A Run on a Bank.

—Corinne, the peerless little prima donna of the Kumbal Opera Comique Company, has a fancy, an expensive one to be sure, but a strong fancy nevertheless, for collecting blue gems, and already her collection contains a fine array of valuable turquoise and sapphires. She is thoroughly impressed with the idea that hard work will advance her in many lines in her profession, and she is constantly giving attention to improving herself in her singing, her dancing, her acting. The result is apparent to all who have seen her this season. Corinne's engagement by the Kumbal Opera Comique Company, is announced for to-morrow night.

—At Osgoode Hall Tuesday, in the case of Rud vs. Frank, P. McPhillips (London), for the master at London finding $7,098.13 due to the plaintiff by the defendant for advances made to the defendant by the plaintiff's husband in his life, the reference to the master being entitled to redeem certain land, which he had conveyed to the plaintiff's husband as security for the advance, was repaid by the defendant. The defendant contended that the master had improperly refused to receive certain evidence and to consider the defendant's surrogacy. E. R. Cameron (London), for the plaintiff, appealed from the master's finding, and also appealed from the report, seeking to increase the amount found due. Reserved.

A Middlesex Boy's Death.

The following recent dispatch from Butte City, Montana, refers to a son of Mr. E. Nash, of Mount Brydges: Harry Nash, brother of S. Nash and J. W. Nash, of this city, died this morning of typhoid pneumonia. Mr. Nash was in his 26th year, a bright, active and promising young man. He was born in Canada and came to Butte about three years ago. Until the disease which proved his death seized him, three weeks ago, his health had been good. He was exceedingly popular in Butte, and a wide circle of friends will regret his death with the deepest regret. The body will be shipped to Mount Brydges over the Northern road to-morrow morning. It will be accompanied by J. W. Nash. Harry Nash was not married, but in addition to brothers living in this city he will be mourned by another brother, Frank, in Dakota, and by his parents, who are still living at Mount Brydges.

Detective Allen's Funeral.
The funeral of the late Detective B. B. Allen, the victim of the Long Point tragedy, was held yesterday from his late residence, 305 Dundas street, to Dorchester Cemetery. There was a large attendance, including many of his late comrades on the county and city constabulary forces. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. Ira Smith, of Taber Street Baptist Church, and Rev. D. M. McKinnell, pastor of Adelaide Street Baptist Church. Rev. Mr. Smith, in the course of his remarks to the friends and relatives assembled, drew particular attention to the uncertainty of life, and as an instance cited the case of Detective Allen, who one week ago left home in the best of health and spirits. The necessity of at all times being in readiness to meet death was also dwelt on with equal force. The pallbearers were chosen from deceased's fellow-officers and included Constable Logan, G. T. R.; Detective Nickle, Medical Detective Wesley Webb, High Constable John M. Crawford, Constable Crowther, and Constable Ingersoll. The late detective's father arrived in the city this morning accompanied by his son-in-law and was grief-stricken on being told the particulars of his son's death and sudden

A School for Stammerers.
This is the age of invention and discovery, and scarcely a day passes that does not record a step in advance of all previous knowledge in the development of the arts, sciences and industrial pursuits. For some time past it has been the intention of the Globe to draw attention to an institution in this city which during the past three years has been doing a great good in a quiet, unostentatious way, so quietly, in fact, that many who would gladly have availed themselves of its advantages are unaware of its existence. This institution is Church's Auto-Voice School for the cure of stammering, of which Mr. S. T. Church is the founder and principal. After twelve years of theoretical study, followed by three years of practical application, Mr. Church is to-day in possession of a perfected system for the relief of all kinds of stammering, a system which has already amply proved by its wonderful results that it is the most successful method in the world to-day in effecting the work it professes to accomplish. No advance fee nor deposit is asked of those entering the school, as eloquent a fact as can be offered of the confidence and faith the author himself has in his system, and this is especially so in the case of those who are afflicted with a stammer. Mr. Church stands high with his friends and acquaintances as a man of sound judgment and good executive ability and with more than ordinary force of character.

The Globe has taken some trouble to examine into the working of the school and the merits of the methods adopted, and finds the stamp of worth and efficiency upon both. Stammerers have come into the Globe office unable to utter a word and returned at the end of a course in the school light-hearted and happy, able to talk with perfect ease and freedom. Over 100 stammerers have entered the school within the past two years, and those who have completed their course and gone out again into the world are most convincing testimony to the value of the institution and its work.—(Toronto Daily Globe.)

—Says a traveler: At the first intimation of danger, jump for the upper rail in a railway coach, the bundle rack, the hat spike, anything high up, and draw up your legs. This has saved life and limbs before now; it may save more in future if we can only bear it in mind and put it in practice when the awful moment comes.

—Tain somewhat marred the usual enjoyment of the weekly run of the London Hunt Club yesterday and also interfered materially with the attendance. Several enthusiasts turned out, but the rain and a run in a northerly direction. Among those who followed the hounds were Huntsman Bowman, Messrs. Gibbons, Kilgour, Strong and others.

—Hallowe'en was celebrated by a majority of the city's youth on the streets, but the junior members of the Y. M. C. A. and their friends, to the number of 150, took a different course. They gathered in the park, the boys had prepared a splendid programme, consisting of club swinging, slack wire walking, etc. And it was not necessary to have the aid of a number of policemen to watch the happy youths.

—The murder of Detective Allan, acting game warden at Long Point, shows the poachers to be reckless and desperate men. The law setting apart game preserves for the benefit of certain individuals is contrary to the ideas of all lovers of genuine sport in Canada, and it seems that the poachers take full advantage of this public sentiment. It was a mistake to create the crime of poaching within the Dominion.—(Toronto Globe.)

—The wheat stealing case of John Delaney was heard before Squire Smyth Tuesday afternoon. Four hours were occupied in hearing the evidence, the principal witnesses being Abraham Pinkham, who was implicated with Delaney, and who has since confessed to the charges preferred against him. John Sifton, from whom the grain was stolen, County Constables Mason and Corbett, and B. C. Barter were also examined. Delaney was sent for trial. Mr. Magee appeared for the crown and Mr. B. C. McGowan for the defence.

—Mission held their third annual anniversary services on Sunday and Monday. All the Sunday services were crowded to the utmost capacity of the church. On Monday evening it was almost impossible to obtain standing room. A choice programme was rendered by the children of the school.

The report of the secretary for the year ending Sept. 30, 1933, showed a very creditable growth in the school and a cash balance of $27.13 on hand at that date. Mr. Geo. Robinson occupied the chair.

—At Hamilton, Tuesday night, Mrs. Frank MacKenna, the vocalist and her husband were victims of a Hallowe'en joke that came near resulting seriously. The ladies were being driven along Catherine street in a hack, when the vehicle struck a telegraph pole that had been laid across the street. The driver was thrown headfirst to the ground and the horses started. After the ladies had got over the fright of the shock, they cut out of the cab doors and speaking soothingly to the horses they quieted them down and prevented a serious runaway.
