WONDER WHO'S CHAMP? HERE'S OFFICIAL DOPE.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 20—A recognized list of champions was offered to the fighting public here to-day by the annual meeting of the National Association of Boxing Commissioners. They alleged that the correct titleholders are:

Flyweight, Fidel La Barba; bantam, Phil Rosenberg; feather, Louis (Kid) Kaplan; light, Jimmy Goodrich; welter, Mickey Walker; middle, Harry Greb; and light-heavy, Paul Berlenbach. Recognition is withheld in the heavyweight class. It is said that a resident of Los Angeles, known in the movie circles as Jack Dempsey, will be recognized by this august body if he ever does any fighting. The commissioners solemnly resolved that champions ought to do a little fighting—say once in six months. This lets the Dempsey person out.
The New York State Athletic Commission is not affiliated with the body mentioned above. Nevertheless, two champions, Goodrich and Kaplan, developed from New York elimination tournaments, are recognized.

$115,385 FOR UNCLE SAM IN WORLD'S SERIES.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 19—The World's series netted the Government $115,385.40 in admission taxes, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced to-day. Addition taxes will be collected from ticket brokers and from players, managers and owners in income taxes.

OF FORPY CABLES FOR TRIAL HORSE TO DO COMEBACK.

Evidently Luis Firpo is going to try himself out at home before coming here in quest of any fights and much more dough. The giant Argentine, who came near wrecking Jack Dempsey on one occasion, sent a cable to Frank Blunk, the South American correspondent, asking little Frank to try to get some opponent for him who would make the trip to Buenos Aires and engage the tall person in a fist encounter. If Firpo gets past with the opponent picked for him by Blunk, the chances are he will rush right back here and try to get his hands on the Yankee boys once more.

Songs of the Gunners

(BY MAURICE FAGENCE)

It is characteristic of our gunners that the memorial to their dead, brilliantly executed by Mr. C. S. Jagger, the soldier-sculptor, should have a gun and not a man as its central feature. They were always self-derivative and treat themselves as the supreme joke of the campaign. The men behind the guns ever pretended that their part in the war was of no account. Most of their jokes alleged it. Their songs pictured them as men who, as one chaffed had it, "would be far better off in a home."

It was the R.G.A. who sang to the tune of "The Girl I Left Behind Me":

"Oh, the R.H.A. were in the front
And the R.F.A. behind them,
But when we looked for the R.G.A.
We'd be blown if we could find them."

The R.F.A. first sang the ditty "We are the R.H.A. Army." Later the R.A.S.C. adopted it, but that it was primarily an artillery chorus is shown by the last lines:

"And when we get to Berlin
The Kaiser he will say:
'Och! Och! Mein Gott, what a blessed line lot
Are the British R.F.A.'"

That his 13-pounder shell had never killed anyone since the Crimea was the joke in song and prose of the Royal Horse gunner:

"We are the R.H.A.
We're all right in our way:
We often shoot, but cannot kill—
We send serviette rings to Kaiser Bill."

This refers to the fact that those small shells had fuse rings and driving bands the size of serviette rings. German prisoners found with these parts had often explained that they were polishing them for the officers' mess.

It was the artillerymen who first gave the infantryman the immortal if vulgar title "P.B.I." And who of those who were at Arras when the cavalry returned from an ineffectual attempt to break the German line will ever forget the wonderful tribute the artillerymen paid to the troopers?

Tired and broken, the man of the Scots Greys returned, leading riderless mounts that told the story of their losses. Behind them tailed other cavalry units through whose ranks gaps had literally been blown.

When they reached the town it was raining and the prospect of spending the night without shelter was the last straw in a day of misery. But there came a message that the artillerymen wanted them to use their billets for the night—the only tribute that men who had nothing in the world but their Army kits could pay them.

We must not accept the artilleryman at his own valuation. We must ask an infantryman or cavalryman to get a fair valuation. But if there is an artilleryman about, he will be sure to reddon and say: "I wonder what he wants to borrow."

Oh, Listen to the Sand!

Perhaps some holiday-makers at the seaside come across patches of dry sand which produce mysterious sounds of a more or less musical nature. The experience will be faintly reminiscent of "listening-in" when one's receiving set is a little out of order.

