AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaint is so infectious in its attack as the one affecting the throat and lungs, and none so tried with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unseasonable exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has won for itself a high reputation for its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung disease, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured. "I had a terrible cough, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed several nights without sleeping. The doctor gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my cough, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. I am now well, and have no return of my cough. I am a permanent cure, and am satisfied with your CHERRY PECTORAL. HENRIE FAIRBANKS, BROOKFIELD, N. H., July 15, 1882.

Comp. - A Mother's Testimony. "While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup. It seemed as if he would die from strangling. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and the little patient was breathing freely. The cough subsided, and he was well again. I am a permanent cure, and am satisfied with your CHERRY PECTORAL. MRS. E. W. GORNEY, PALMER, TEXAS, April 22, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to my family for several years, and do not hesitate to recommend it in the most emphatic terms for coughs and colds to have ever tried." Lake Crystal, Minn., March 12, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. My name is J. W. GIBSON, Brooklyn, Minn., April 22, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung trouble. J. W. GIBSON, PALMER, TEXAS, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not advanced beyond the control of medicine.

AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. It is light and cool, and does not clog the scalp, and is free from any irritating or poisonous ingredients.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. It is unequalled in its effects on the hair, and is the only preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction.

MR. C. F. BRIDGES writes from Erie, O., July 1, 1883: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and in fact every one who lives in the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

MR. O. A. FAYOURET writes from St. John's, N. B., June 1, 1883: "I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for several years, and it has done for me what no other preparation could do. It has restored my hair to its natural color, and has cured my scalp of dandruff and itching. I can truly say that it is the best preparation I ever used for the hair. I have now a full head of hair, and I am satisfied with your preparation. I have now a full head of hair, and I am satisfied with your preparation. I have now a full head of hair, and I am satisfied with your preparation."

MR. J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the Merchandise (Boston) writes: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. It restores the hair to its natural color, and has cured my scalp of dandruff and itching. I can truly say that it is the best preparation I ever used for the hair. I have now a full head of hair, and I am satisfied with your preparation."

Roman Intelligence.

ROME, Oct. 27. Mgr. Griver, Bishop of Perth, Australia, who was received on Tuesday morning by his Holiness, is about to return to his diocese.

The report which has been circulated in various journals, to the effect that the Cardinal Secretary of State had addressed to the Nuncios accredited to the different Governments, a diplomatic note concerning the recent Italian pilgrimage, is denied by the Moniteur de Rome, which says no such note has been sent up to the present time. The same journal also denies the report that the post of Sub-Archbishop of the Holy See has been provided.

The address of full adherence to the teachings of the Holy See and of absolute devotion to the Sovereign Pontiff, was voted and signed by the Italian Catholics assembled in Congress at Naples, was presented to his Holiness Leo XIII. by the Cavalier Paganuzzi and Dr. Venturoli, Vice-Presidents of the Permanent International Committee of Catholic Congresses. The Holy Father received with the deepest satisfaction this new testimony of filial attachment of the Apostolic Benediction to all the signers of the address.

Special and private audience was granted on Monday evening by his Holiness to his Eminence Cardinal Agostini, Patriarch of Venice. On the same day, Sr. Alberto Trociani, Vice-General and Archbishop of the Cathedral of Orleans, and the Abbe Bouillet, of the same diocese, were received in private audience by his Holiness. On Wednesday morning Prince Francois d'Arberg had the honor of being received in private audience by the Holy Father, after which the Prince went to pay his respects to Cardinal Jacobini, Secretary of State.

The mission of Milanese and Micronesian, entrusted to the Missionaries of the Sacred Heart, began under happy auspices. A recent telegram from Sidney, New South Wales, to the effect that the Propaganda, his sentiments of profound regret, and offered a first contribution in order to replace the objects required in worship. The Holy Father, on learning of the disaster, directed Mr. Berini to write to Father Jonet, expressing his great sorrow.

Considerable dissatisfaction is expressed in Rome, by Liberals as well as by Catholics, at the decision taken by the Minister of Public Instruction, Signor Guido Baccelli, to erect a monument to Victor Emmanuel in the centre of the Pantheon. The late king is buried in a niche on the left of the high altar, and the wall close to the place of sepulchre is hung from roof to floor with wreaths and garlands. As it is proposed to organize a great national pilgrimage (?) to the tomb of this defunct monarch on the 9th of January next, it has been thought the crowds expected on that occasion might have some difficulty in approaching the object of their pilgrimage. Hence the Minister has sought communications from "all parts" concerning the delay in constructing a tomb to Victor Emmanuel, and he begs the Minister Baccelli to remove, with all promptitude, the place of sepulchre and the centre of the "temple," where it will constitute "an altar for Italians," and be consecrated to the love of country. The Minister of Public Instruction, Signor Guido Baccelli, should be invited to prepare a design for the monument. A porphyry urn will contain the royal remains, and this urn will be supported by four lions couchant; and these again will rest on a base, to which steps will lead, and on which will be placed the various laudatory inscriptions which the fertile genius of the Minister will dictate. Signor Baccelli has sought the permission or advice of the Cardinal Vicar with respect to the important change in the arrangement of the Pantheon, which, since the 6th century, is a church dedicated to Santa Maria ad Martyres. Catholics await the Cardinal's action. Others complain of the proposed act as aesthetically gross, declaring that such a monument is entirely out of harmony with the character of the Pantheon, and is sure to render it unsightly, and however able Monteverde may be, he is unable to harmonize a modern tomb with the surroundings it will have on fire at sea. Several journals refer to the act of the Emperor Augustus when he refused to allow Agrippa, the founder of the temple, to place his (Agrippa's) statue within its walls, and contrast it with that of Baccelli's intention towards Victor Emmanuel.

