DIGESTIVE TROUBLES CAUSE DISTRESS

But They Are Nearly Always Due to Thin Watery Blood.

Do not think that because your stomach is easily upset you are the victim of some serious malady. One of the most common predisposing causes of indigestion is anemia, or thin, watery blood. In fact it has become generally recognized that healthy activity of the stomach is impossible unless the blood is rich and red.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found most valuable in cases of indigestion, nervous dyspepsia and stomach weakness, just because they are a blood builder and nerve tonic. The rich, red blood they make not only imparts a healthy digestion, but carries color to the cheeks and lips and gives vigor to the muscles. One important point to remember is that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful drugs or opiates and are thus to be preferred to preparations that merely stimulate for a time. Before you begin worrying unnecessarily about your state of health try the tonic treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will be surprised to see how rapidly your appetite returns and your whole debilitated system revives, as the new, rich blood courses through your body. Here is the statement of one person among thousands who have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to their own great advantage. Mrs. A. Veniot, Homford, N.S., says: "For about two years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which seemed to carry with it a complication of other troubles. Every meal I took brought with it misery, as it was followed by pain, and sometimes nausea and vomiting. At other times gas would form in the stomach to such an extent that my heart would palpitate at an alarming rate. These conditions brought on extreme nervousness and irritability, and I found my general health so much affected that the least exertion would tire me, and I slept but poorly. I had been doctoring for several months with no result beyond slight temporary relief, when I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to follow this advice, and got a half dozen boxes. Good results soon began to show from this treatment, and the further continued use of the pills have made me a well woman. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to similar sufferers."

You can procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COIN SURGEONS.

How Crooks Make Money With Currency.

Operative treatment by surgery has been rather popular during recent years with practitioners interested in dealing illegitimately with the currency.

The appearance in large numbers of $1 bills "raised" to an apparent denomination of $20 is typical, the best specimens of this kind having figures neatly inlaid. If one asks where the money-doctors get the nice figures the answer is that they cut them out of internal revenue stamps. Counterfeits of any kind are an infrequently seen nowadays that even bank tellers do not look closely at the cash they handle. If paper money has an elderly and worn appearance it is particularly likely to pass without scrutiny. Manifestly it has been long in circulation, and this in itself seems a sufficient guarantee.

It is, therefore, the business of the counterfeiter to make his notes look old and worn. He has several methods, but the best is to place between two of them some wet tea leaves in a fold of tissue paper, using a needle to hold all tightly together. A most desirable discoloration is thereby obtained, and, with crumpling and repeated wettings, the money soon acquires the appearance of age.

Surgical operations are performed most commonly on gold coins, usually double eagles. Not very long ago in Philadelphia an ingenious female person made a highly profitable business of gouging out the insides of $20 pieces. With a tiny drill, driven by steampower, she bored a hole from one edge, extracted $15 worth or so of metal, filled the opening with lead and neatly plugged the opening with gold. Just like that, Easy money.

She might have gone on with this remunerative industry indefinitely but for the fact that the treated coins were unduly light, lead being only about half as heavy as gold. She was sent to jail—a fate which likewise befell two Chinamen in Chicago who adopted the more artistic and difficult process of slicing each goldpiece in two and sewing, digging out the interior, filling the slit with lead and soldering on a thin rim of gold, the coin being finally "recoined" in a machine to give it the requisite corrugations around the edge.

A number of years ago a clever crook hit upon the notion of gutting gold coins and filling them with platinum, which gave them about the requisite weight. Platinum at that time was worth only half as much as gold. But at the present time, when its market price is five times that of the yellow metal, the industrious money-surgeon does not find this expedient available.

Bright people, these money doctors. The United States nickels, with a big "V" on them had hardly made their appearance (as will be remembered) before they were found in circulation wearing the guise of $5 gold pieces. It was a simple matter of electro-plating, requiring no apparatus other than a small tank of cyanide and a few feet of copper wire, with a plug in the wall to tap the electric-light current. But the American Treasury dropped that big "V" like a hot potato.

The same sort of modest equipment has been used to bestow an attractive gold-plating upon base-metal imitations of gold coins, but with a modification of the process whereby the regulative yellow stuff was chemically abstracted from a gold-piece at one end of a wire and deposited upon the counterfeit at the other end.

Revisiting No Man's Land.

Many a Canadian who fought in the war is wondering what the front looks like now, a year and more after the last shot was fired.

A newspaper writer, who was recently over the ground, states that one actually sees much less change than would be expected. It is so easy to destroy, so difficult to restore. Everything easily lifted has been picked up and carried away by the seekers of souvenirs, but the change that most impresses the soldier is the silence, the now vacant highways once crowded with war traffic. The noise of war is gone, and the color of khaki is seldom seen. You look out over regions that seem to have forever reduced to silence and sterility.

The restoration of France and Belgium is going to be a long job. Those know best how complete the destruction was who were present and saw it done.
