

The Poet's Corner.

A Little Talk With Jesus.

A little talk with Jesus:
How it soothes the rugged road;
How it seems to help me onward, When I faint beneath my load.

When my heart is crushed with sorrow,
And my eyes with tears are dim, Thou'rt my comfort and my joy,
Like a little talk with Him.

I tell Him I am weary,
And I feel would be at rest;
That I'm daily, hourly waiting For a home upon His breast.

And He answers me so sweetly, In tones of tenderest love—
"I am coming soon to take thee To my happy home above."

And this is what I'm wanting, His lovely face to see;
And I'm not afraid to say it, I know He's waiting me.

He gave His life a ransom To make me all His own,
And He can't forget His promise To me His purchased one.

I know the way is dreary To yonder far-off clime, But a little talk with Jesus Will whittle away the time.

And yet, the more I know Him,
And all His grace explore,
It only sets me longing To see Him more and more.

I cannot live without Him, Nor would I if I could;
He is my daily portion,
My medicine and my food.

He's altogether lovely, None can with Him compare,
The chief among ten thousand,
The fairest of the fair.

So I'll wait a little longer, Till His appointed time;
And glory in the knowledge That such a hope is mine.

Then in my Father's dwelling, Where the "many mansions" be,
I'll sweetly talk with Jesus,
And He shall talk with me.

Seeing is believing. Read the testimonies in the pamphlet on Dr. Van Allen's Kidney Cure, then buy a bottle and relieve yourself of all those distressing pains. Your Druggist can tell you about it. Sold by J. Wilson, Goderich.

HEALTH.

The Hygienic Treatment of Pulmonary Consumption.

Dr. B. W. Richardson, has revived, in his "Asclepiad," certain rules for the hygienic treatment of consumption, which were first published as far back as 1856. At that time they found very little favor, being regarded as the ideas of a dreamer that the fatal disease could be prevented generally, and treated specially hygienic measures. Today under the revival of the old animal magnetism approach, as the origin of some diseases in living forms—the entity doctrine in new dress—the conception of the hygienic treatment of pulmonary consumption has been accepted in name as well practice, as if it were new in word and deed, the height of practical teaching and skill. But the change, and the timor of one generation is the fashion of another. But it matters not whether by whom it is borne, so long as the torchlight of truth makes its way.

1. A supply of pure air for respiration the first indication in the treatment of the consumptive patient.

2. Active exercise is an essential element in the treatment of consumption.

3. A uniform climate is an important element in the treatment of consumption.

4. The dress of the consumptive patient should be adapted to equalize the temperature of the body, and so loose that it interferes in no way with the animal functions.

5. The hours of rest of the consumptive patient should be regulated mainly by the absence of the sun.

6. The occupation of the consumptive patient should be suspended if it is indoor or sedentary, but a certain amount of outdoor work may be advantageous.

7. Excessive mental exertion should be avoided by the consumptive.

8. Cleanliness of body is a special point in the treatment of consumptives.

9. Abstinence from all habits of gross sensuality is an essential part, both in the prevention and the cure of consumption.

10. The diet of consumptive patients should be simple, and should contain a proper proportion of the respiratory constituents of food than is required in health.

Whenever distinct evidences of phthisis have set in an individual of ethnic purity, while the marriage of two persons, both victims of the disease, is opposed to reason and humanity.

It Was Just Like Him.

County Crown Attorney Lewis, of Goderich, tells this story of himself, so it must be true.

"By don't you put on a white tie, and go over to conference," said a friend to him the other day, "you'd pass for a minister."

"Well," said he in that bland manner peculiar to him, "to tell you the truth they don't let me in. My good friend Corbett and I did go over, but whether it was because my clothes were not orthodox, my face was too honest, or I was a doubtful company, I don't know, but I did not come out anyhow. You ask me, and he'll tell you the same."

The Voters' Lists.

The discussion on the items relating to preparation of the voters' lists still further goes to prove the importance of returning to the Provincial franchise.
The Government voters' lists will cost from three to four times as much as the printing of the lists under the authority of the municipal councils. Mr. M. C.
Cameron on Monday read the cost of printing the voters' lists in his riding, showing that the work done under the authority of the Municipal Council cost ed up to about $180, while the same work done by the revising officer under the Dominion franchise cost $620. It also came out that although the law provides that the revising officer shall control the printing of the voters' lists, that the Government undertook to advise the revising officers as to where the work should be done, and indicating the rates they should be paid. The revising officer of Hamilton was informed that he was to get the work done at the Spector office. Judge Sinclair said, in reply, that Parliament had by legislation put the matter into his, not the Government's hands, and he would not consent to be dictated to by the Administration; that he had discharged his duty as the law directed; that he would advise for tenders, and that he would have the work done by the party whose tender was lowest. This he accordingly did, and some of the other revising officers acted with equal independence. But the vast majority of them did as the Government directed. The fact, however, remained that the work was done under instruction, and has consequently cost the country three or four times as much as the printing of the old voters' lists in the municipalities. [London Advertiser.]

Advice to Young Women.

A lady of intelligence and observation has remarked:
"I wish I could impress upon the minds of the girls that the chief end of women is not to marry young."

If girls could only be brought to believe that their chances for a happy marriage were better after 25 years than before, there would be much less misery in the world than there now is. To be sure, they might not have so many opportunities to marry as before, but they do not need to marry but one at a time, it is necessary that that one should be satisfactory. As a girl grows older, if she thinks at all, she certainly becomes more capable of judging what would make her happy than when younger. How many girls of twenty would think of marrying a man they would gladly have taken at sixteen?

At thirty, a woman who is somewhat independent, and not anxious, over-anxious, to marry, is much harder to please and more careful in her choice than one at 20. There is good reason for this. Her mind has improved with her years, and she now looks beyond mere appearances in judging men. She is apt to ask if this man who is so very polite in actions spring from a happy, genial nature, or is his attractive demeanor put on for the occasion and laid off at home as he lays off his coat?

A very young girl takes it for granted that men are always as she sees them in society—polite, friendly, and on their good behavior. If she marries early the man who happens to please her fancy, she learns to her sorrow that in minute detail of her life she is disappointed.

Five years, at that period of life, produce a great change in opinions and feeling.

We frequently come to detect at 25 what we admired at 18. We advance from the lanky, sandy and peasant age to the era of gundrops and morron glasses and even in later years lose our yearn-ings. [Scottish-American Journal.]

The Right Kind of a Man.

Referring to the lecture of Rev. Dr.
Burns at Ottawa on Thursday night, the Ottawa Free Press of last evening says: "In character, Dr. Burns is a man of the widest sympathies, a careful scholar, and devoted heart and soul to the interests of his native land. His oratory is such as to entrance the most chilly and reserved audience, whilst his scholarship and true religious fervor appeal to the sympathies of all. Imbued with the genuine instincts of his nationality, it would be difficult to find a man with a kinder nature. As a man, a patriot and a minister, humanity, Ireland and the Methodist church have every reason to be proud of him."
