

HE NOW BELIEVES IN "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Because He No Longer
Suffers With Headaches

TAYLORVILLE, ONT.
"I was a sufferer from Fearful Headaches for over two years. Sometimes, they were so bad that I was unable to work for days at a time. I took all kinds of medicine, was treated by physicians, but yet the Headaches persisted."

A short time ago, I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I did so, with I must confess, very little faith. But after I had taken them for three days, my Headaches were easier and in a week they left me.

After I had taken a box of these tablets, my headaches were quite cured. My appetite was always poor and my stomach had—and now my appetite is splendid and my digestion excellent.

I had become thin and weak from the constant Headaches but now not only have I been cured of all these awful Headaches, but my strength is growing up once more and I feel like a new man!"

Britain's Aerial Fleet Complete

London, March 20.—Colonel Seely's reply to the panemongers who have been telling the country that the land defences of Great Britain have been allowed to go to the dogs, has created quite a sensation in England.

The wail of the conscriptionists, and it must be admitted of the Conservative party generally, has been that while we have been paying great attention to the maintenance of our sea power, the land defences have been allowed to become woefully inefficient. Much political capital has been made out of the oft repeated assertions that while Germany is forging rapidly in creating battalions of aerial-war craft, the British Government has almost entirely neglected this important modern development as applied to military purposes.

It now appears that while the War Office has been saying nothing, it has, at the instigation of the Government, been busily at work upon the aerial problem. Not only has it got what is claimed to be by far the most efficient type of aeroplane in the world, but by next May it will have one hundred and forty-eight of them in actual readiness for active service.

Then again, the War Office has a new type of quick-firing sky gun, which, it is claimed, will make the approach of a hostile airship impossible.

It is true that Great Britain has no airships of the Zeppelin type, but Colonel Seely says these have been deliberately rejected as useless for the country's purposes. A curious confirmation of his point of view comes in the news of the wreck yesterday of the great new German military dirigible, only two months after her trial flight. This is but one of a number of such disastrous wrecks in connection with the German military airships.

What Great Britain has in place of these is portable airships, much more suited to the needs of the country.

The Royal Flying Corps is now seven hundred strong, and it will be increased by another six hundred within the next twelve months.

All this information has come as a complete surprise to the people of Great Britain. It has effectively cornered the Opposition, and has created profound satisfaction.

THE MOST WONDERFUL RAILWAY IN THE WORLD.

And then there is the Oroya Railway.

What city in the world can boast such an attraction at its very doors? Where else can you in the short space of a few hours, ascend from the coast, from palms and mango groves, bananas and tropical gardens, to the snow and ice of eternal winter, to heights above the utmost summit of Mont Blanc?

All this is possible through the pluck, ingenuity, and indomitable perseverance of a certain American promoter, a picturesque figure of the sixties, Henry Meiggs. He it was who conceived this gigantic scheme to scale the dizzy steeps of the Andes and he it was who carries to execution this first railroad, and the only one that crosses these icy summits at such an elevation, to this day the "highest railway in the world." No matter what else you may see in this mundane sphere of ours, you will never forget the day you climbed the Oroya Railway.

We made the trip under exceptionally favorable auspices. A private car, most comfortable in all its appointments, was put at our disposal, and in it we lived, with two excellent servants to care for us.

Instead of leaving Lima by the early morning train, as is usually done, our car was attached to the afternoon passenger and left at Chosica for the night, a station about twenty-five miles distant and a little less than three thousand feet above the sea, used as a resort, of cure d'air, by the Peruvians. After dinner we walked about its streets, and, in the semi-darkness of the tropic night, enjoyed its villas set in palm gardens, their windows and doors wide open and the occupants sitting upon verandas or chatting in the brightly lighted drawing rooms.

As I awoke in the early morning I could hear our engine breathlessly climbing from height to height, puffing like a winded horse, and could see in the gray, dim dawn, the long fingers of banana-trees swaying in the breeze and the clustered palms rustling their dry leaves. Dark-blue slaty hills shut us in, and at the bottom of the gorge the Rimac stormed along, a roaring torrent.—From "Down the West Coast to Lima," by Ernest Peixotto, in the April Scribner.

THE BREWER'S LAMENT.

The passage of the Webb Bill by both Houses of Congress over President Taft's veto has carried consternation into the liquor camp, and even the possibility of the Supreme Court declaring it to be unconstitutional does not afford any adequate relief. The bill, as our readers probably know, declares it unlawful to ship liquor into dry states. The liquor traffic realizes that a very serious blow has been dealt the trade, and the Brewers' Review voices its feelings in the following fashion. It says: "The challenge has been sounded. The death grapple has begun. Is the brewing trade going to allow itself to be strangled to death? That is the question before the trade. Serious situations have confronted the brewing trade before, in complainant reliance upon the justice of its cause and upon the victorious qualities of the truth, the warnings of its friends have not been heeded, until now its very existence is at stake. That is the situation today. The passage of the Webb bill by Congress has demonstrated that the last great stage of the fight of one-half century has been entered upon. The greatest blow has been struck and struck successfully. It has been demonstrated that the enemy is in possession of the citadel of the nation. Prohibition is no longer a local issue. The last stage has been reached. Prohibition is a national danger. The enemy has shown that he is the controlling power in Washington." Evidently the brewers are somewhat excited. They have been so long accustomed to Congress killing or shelving a bill which they opposed that the passage of the Webb bill by 240 to 60 has thrown them into a veritable panic. And just at this juncture there is in the President's chair a man whose character and record alike give small comfort to the men who are fighting John Barleycorn's battles. For all of which let the anti-saloon forces rejoice.—C. Guardian.

