Five Port Dover Men Plead Not Guilty in Police

[Special to The Advertiser.] SIMCOE. July 21 .- With no constables closer than Simcoe, five Port Dover men, it is alleged, decided to make some easy money on Dominion Day by selling "hooch" at prohibitive prices. They succeeded, it is alleged, beyond their wildest expertations. The 7,000 people who tried to escape the heat of the surrounding owns by a dip in the waters of the lake at the port, were seemingly thirsty. They bought the whole supply.
