
Table of Contents

INTRODUCTION	1	APPENDIX 1
A STEP-BY-STEP APPROACH	2	Typical Marketing Areas	24
CHAPTER 1 — Decisions, Decisions	3	APPENDIX 2
Do Canadian Manufacturers Need Agents		FTA Qualifications, Customs Regulations,
in the U.S.?	3	Marking and Costing, Rules of Origin	25
Agents, Brokers, Distributors		APPENDIX 3
Is There a Difference?	3	Survey of Sales Commissions	31
Analyzing Your Market Needs	4	APPENDIX 4
Other Management Decisions	4	Guideline Information for Preparation of
CHAPTER 2 — What Your Company Offers an Agent ...	6	Manufacturers' or Suppliers' Sales Agency
Communicating Your Capabilities	6	Agreement	39
Company Services and Promotional Support	8	APPENDIX 5
Supplier Responsiveness	8	U.S. Customs Brokers	43
CHAPTER 3 — Locating Manufacturers' Agents	9	APPENDIX 6
The Nature of the Manufacturers' Agency in the U.S.	9	Canadian Trade Representatives
Sources of Information about Agents	9	in the United States	49
Initial Contact with Prospective Agents	11	APPENDIX 7
Narrowing the List	11	International Trade Centres,
CHAPTER 4 — The Interview	12	Canada Customs Regional Offices
Setting the Interview Dates	12	and U.S. Representatives in Canada	51
How the Canadian Consulate Can Help	12	APPENDIX 8
Your First Marketing Visit	12	Provincial Government Trade Development
Are You Ready to Be Interviewed?	13	Offices in Canada	54
Interviewing Prospective Agents	14	APPENDIX 9
CHAPTER 5 — Selecting the Right Agent	17	Sources of Information about Agents
Following-up the Interview	17	by Industry Sector	55
A Visit to Your Plant	17	APPENDIX 10
CHAPTER 6 — The Contract	18	National Associations of U.S. Agents	64
Negotiating with Agents	18	APPENDIX 11
How Valuable Is Your Lawyer?	20	Relevant Publications	65
Type of Contract	20
CHAPTER 7 — Communication: A Continuing Process	21
Getting Started	21
The Breaking-in Period	22
Rules of Fair Play	22
Evaluating the Agent	23
What Next?	23
The Bottom Line	23
