

Farm and Garden.

A cow that will not respond to liberal feeding by an equal increase of milk is not worth keeping.

A butter maker fails unless the cows are properly fed, therefore there must be the right sort of food.

The qualities of the Devon cattle may be referred to three points; their working, fattening and milking.

In the autumn there is no forage on food of any kind better for milk cows as a help of failing pasture, than pumpkins.

If a cow has kind treatment from the time she is a calf up to maturity she will hardly ever be inclined to show any temper.

For keeping the stables where milk cows are sheltered and fed clean and sweet, fine dry earth is superior to anything else.

For cows, carrots are better than any other variety of roots, and if fed till grass comes again there need be no loss of quality in the butter.

One of the most prominent producers and shippers of milk for an Eastern market feeds his cows exclusively on corn meal and bran, in the proportion of equal parts by weight.

The highest profits will be found by those who feed with an unstinted hand and otherwise surround their flocks with the completest comforts consistent with their surroundings.

The best root crop is where the soil was deeply tilled and then deeply turned under, the surface manured and thoroughly worked. And it is the same with wheat, which needs depth.

The average feeder is more apt to err on the side of deficiency than by an over supply. Shelter from the cold and drifting rains of late fall and early winter is almost as necessary as liberal feeding.

A little feed to cattle intended for beef will be a great help towards fattening them for late fall or early winter, and the same with hogs as they will fatten much faster in warm weather than in the cold of winter.

The meaning of the word "soiling," as understood among cattle feeders, is the practice of confining animals to the stable or small lots, and feeding them on green clover, corn, grass, etc., cut as needed, and not allowing stock to graze on the ground where the food grows.

Mutton is very healthful meat food. It is the cheapest meat for the farmer. Its cost is comparatively small, as the fleece from a good breed will pay for its keeping. There is an additional profit in the lambs. When the animal is killed at home there is the pelt as well as the droppings.

Those engaged in growing strawberries on a large scale plant at both seasons, but the practice of fall planting is gaining favor. The plants set in autumn have a chance, as gardeners say, "get hold of the soil," their period of probation being past, they start and grow on as soon as spring opens.

Farmers who have comfortable barns and stables for their stock should during the dry season in the fall and before freezing commences gather from the roads and any source of supply that are convenient and store under cover enough enough pulverized dry earth to keep the stalls and sleeping apartments of their stock well supplied through the winter.

Charles Dickens has said: "That portion of the occupation of a farmer which pays best for cultivation is the little piece that lies within the ring fence of his own skull."

GATHER THE LEAVES.—The leaves that fall from the trees in autumn may be turned to good account if they are gathered and used for litter in the stables. They furnish an excellent absorbent for liquid manure and are of themselves a valuable fertilizer, as they contain large percents of potash, phosphoric acid and other essential elements of plant food. To gather the leaves rapidly a long-headed rake provided with stout teeth should be used, and the leaves loaded into a cart or wagon, and taken to a place where they may be kept dry and handy for use. Besides the direct value of the leaves, the raking of them from the dooryard, for example, gives it a neat appearance, when it would otherwise look ill kept.

UNPROFITABLE ANIMALS.—As the season draws to a close, the farmer should know enough about his farm animals to be able to cull out any that have not been profitable. If a poor cow has been in the dairy through the summer, he should now decide to not keep another year, and begin to fatten her for beef. In the same way the flock of sheep may be improved by "weeding out" the inferior animals, allowing only the good, profitable ones to reproduce their kind. By thus casting out inferior animals the stock of the farm will be continually improving; while by breeding only from the best, and keeping only those animals that pay, much may be done to raise the standard of all our domestic animals.

Travellers have frequently noticed that they get the poorest dinner at railway stations where the dinner-gong sounds loudest.

Words of Wisdom.

Work to-day, for you know not how much you will hindered to-morrow.

The good are better made by ill. As odors crushed are sweeter still.

"What is eternity?" was a question once asked at the Deaf and Dumb Institution at Paris, and this beautiful and striking answer was given by one of the pupils: "The lifetime of the Almighty."

If you have any real greatness you won't go far before the world will find it out. Small men insist that they are great, while great men can afford to keep still. The Talmud says that "all kinds of wood burn silently except thorns, which crackle and call out, 'We, too, are wood.'"

"See," said Luther one evening when money to supply his wants was scarce, "see, that little bird has chosen its shelter, and is about to go sleep in tranquility. It has no disquiet, neither does it wonder where it shall rest to-morrow night, but it sits in peace on its slender branch, leaving God to provide for it."