These sounds are emitted by what are known as "Singing Sands," examples of which are met with in various parts of the world.

So far as the writer can learn, the first "Singing Sand" to be discovered in these islands was at Elgg, off the west coast of Scotland.

When once you have found a patch of this interesting type of sand, you can try quite a number of entertaining and instructive experiments with it. Your walking-stick or umbrella point drawn across it will make it "sing" in a way that will surprise you. The intensified and prolonged note that it will give will cause both wonder and delight.

Of carry some of the sand home and place it in a basin or other receptacle. Then jab it with, say, a substantial lead pencil, or thick paperholder. You will produce a squeak so loud and so high-pitched as to be audible at a good distance.

When examined under a microscope, this musical sand is found to consist of grain which are clean, free from fine matter, smooth and polished, rounded and sub-angular, and all very much of the same size.

Its tunefulness is further explained by the absence on the grains of any iron oxide coating. What is more, grains which are really angular are scarce.

These grains, when made to rub against one another, set up regular vibrations which form a musical note.

She writes: To the woman who wishes to attain the severely smooth arrangement of the hair that is now so fashionable, staccato is the most effective aid available. (3)

Old Roman Fortress at The City of York

London—The Roman excavations committee, which has been engaged on the ramparts of the city wall at York for three weeks, has found portions of the wall of a Roman fortress which were probably unique in Europe, as no other place has revealed a wall from foot to parapet and the rampart walk of the fortress.

The wall rested on a cobblestone base in a section of a clay rampart of an earlier fortress, surmounted by a palisade, behind which was another rampart wall. The rampart of the wall above the clay bed was filled with debris, mostly masonry, believed to be part of a fortress built between the time of the fortress of Vespasian and Agricola (appointed Governor of Britain in 79 A.D.) and the wall below uncovered, which belonged to the Trojan period.

Fresh excavations are being made at a point farther inside the walls with a view to investigating the system of Roman ditches.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Radio brings companionship...

It wasn't very exciting for her before radio came!

YOUNG PEOPLE have young lives to lead and they go away from home to lead them. Old people are alone mostly. They are left without the friends of their youth as they are without the children of their middle age.

To the everlasting credit of radio, put this down: It has brought the world to the old and solitary. It has provided new interests, new vision, a new viewpoint on life.

If it had done nothing else, if it had not provided music and education and entertainment for those who would otherwise have had to do without, this one contribution would be enough: Radio has relieved loneliness.

Have you a mother or a father, an aunt, an uncle, a sister, a brother, or just a friend who lives alone? Think of a radio gift for the one who is sick, of course. But think of it, too, for the one who is lonely. It is in your power this year to give more happiness than you have ever given before.

Mem-O-Rea, the Wonderful Man

BIG SHOW AT THE MAJESTIC LAST NIGHT HOLDS AUDIENCE SPELL-BOUND.

The Majestic Theatre was packed to capacity again last night and standing room was at a premium. It is very evident that MEM-O-REA is the most wonderful feature ever submitted to the public of St. John's. His readings last night astounded the large audience in the spacious Theatre until 11 p.m. Much interest is centred in this remarkable man and so far, there has been no reason to dispute any of his readings or revelations. He is really a remarkable man.

Miss Rita Johnson, the international dancer, won new fame and laurels in her dancing last night, especially in her skipping rope dance, which called for repeated applause.

Last but not least, our old friend Tom Mix and Tony, his famous horse, scored a complete knock-out in "Oh, You Tony." The audience went into a rapture over his daring feats. His mad race against almost insurmountable obstacles, held the audience in a trance from beginning to finish. It might be said that this is Tom's and Tony's best picture, and should not be missed. Altogether, the show was something rarely exhibited in this city, and we have no hesitation in saying the management are every day receiving very complimentary references and tributes to their efforts to please a critical public.

Mr. Perry gave a nice lecture on the Pony Contest, and read out the names of the merchants from whom people could get Pony Votes. His speech was tense and to the point, and aroused further interest in the now famous Pony Contest. Again we ask "WHO IS GOING TO WIN THE SHELTON PONY?" Maybe it's you, so buy your goods from the merchants who will give you Pony Votes.

To-night the same show will be repeated.