Wouldst learn to know one little flower,
Its perfume, perfect form and hue?
Yea, wouldst thou have one perfect hour
Of all the years that come to you?
Then grow as God hath planted,
A lovely oak or a daisy low,
As He hath set His garden; be
Just what thou art, or grass or tree
Thy treasures up in Heaven laid
Await thy sure ascending soul,
Life after life—be not afraid.

—Jouquin Miller's last poem.

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.

"What's the missus kicking about?" inquired the housemaid from next door.

"This is her night out, but I told her I had an engagement meself."

For Hair Health

If Rexall "93" Hair Tonic does not improve the health of your scalp and hair, we will pay for what you use during the trial.

We could not so strongly endorse Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it to the same people if it did not do all we claim. Simply put, it does not improve our customers' hair, we would lose their patronage, and our business would suffer.

If your hair is falling out or you suffer any scalp trouble, we believe Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do more to eradicate the dandruff, give health to the scalp, stimulate new hair growth and prevent premature baldness than any other human agency.

We want you to make us prove this. We ask you to risk no money whatever. Buy a bottle of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, use it according to directions for thirty days; then if you are not entirely satisfied, come and tell us and we will promptly hand back the money you paid us for it.

We won't ask you to sign anything, nor even to bring the bottle back. We won't obligate you in any way. We will take your mere word. Could anything be more fair? Could we do anything more to prove our belief in Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, and our honesty of purpose in recommending it to you?

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as spring water and has but a faint, pleasing odor. It comes in two sizes of bottles, 50c and $1.00. You can buy Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store:

TOMATO CULTURE.

Almost anyone with a garden or farm in a temperate climate can grow tomatoes with greater or less success but there is a great difference between the extent and quality of the crops grown by different persons in the same locality. These differences are due to several causes among which the varieties grown and methods of cultivation practised are perhaps the chief.

According to experiments carried on for years at the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, Earliana, of which there are several strains, is the best early sort but Bonny Best, Chalk's Early Jewel are also good early kinds. Of later varieties Matchless Trophy, Lipington's Globe and Plentiful rank high.

It is the early fruit that makes the profit. In growing plants what should be aimed at is the production of a stocky, sturdy plant which will have some fruit set upon it when set in the fields. After planting the chief work is cultivation which should be done both ways in the plantation.

In order to protect tomato plants from diseases, of which there are several, they should be repeatedly sprayed, even when quite young, with Bordeaux mixture. These and many other points, which cover practically the whole field of tomato culture in the green house as well as in the garden and field, are fully treated in pamphlet No. 10 of the Central Experimental Farm prepared by the Dominion Horticulturist, Mr. W. T. Macoun. This work is for free distribution to all who apply for it to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

SUCCESS MAY COME OUT OF FAILURE.

"Do you blame your failures on other people and on circumstances, or do you sit down humbly before your failures and learn what they have to teach you?"

If you are a shop girl and you just failed to sell the piece of goods or the hat do you say to yourself, "Did I say too much or too little, or what," and apply your decision?

If you are a teacher and your class makes a most miserable flunk the day the fussiest member of the school board comes a visiting, do you say, "How did I fail to arouse enough interest to make them study that lesson?" or do you say, "Isn't that just the luck?"

"To fail in anything is very unpleasant of course. But never to fail is dangerous. It is the successes built on failures that are the most safe and secure.

Have you failed recently in anything, and have you allowed yourself to get discouraged over it?

Then remember that in every failure is a germ of success and get so busy germ hunting that you won't have time to be discouraged.—Ruth Cameron.

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief—it cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all dealers.

Joker's Corner.

NOTHING LEFT.

Care and system are the half-way houses to happiness, and if Mrs. McQuill was anything she was careful and systematic. A little while ago she had occasion to go out and leave the house to take care of itself. But the grocer was expected, and, unless he was warned, he would leave his commodities on the doorstep, and thus advertise the fact that the house was unprotected. Therefore Mrs. McQuill wrote this note:—"All out; don't leave anything," and pinned it on the front door.

When she returned her note was no longer on the front door, and there was a nasty, empty sort of sensation about the greater part of the house. Everything of value had disappeared. She found her note on the dining table; but a line had been added to it.

"Many thanks," it ran. "We have not left much."

WHERE HE SCORED.

Mrs. Timothy Talker was an ardent upholder of lost causes, and a consequent ardent neglecter of home and Mr. Timothy Talker.

Now she was reading a treatise on electricity, and after perusing it through, she removed her glasses and remarked:

"Wonderful, Timothy!"—glancing at her better half, immersed in his evening paper. "Do you hear? Soon we shall be able to get anything by merely touching a button."

"Ump!" grunted her husband. "Wouldn't do here!"

"Why not, I should like to know?" Mrs. Timothy wanted to crush her spouse with the sledge-hammer of an incontrovertible argument.

"Because," murmured Timothy, as he sidled to the door, "nothing would ever induce you to touch a button! Look at my shirt!"

THE BITER BIT.

The workhouse inmates were just about to sit down, when two men came along one of the corridors carrying a steaming cauldron between them.

"Ah!" cried the official, who had been laying in wait for them. "Put that kettle down, and fetch me a spoon!"

One of the men brought a spoon at the same time tried to say something, but was preemptorily told to hold his tongue.

"Dyer, egil that soup?" at length spluttered the official, as he swallowed a heaped-up spoonful of the steaming mess. "It's more like dirty water!"

"But that's just what it is, sir," answered the second man timidly. "We've a-been scrubbin' down the tables!"

JUST A LITTLE SLIP.

"Miss Sweet," the young man began, with a quaver in his voice, "may I presume so far upon our short acquaintance to ask you—"

"Please say no more, Mr. Matthews," faltered the maiden. "I deeply regret to give you pain; and, if I have unconsciously encouraged you to entertain hopes that never can be realized, I cannot forgive myself. Believe me, I am—"
