Will N. S. Coal Strike Be Averted?

Date Set for Tuesday Next—Insurgents Lay
City of Cork in Ruins—Rebels Aggressive in Dublin.

SYDNEY, STRIKE OUTLOOK.

SYDNEY, Aug. 11.

With next Tuesday set as the date for a general strike of miners in Nova Scotia, no date has yet been set for the proposed British Empire Steel Corporation and United Mine Workers Conference, and it is thought here that Sunday is the earliest it can be held. D. H. McDougall, Vice President, is expected here on Saturday from the Montreal conference with the corporation's directorate. An official announcement of the vote taken so far by Nova Scotia miners shows 4,000 in favor of a strike unless 1921 rates of pay are restored and 87 against. Cumberland County votes are not included as the miners there are unanimous for the strike. Phelan, of Cape Breton local, which set the original strike motion in circulation has come forward with a supplementary resolution, demanding that if a strike be called, every member be called out, including engineers and pumpmen. This resolution will be circulated throughout the district for endorsement. Strong hopes are expressed generally here that the present crisis will be solved by a compromise agreement, and this expectation is strengthened by reports that the United States coal strike is nearing settlement.

L.G. SUGGESTS ARBITRATION.

PARIS, Aug. 11.

NATIONALISTS ENTER CORK.

CORK IN RUINS.

DUBLIN, Aug. 11.

Confagations raged in Cork through out the night of Thursday. The business part of the city is in ruins, and the damage is estimated at two million pounds. National forces from Passage West, have consolidated their positions and pushed over their posts to the outskirts of the city. They do not appear, however, to have entered the city as yet. The bulk of the irregular troops are believed to have evacuated the city, although leaving behind numerous snipers concealed in the ruins of buildings and terrorizing citizens.

REBELS ACTIVE IN DUBLIN.

LONDON, Aug. 11.

The Exchange Telegraph has received a telephone message from Dublin saying that irregular troops attacked the Post Office, overpowered the guard, and are now holding the building. The Central News gives the rumour that the Post Office in Dublin and adjoining buildings are on fire. Telegraph communications between Dublin and London ceased around eleven o'clock on Friday night.

REPORTED ALL QUIET.

WATERFORD, Aug. 11.

National forces captured Cork late on Thursday evening, according to a report received from a reliable source to-night. The report said everything was quiet in Cork.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE POOR SLAVE.

Theoretically a slave was abolished in America almost 60 years ago, and yet I know a woman who is a slave. And a slave to a very tyrannical master too.

She is a woman who lives near us at a place where we spend the summer. She has a pleasant home, more than ordinary financial freedom, and more than the average person's share of leisure. If it weren't for the tyrant who rules her life she might have a lot of happiness.

Do I refer to her husband, you are wondering? It certainly does sound as if I were leading up to that. No, she has a very kind and reasonable husband.

She hates mosquitoes. The tyrant in the case is not her husband but her hates. This woman is the slave of her own hates.

Perhaps I should use the word "dislikes," but I use the word "hates" because it is her own word. She uses it continually.

We have a hot dry mercifully relieved by a brisk breeze. "Isn't this wind frightful!" she says. "I hate wind. It makes me so nervous."

And Rainy Days.

We get two rainy days in succession. "I don't mind a rainy day once in a while," she says, "but I do hate two in succession."

She doesn't go to the movies because the hall might be crowded and she "hates" to go anywhere where the air isn't perfectly fresh.

She likes motoring, but only when she is sure there will be a clear road. She "hates" to have too many cars on the road, which naturally puts narrow limitations on the time she can drive, as Saturdays and Sundays are ruled out altogether, also certain roads at all times, also certain times of the day when commuters are using the roads.

And Cinders.

She was one of a group of us who went to the city to do some shopping and have a jamboree. We had a jolly time and she really seemed to be enjoying herself, but on the way home in the train the wind blew in such a way that we were showered with cinders. "How I hate cinders!" she said. "Disgusting things! That spoils the whole trip for me." We didn't any of us like cinders. In fact, I don't just now recall anyone who has ever expressed to me a fondness for them. But we didn't "hate" them. So our trips were not spoiled.

But we were lucky, you see. We weren't slaves to our hates. Or at least not to the extent that she is. Most of us have suffered in some degree from this form of self-imposed tyranny. But anyone with common sense and a sense of proportion is wise enough to fight the tyrant for the sake of his own freedom and happiness.
