

verse as well as
 and I was con-
 commence such room enough to which conceit or e of the brightest
 child of nature ;
 age and disease,
 engage in such a
 ould have entered
 to be feared, that
 filled in the field
 l ever receive an
 the incomparable

merate the several
 lic, and which may ductions, I beg to
 ment of facts, and
 literary character.
 ertaken chiefly as
 and, in a majority
 ggested or desired.
 at they have been
 ould have expected,
 y thus be summed

	No. Art.
ost every subject
Mr. Gifford . . .	195
ed by Professor
. . . . .	12

	No. Art.
By the same, particularly desired by my friend Professor Napier, a 'Review of the Life of Admiral Lord St. Vin- cent,' in the 'Edinburgh Review' . . . . .	1
	Vols.
The 'Life of Lord Macartney,' in 2 vols. quarto . . . . .	2
'Travels in South Africa,' 2 vols. quarto . . . . .	2
'Travels in China,' 1 vol. quarto . . . . .	1
'Voyage to Cochin-China,' 1 vol. quarto . . . . .	1
The 'Life of Lord Anson,' 1 vol. octavo . . . . .	1
The 'Life of Lord Howe,' 1 vol. octavo . . . . .	1
In the 'Family Library,' the 'Life of Peter the Great,' and the 'Mutiny of the Bounty' . . . . .	2
'Chronological History of Arctic Voyages,' 1 vol. octavo	1
'Voyages of Discovery and Research within the Arctic Regions,' 1 vol. octavo . . . . .	1

Of these I may, perhaps, venture to repeat from Martial :—

"Sunt bona, sunt quedam mediocria, sunt mala plura."

THE END.