgotten that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment obtainable for piles, a distressing ailment which results from contact with the cold earth, whether in camp or trench.

The Canadian soldiers have been well supplied with this standard ointment, and, judging by their many letters of appreciation, there seems to be few things more keenly appreciated. Just try it in the next parcels you send to the front.
