HEALTH AND HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Old matting may be utilized by using it to put beneath carpets.

Darn gloves in buttonhole stitch, repeated till the hole is filled up.

Grease spots may be removed from wall paper by putting clean blotting paper over them and pressing it with a hot flatiron.

For inflammatory rheumatism dissolve into a pint of sweet oil one ounce of pulverized saltpetre and thoroughly rub the parts affected.

To flavor fish sauce add a teaspoonful of vinegar, ditto tarragon, half a teaspoonful of chill, with sufficient anchovy sauce to make the melted butter a nice pink color.

Onions are excellent blood purifiers, and for eradicating boils or any of the blood humors are very efficacious. They are good for the complexion, and a friend, who has a wonderfully clear, fine complexion, attributes it to the liberal use of onions as a food.

The pointed shoes which are now so generally worn cause many corns. Women who recognize the fact that the feet were made to walk with, and that in order to walk comfortably one must have comfortable shoes, do not often sacrifice comfort for fashion.

Lime water ought to be kept in the house regularly as soon as hot weather comes. Used in the milk of little children it furnishes a necessary element to the growth of the bones and teeth. It prevents the milk curdling, and, if used in the proportion of a teaspoonful of lime water to a tumblerful of milk it adds a sweeter flavor.

It is nice for a girl to have dainty toilet articles if she can. Silver, china, and ivory are beautiful on one's dressing-table, but if one has not these, she can still keep everything that belongs to her in perfect order if she will only take pains, and order is itself beauty. Have a linen cover for your bureau or table prettily embroidered, and always add as a finishing touch a little vase of flowers.

Many think a cold baked potato is not of further use for the table; but if the peeling is thoroughly taken off and hard places removed, the potatoes mashed with a fork, seasoned, then warmed over in milk, they are good and have a different flavor than if cooked otherwise. If placed upon an attractive dish, garnished with celery or parsley and several eggs poached or boiled very soft and placed over the potatoes, they are an excellent dish. The eggs should be handled carefully so as not to break the yolks.

Boiled Codfish.—Select a piece and soak over night. Wipe it dry and broil it over clear coals for ten minutes. Place it on a hot dish, score or gash it lightly with a very sharp knife, and spread it generously with butter. Makes a nice relish for supper if placed to soak at noon.

Chicken Jelly.—Put half a raw chicken in a coarse cloth and pound with a mallet bones and meat together; then put it into a covered vessel with enough water to cover it well; let it all simmer slowly until the liquor is reduced about one-half and the meat falls to pieces when stirred. Strain and press through a cullender, and afterwards through a coarse cloth; salt and season to taste, then put it again on the fire to simmer about five minutes longer; after it is cold skim it.

Codfish Croquette.—Take equal parts of codfish (squeezed from cold water in which it has soaked five minutes after being pickled into bits) and freshly mashed potatoes; season with pepper, and roll into shapes between slightly floured hands; dip into beaten egg, and roll in fine cracker crumbs; set aside a few hours to become firm, and fry in deep, hot fat. Serve with a liberal garnish of parsley for a supper dish. May be conveniently made at noon, or the night before if wanted for breakfast.

"It made me Hands that Sor"

I couldn't slape; an' if it was that harrd on me hands, how harrd it must be on the durrt!"

This is the way a good old Irish woman praises some washing-powder or other which she prefers to Pearline. As it was proven she had never tried Pearline, the compliment would appear to be in favor of Pearline. Whoever heard of any one claiming that Pearline hurt the hands? But there's the trouble.—Pearline is the original washing compound; its success has drawn out thousands of imitations—so popular that to many it indicates any powdered washing material.
