THE VISION OF MARRATON.

Felices errore suo—

Happy in their mistake.

The Americans believe that all creatures have souls, not only men and women, but mules, vegetables, hay, even the most inanimate things, as sticks and stones. They believe the same of all the works of art, as of knives, boats, looking-glasses; and that as any of these things perish, their souls go into another world, which is inhabited by the souls of men and women. For this reason they always place by their dead friend a bow and arrows that he may make use of the souls of them in the other world as he did of their wooden bodies in this. How absurd soever such an opinion as this may appear, our European philosophers have maintained several notions altogether as improbable. Some of Plato's followers in particular, where they talk of the world of ideas, en-
