

MAYOR REFUSES TO EXPLAIN WHETHER USE OF POLICE CAR WAS FOR PRIVATE PURPOSES

Rules Query By Ald. Bottrell Out of Order At Regular Meeting of City Council.

Another one of the city's famous "sleeves" has been discovered, according to announcement made at the regular meeting of the City Council last night. A deposit of some $17 was discovered in the Bank of Montreal, which had been lying there since the year 1854, unclaimed by the city. The Council passed the necessary resolution, calling on the bank to hand over the principal and interest to the city treasury. This "sleeve" was discovered by one who might be termed a finance detective, who agreed to look up any loose money like this on a fifty-fifty basis. Consequently he will receive one-half the find, which will amount to some hundred dollars. Ald. Smith suggested this deposit must have been made by the London Old Boys' Association of 1854.

Mayor Wenige ruled out of order a question from Ald. Bottrell with respect to the use of the police car by the mayor.

"I would like to know whether the mayor is borrowing the police car for his own use?" Ald. Bottrell queried.

"That question is out of order," the mayor ruled.

It is quite in order for this Council to be informed on this question," Ald. Bottrell continued. "The public should also have an answer from the mayor on this."

"That is entirely out of order," the mayor insisted.

ANOTHER QUERY.

"Will you bring in a report from the police commission to the next meeting of the Council?" Ald. Bottrell requested.

"You know we provided you with an expense account to cover the use of a car and we would like to know whether we are furnishing you with another car in addition."

The mayor proceeded with the meeting and left this question unanswered.

The automobile about which Ald. Bottrell questioned was the new sedan recently purchased by the police department. Mayor Wenige has used the machine on four occasions, the first being on Friday, May 15, when he used it most of the day.

On Saturday, May 16, the mayor telephoned the police department and had the car delivered to his door. The constable who was dispatched with it was forced either to walk or take a street car back to police headquarters. On that occasion the mayor returned the vehicle on Monday, May 18.

On the evening of Friday, May 22, Mayor Wenige again removed the sedan from the garage of the police station and kept it for the greater part of the week-end. When a summons reached headquarters officers dispatched to make an arrest found some delay, due to the fact that the other police automobiles were at the time under repair.

Mayor Wenige used the car for the last time on Victoria Day when he was seen driving on a country highway.

REPLACE GRAYDON PARK.

City Engineer Bear was instructed to replace the 1825 park at the corner of Richmond and Central avenue, and this park is to be as large as it formerly was. No. 2 committee had recommended that it be cut down, but Ald. Douglass insisted that it should not be made any smaller, and the Council finally agreed with him. It was also agreed, on motion of Ald. Douglass, that the V should be rounded off by taking 15 feet into the street in accordance with an agreement made with the company operating the service station on this corner.

Ald. Douglass protested against the action of the city in allowing the street cars to make the left hand turn at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets. He protested that this was giving a privilege to citizens of United States that was not given to Canadians. He referred to the fact that the street railway is largely owned by United States capitalists.

Ald. Smith asked the new Ridout street bus would be allowed to make the left hand turn. The mayor stated that it would not be allowed to do so.

On motion of Ald. Bottrell the city solicitor was instructed to take immediate action to have the garage on Grey street removed from city property.

The mayor was instructed, on motion of Ald. Douglass, to bring in a report to the next meeting of No. 1 committee from the Public Utilities Commission with reference to the act which gives the commission power to levy unpaid electric service bills on the property.

The purchase of a pumper for the fire department was laid over on suggestion of the mayor, who promised

UNIQUE RECITAL AT THE TEMPLE

Mildred Delma and Mildred Dougherty Delight Audience

SOPRANO AND PIANIST

Young New York Artists Display Great Ability

Unique is the only word to describe last night's dual recital in the Masonic Temple of Mildred Delma and Mildred Dougherty, unique, colorful and altogether exceptional, both in quality of music given and in the unusual nature of the program.

By all the rules of the game and precedents a music recital is a thing of dignity almost oppressive however good it may be. Last night's performance was an exception to the rule. Music as a medium for humor has never been so delightfully shown as in many of last night's selections.

Delma's numbers, particularly the Chinese Drolleries of Bainbridge Crist, "Lady Bug," "The Mouse," "The Old Woman," "Little Small Feet" and "Bald Head Lee," expressed a rare quality of quaint, mischievous humor. Still another Chinese selection she gave, "Moose Flower," in which she excelled in tones of mellifluous clarity. Added to her singing was the effect of the Chinese costume and accompanying gesture of grace and suggested beauty.

Her costume numbers were novel and carried out with a remarkable harmonious taste in the dramatic presentation with which she enriched her singing. The singing of course, is everything, and Miss Delma has a voice of rare tonal purity, sustained, without any appreciable loss in quality, through an extensive range. With her vivid personality and finished technique of rendition filling out the effect of her voice, the resultant is of charming beauty of unfeigned delight in any audience.

DUTCH NUMBERS.

The Dutch numbers in costume were consistently piquant. "There Lingered a Lassie," "Dunster's Song," by Rontgen, "In the Woods of David," Witte's winsome pathetic, "Longing" and "Jeanette" of Herbert, were her selections in this matter. Perhaps her most effective songs, because giving her a greater scope for her dramatic instinct, were the final trio in Spanish habillage, "La Triguena" and "Mi Nina," mazy, with flaring colorful lines of melody, were given with a flair, and the abandon of the Southern European music when sung as it should always be sung.

Miss Dougherty, in nine solo piano numbers filled out the promise, but suggested in her accompaniment to the some numbers. In the main, the least well within the limits of the entertaining rather than of the impressive in her selections, but in those few compositions which she did give, her playing brought an appreciative response of applause. Her finest numbers were the Godard duo, "Tribby," delightful fable in music with a stormy passage, to which Miss Dougherty with an exceptionally sensitive phrasing gave an accomplished rendition, and "Mazurka," a lyric of fanciful grace, which she endowed with verve and running melody. The Schumann "Why?" was as proficient. With consummate understanding she held its minor bars above the narrow margin which separates the pathetic from the note of reiterated questioning.

"Whims," Schumann in his most typical mood, sudden splashes of color, intermingled with imaginative passages leading nowhere, she played with a sure ability to express its varying currents of meaning and melody. Her other contributions to a program of entertaining instrumental numbers were "Gigue," of Bach-McDowell, "Intermezzo," by Brahms, and the Beethoven "German Dance," the "Luminous Fountain," of Bortkiewicz, and "Caprice," of Stavenhagen.
