

E. & C. GURNEY,

91 YONGE STREET, TORONTO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Fensom's Improved Copying Press.

These presses are in weight, size, and shape, the same as the celebrated Richey press. The thread is cut in the cast iron, no babbit metal being used. The platens and beds are all planed, except on the common kinds. They are fitted with Fensom's Patent Handle, by which only sufficient force can be applied to take the copy distinctly. The use of unnecessary power causes the handle to slip round, thus insuring against breakage. The manufacturers warrant these presses to the wholesale trade. They can be procured in large or small numbers from the following firms:—

Messrs. ADAM, STEVENSON & CO.; A. DREDGE & CO.; BUNTIN BROS.;
BROWN BROS., TORONTO.