Mr. Gladstone has held the office of Premier for a longer period than it has been held by any statesman except one in the course of Queen Victoria's reign. The exception was Lord Palmerston, who was Prime Minister for nine years and three months. Next after Mr. Gladstone comes Lord Beaconsfield, who was Premier six years and ten months. After him comes Lord Melbourne, whose length of office was one month less than that of Lord Beaconsfield. Earl Russell was the next in order, his Premiership lasting six years and two months; and next comes Sir Robert Peel, who was Premier for four years and ten months. The other names who held the reins of Government under the present sovereign were the late Earl of Derby, whose term of office lasted three years and six months, and the Earl of Aberdeen, who served two years and two months.

Grand Concert at Rustico.

On the night of Thursday, the 1st inst., a Concert, in aid of the Convent, was given in the Hall of the Farmers' Bank, Rustico, by the Choir of St. Augustine's Church and a few of their friends. It was conducted by Mr. Donatien Gallant, the efficient Choir-Master of the Church, to whose labor and zeal the success of this entertainment is principally due. No sooner were the doors thrown open than a continuous stream of the parishioners and others began to fill the Hall, until every available seat was occupied. The Concert began at 7 o'clock, and for upwards of two hours the large audience was delighted by a varied succession of solos, duets and choruses. Mrs. Pinard and Stanislas Blanchard, Esq., ably presided at the organ. Where all did so well and merited so much applause, it would almost seem invidious to particularize, but it is no derogation from the merits of others to say that the singing of Mrs. S. Blanchard, the Misses Deneault and Gallant, and of Dr. Gallant, was particularly pleasing, and called forth the hearty and repeated plaudits of the dense throng of listeners. I need not say anything regarding the manner in which the Choir-Master himself, Mr. Gallant, performed his part, for his enthusiasm in the cause of music, his magnificent voice and his cultivated and correct taste are already well known; and on this occasion he sustained his reputation. A much-stirring drama, well acted by a few of the Convent pupils, formed a pleasing part of the programme, which was as follows:

1. Laudes Patrie—Solo and Chorus—Words by Rev. C. O'Brien, D. D.; Music by Rev. Assoc. Trudelle.

2. The Rite—Chorus—Music by David Ellen (Canada).

3. Beautiful Isle of the Sea—Solo—Music by Rev. C. O'Brien, D. D.

4. Vive Leon XII.—Chorus—Music by Rev. C. O'Brien, D. D.

5. La Brise du Soir—Solo—Mrs. S. Blanchard.

6. Le Secret du Village—Drama—Part I. The Banquet—Chorus—Dr. Gallant.

7. Matrimonial Sweet—Duet—Donatien Gallant and Libby Gallant.

8. Sunrise—Chorus—Music by Rev. C. O'Brien, D. D.

9. The Tar's Farewell—Solo—Adams.

10. Good Night—Chorus—Donatien Gallant.

At the close of the Concert the large audience quietly dispersed to their respective homes, evidently very highly pleased with this enjoyable and very successful entertainment provided for them by the praiseworthy and unselfish efforts of Mr. Gallant and his worthy associates. The sum received on this occasion—seventy dollars—was handsome considering the low price of tickets.

AUDITOR: Rustico, Nov. 8, 1883.

"Irish, After All."

In the course of an address lately delivered before the Catholic Union of Chicago, Monsignor Capel said:

"He had been pleased during the evening to notice that so many of those present to him bore names that suggested the fact that he was Irish, and he felt that it was not a formal or official, but a family gathering, brought together by charity, intellectuality and religion."

His mother bore an Irish name, and that no man there could find one more Irish, and her brogue was so rich that it tones would do her heart's good. It was Fitzgerald. Who could beat that? The tender care that Irish mother had had the foundation in him for not only faith, but strong conviction, and when he was addressing large and light gatherings of the people, he was always a stranger in America, and his heart was not homesick, but it would go back to his old mother and acquire strength to resist temptation. He was proud that the Irish people were the mouth-pieces of the Catholic religion; and the honor done him in this country as an official representative of the Pope would go across the water as an expression of the devotion of the Irish people in America to one who, though thousands of miles away, was present with them in the faith."

Fashion Notes. The blouse bodice ranks next to the Camargo bodice in popularity. Newmarket jackets, both long and short, are again in high vogue. Hoop earrings, set with diamonds and other jewels, are very fashionably worn. Veils are worn short, barely reaching below the eyes, and are omitted altogether for those whose complexions do not need protection. Thick, soft chenille in circles makes the crown of new bonnets with velvet or feather brims, and there are chenille ruffles that border the front. Very becoming suits for boys of 3 or 4 years old are in different varieties of flannel and have blouse waists laced with silk cord and full-plaited skirts. The fashionable silvery gray is called summe de bois, or wood smoke, to distinguish it from the brown London smoke; the new red is rouge anglaise, or blood red. To freshen up last season's dresses loose scarfs of Sarah draped like a Molire vest to fall in two puffs are used; they have a velvet or lace collar, and are easily adjusted to a plain waist. A stylish dress for a little girl is in plain Gilbert sacking, with side-plaited skirt. The waist is in the form of a cutaway jacket, with pockets, collar and cuffs of velvet, while the skirt is bright colored plaid. Fichus of fescue lace and ruby velvet reaching from the neck to the belt brighten up dull-colored dresses. Full box-pleating of the lace springs out of the high standing collar of the dress, which is made of velvet.