This quotation from one of the Rev. Phillips Brooks's sermons is now going the rounds of the religious press: "It is the lives, like the stars, which simply pour down on us the calm light of their bright and faithful being, up to which we look, and out of which we gather the deepest calm and courage. No man or woman of the humblest sort can really be strong, gentle, pure, and good, without the world being better for it, without somebody being helped and comforted by the very existence of that goodness."

Great virtues are rare; the occasions for them are rare, and when they do occur we are prepared for them; we are excited by the grandeur of the sacrifice; we are supported either by the splendor of the deed in the eyes of the world, or by the self-complacency that we experience from the performance of an uncommon action. Little things are unforeseen; they return every moment; they come in contact with our pride, our indolence, our haughtiness, our readiness to take offense; they contradict our inclinations perpetually. It is, however, only by fidelity in little things that a true and constant love to God can be distinguished from a passing fervor of spirit.

A SHORT CHAPTER ON OYSTERS.

Sir Walter Scott's lines beginning:—"Breathes there a man with soul so dead," have so often served as a text for a treatise that I am almost ashamed to add another, but in some unexplained manner the original version has got twisted in my head, and in connection with this subject reads,

"Who never to himself hath said, I have no oyster passing well, If fried, or stewed, or 'n half shell."

Oysters are said to be unfit to eat during any month in whose name the letter "r" does not appear. November being endorsed with a consonant of a "rolling" character, a few words concerning these bivalves may not be amiss.

OYSTER PIE.—Make a paste as for pie crust, line a shallow pan with it, put in a layer of oysters, flavor with salt and bits of butter, add a layer of bread or crumbs, another layer of oysters, etc., add the liquor, cover with a crust and bake.

OYSTER STEW.—A quart of oysters with liquor, a pint and a half of milk, a good sized lump of butter, pepper and salt; boil all together till done.

OYSTERS FRIED.—Select the largest and finest oysters, dip each in beaten egg, then in bread or cracker crumbs, and fry in a hot butter till a light brown.

OYSTERS FRIED IN BATTER.—Take one cup of sweet milk, one egg, a bit of salt, and flour enough to make a stiff batter, dip the oyster in the batter, letting as much adhere to it as will, and fry till brown.

OYSTERS PICKLED.—One ounce each of allspice, cinnamon, mace, and cloves, one quart of vinegar, boil all together; when cold, put in the oysters; next day scald all together.

SCALLOPED OYSTERS.—Put a layer of cracker crumbs in a deep dish. On this put a layer of oysters, sprinkle with pepper and salt, on this another layer of cracker crumbs, sprinkle on bits of butter, another layer of oysters and so on till the dish is nearly full, letting the last layer be of crumbs. Pour over this a tureen of the liquor, and bake until a nice light brown.

STEWED OYSTERS.—Take half a dozen oysters, of medium, and of the same size, just removed from the shell. Place in a lined saucepan with the liquor, and pour on a gill and a half of boiling water. Let the vessel stand over the fire a moment only, and skim off the froth rising to the surface entangling certain impurities. Then remove from the fire and pour the contents from a pan into a heated dish rejecting the last remaining tablespoonful of liquid containing the scales of shell, grains of sand, etc.; and carefully wipe out the saucepan with a suitable cloth. Then pour back into the saucepan the contents from the dish, add a lump of the best butter, half as large as one of the oysters, the cracker dust from half a fresh water cracker, a little cayenne-pepper, a couple of whole grains of allspice, and a little salt, placing the vessel on the fire. Then add a gill of cream, and as soon as the oysters seem just cooked through, before becoming shrivelled and hard from the heat, pour for use into a previously warm bowl.

I am aware that a diversity of opinion prevails on the subject of cooking oysters. Many prefer them cooked with milk or cream, others in their own liquor, while I was once invited to partake of a conglomeration of oysters, crackers, and corn meal, concerning which I am in doubt to this day, as to whether it was oyster soup with corn meal in it, or corn meal mush with an occasional oyster.

Badges, Certificates and Pledges.

Those languid, tireless, energetic, and ambitious, who are able to be on their feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity, driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that precious remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of all systems are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain are specially removed. Will you heed this? See "Truths."

It is no vile drugged stuff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign barks, &c., and puffed up by long bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well known valuable roots, which furnishes its own certificates by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See "Truths" and "proverbs," in another column.

How to Get Rich. The great secret of obtaining riches is first to practice economy, and as the old "Deacon Snyder" says, "It used to store the life out of me to pay enormous doctor's bills, but now I have 'true' rich." Health and happiness rest supreme in our little household, and simply because we use no other medicine but Electric Bitters and only cost fifty cents a bottle." Sold by F. Jordan.

