Generations

One Job

One generation is at work in this quaint pottery, and the total membership of the family is nine. The oldest member, Mr. Absalom Harris, is ninety, but he "clocks in" regularly every morning by climbing with surprising agility to the roof of the pottery and winding an ancient time-work-people, and do not seek

Unconscious Humor.

Who says that all newspaper men have a sense of humor? It is supposed to be a necessary quality of the successful journalist, but there is something on the part of the Canadian Press Bureau which is sadly deficient in that respect. An advertisement on similar lines to the item printed below was published as a reader for the performance of the "Quaker Girl" in the local papers. The Canadian Press Bureau took it in all seriousness and distributed it to all its subscribers for release on December 24th. The item is as follows:—

Canadian Press Limited.
St. John's, Nfld., December 2.—Construction of the much mooted dam across the Straits of Bell Isle, which it is claimed, would, by diverting the Arctic current, make the winter climate of Newfoundland and Eastern Canada as mild as that of Spain, and enable ocean liners to sail up to Montreal the year round, was urged upon Prime Minister Sir Richard Squire by two fur-clad Esquimaux from Labrador, who arrived here recently. In their interview with Sir Richard they suggested the advisability of building the dam as a means of providing employment and requested that they be given positions as timekeepers, as they could be trusted to tell the time of day during the long Arctic nights. After paying their respects to the Prime Minister the Esquimaux took in the theatre, studied the costumes of a musical comedy company, gleaning hints to help their better halves deck them for the Easter parade at Makkovik. Later, they were regretfully informed by the meteorological authorities that the Newfoundland would not undertake the much-mooted project, firstly, because it lacked the money, and secondly, because the idea that the diversion of the Arctic current would convert Canada and the ancient Colony into a human belt, was as badly exploded as the celebrated Maury North Atlantic Gulf Stream, causes the British Isles to enjoy a mild climate.

So the Esquimaux bought supplies for their tribes and took the boat for the north, expressing the hope that if the Privy Council fell down on the job of settling the boundary dispute between Newfoundland and Labrador and Canada, their services would be requisitioned.

WILL MEET IN JANUARY.

The Council of the League of Nations will meet in Geneva, January 10th, under the Presidency of Paul Hymans, of Belgium.

Stranded Schr. Floated.

The little Newfoundland schooner Linda Pardy, which was washed high and dry on the shore of Mira about the first part of November, during the terrific northeast gale that wrought such havoc to shipping along the Newfoundland and Cape Breton coasts, says the North Sydney Herald of Dec. 20, was successfully floated by Hayward Collins, who was in charge of operations for a party of local men, who undertook on the basis of "no save no pay" to float the craft and bring her here for a certain sum. Although successful, it is believed the local men did not make any money out of the contract, as they were practically employed on the job since the tenth of November, using material and gear that cost considerable. The vessel is now alongside the slip wharf, waiting her turn to be pulled up. She is making considerable water, necessitating the work of constant pumping. The ship, it is understood, not badly damaged, and will be as good as ever after slight repairs are effected.
