

GREECE ONCE MORE
HONORS CROWN PRINCENational Legislature at Athens
Reappoints Him Inspector-General.

Athens, July 27.—Greece's crown prince has, by an overwhelming vote of the National Legislature at Athens, been restored to his former post as inspector-general of the army.

It may be recalled that the military pronouncement, which some three years ago took place at Athens, reducing the crown and the cabinet to impotence, and substituting in their stead a military oligarchy of the most tyrannical character, gave as one of the chief pretexts for its action the necessity of removing the crown prince from his position of inspector-general of the army, and of severing his connection with the latter by the resignation of his commission.

Junta Act Powerful.
In fact, the military junta actually forced him to leave the country and to reside abroad, at the same time depriving both his brothers and his sons of their commissions. Their aversion to the crown prince is due to the fact that, having received his military training at Berlin, he is possessed of ideas of discipline and military experience and ethics, all wholly foreign to Greek officers and to their soldiers, who, from a military point of view, are a mere joke, and have little understanding of that heroism which enabled them to win their independence from the Turks nearly a hundred years ago.

Of course, King George was anxious to abdicate after this affront had been placed upon his children. But, at the pressing instance of the great powers, he remained at Athens, bearing himself with the utmost dignity, and encouraged in his moments of greatest bitterness and depression by the assurances which he received from some of the older and more experienced Greek statesmen, that the nation would soon tire of its military despots, turn them out of office, and call for a restoration of the old order of things.

These predictions were realized. For within two weeks after the crown prince had given orders for the removal of all his belongings from Athens to St. Petersburg, where he had accepted an offer from his kinsman, the Czar, to enter the service of the Russian army with the promise of an important command, he received a notice from his father that the tide had turned in Greece, that better times were at hand, and to suspend the arrangements for the removal of his belongings to St. Petersburg. About three months later the crown prince returned to Greece, on the invitation of the National Legislature, and of the municipality of Athens, where he was received with the utmost enthusiasm and popular acclamation.

Restored to Dignities.
Now he has been restored to his former military dignities, and after having undergone a very severe trial has resumed his place at the head of the army, with increased prestige and influence. In fact, the manner in which he has borne himself during the last two years has served to convince not only the Greeks themselves, but also the foreign powers, that when the time comes for him to take his father's place on the throne at Athens, he will show himself to be an even still more sagacious, able, and above all, energetic ruler of the most unruly and troublesome nation of Europe.

The crown prince is married to Princess Sophia of Prussia, sister of the Kaiser, whom she deeply offended years ago by becoming a convert to the Greek National Church, and about 21st birthday, received her military education at Potsdam, and is engaged to be married to the 17-year-old Princess Elizabeth of Roumania, eldest daughter of the fascinating, and as a great-granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria, is in the line of succession to the throne of Great Britain.

THE DON CAME BACK

After Being Deported, and Was Given Month in Prison.

Toronto, July 27.—At the central police court, Glasgow, a Spaniard named Jose Jimenez, was sentenced to a month's imprisonment for having been found in Britain after having been deported.

FALSE HUNGER

A Symptom of Stomach Trouble Corrected by Good Food.

There is, with some forms of stomach trouble, an abnormal craving for food, which is frequently mistaken for a "good appetite." A lady teacher writes from Carthage, Mo., to explain how with good food she dealt with this sort of harmful hunger.

"I have taught school for fifteen years, and up to nine years ago had good average health. Nine years ago, however, my health began to fail, and continued to grow worse steadily, in spite of doctors' prescriptions and everything I could do. During all this time my appetite continued good, only the more I ate the more I wanted to eat—I was always hungry."

"The first symptoms of my breakdown were a distressing nervousness and a loss of flesh. The nervousness grew so bad that finally it amounted to actual prostration. Then came stomach troubles, which were very painful, constipation which brought on piles, dyspepsia and severe nervous headaches."

"The doctors seemed powerless to help me, said I was overworked, and at last urged me to give up teaching, if I wished to save my life."

"But this I could not do. I kept on at it as well as I could, each day growing more wretched, my will-power alone keeping me up, till at last a good angel suggested that I try a diet of Grape-Nuts food, and from that time to this I have found it delicious, always appetizing and satisfying."

"I owe my restoration to health to Grape-Nuts. My weight has returned, and in less than two years I have been free from the nervousness, constipation, piles, headaches and all the ailments that used to punish me so, and have been able to work freely and easily." Name given by Canadian Postum Company, Windsor, Ontario.