For a perfect renovation of exhausted and enfeebled constitutions, female weakness and general decline, nothing so surely and speedily produces a permanent cure as does Electric Bitters. Their wonderful cures are astonishing the world. For Kidney and Urinary Complaints they are a perfect specific. Do not give up in despair for Electric Bitters will positively cure, and that where every thing fails. Sold by F. Jordan, at fifty cents a bottle.

FOR CONSUMPTIVES. See what Physicians and the People say about SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES, as a remedy for Consumption, Scrophula, and Wasting Affections.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE, Gentlemen.—I have prescribed your Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, &c., in my practice and used it in my family, and it has greatly benefited the patients and the good results that follow its use. I have found it very serviceable in scrophulous diseases and pulmonary affection. Respectfully yours, I. R. M. LANE, M.D., 23 East Broadway, N.Y.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—For the last fifteen months I have used your Cod Liver Oil Emulsion, both in hospital and in private practice, and it has been greatly benefited by its use. It is better than any other preparation of Cod Liver Oil. In Consumption and children's diseases I have found it especially valuable. JOHN A. O'CONNOR, M.D., Via Physician, Louisville City Hospital.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE: I have used your Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in various instances and I have found it to be easily taken, readily assimilated, and rapidly improves the nutrition and flesh. I consider it the best Emulsion I have ever used. R. E. HALGHTON, M.D., Indianapolis, Ind.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE: I have given your Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil a fair trial, and am glad that I can say I think it is the best remedy for weak lungs and bad coughs. I can highly recommend it. When the doctor has given me up, I commenced using your medicine, and I regained health and strength very fast, and I think I shall soon be well. Yours truly, MRS. BIEDERSTADT, Galveston, Ind.

SCOTT & BOWNE: I felt my duty to let you know the good I have derived from the use of your Emulsion. I had a very bad cough for years, and on consulting Dr. J. E. Greenuch of this city, he informed me that my left lung was diseased, and prescribed Scott's Emulsion with Hypophosphites. After taking two bottles, I began to improve very rapidly, and continued using it until I had taken ten bottles, and now I am as healthy as a horse. There is in the city of Baltimore, when I took it, I weighed 145 pounds. Yours, D. P. FARQUHAR, Baltimore, Md.

CANANDAIGUA, Sept. 13, 1877. SCOTT & BOWNE: GENT.—I thought I would write to you, as I saw a notice upon your bottles of this long and tedious disease. I have proved true in my case. I was given up by last March with consumption, the best medical aid made no use of any treatment. My husband applied for your Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil; he has been using it for some time, and it is restoring me to health beyond the expectations of my friends expecting to hear of my death every day. I will be perfectly cured. Yours with respect, MRS. ELDRIDGE. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle. 1751

THE GREATEST WONDER OF MODERN TIMES.—The Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels are invulnerable in all complaints incidental to Humanity. The Ointment is the only reliable remedy for Bad Legs, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers, of however long standing. For Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Coughs, Colds, Gout, Rheumatism and all Skin Diseases, it has no equal.

BEWARE OF AMERICAN COUNTERFEITS.—I most respectfully take leave to call the attention of the Public generally to the fact that certain Houses in New York are sending to many parts of the country imitations of my Pills and Ointment. These frauds bear on their labels some address in New York. I do not send my Medicine to be sold in any part of the United States. I have no Agents there. My Medicines are manufactured by me at 23 Oxford Street, London. In the Books of directions affixed to the spurious make is a caution warning the Public against being deceived by counterfeiters. Do not be misled by this audacious trick, as they give the counterfeits they pretend to denounce. These counterfeiters are purchased by unprincipled Vendors at one-half the price of my Pills and Ointment, and sold to you as my genuine Medicines. I most earnestly appeal to that sense of justice which I feel sure I may venture upon asking from all honorable persons, to assist me, and the Public, as far as may lie in their power, in denouncing these imitations. Each Pot and Box of the Genuine Medicine bears the British Government Stamp which is engraved thereon. On the label is the address, 23 Oxford Street, London, which alone they are manufactured. HOLLOWAY'S Pills and Ointment bearing any other address are counterfeit. The Trade Marks of my Medicines are registered in Ottawa. Hence any one throughout the British Possessions, who may keep the American Counterfeits for sale, will be prosecuted. (Signed) THOMAS HOLLOWAY, Oxford Street, London, Jan. 1, 1879.
