MEN of the noblest disposition think themselves happiest when others share their happiness with them.

"JOHN," said a master to his apprentice, as he was about starting on a journey, "you must occupy my place while I am absent." "Thank you, sir," replied John, "I'd rather sleep with the boys."

JOSH Billings' says that "the lion and the lamb may possibly sumtime lay down in this world together for a fu minnits, but when the lion kums tew git up, the lamb will be missing."

"Is your master up," asked an early visitor to a nobleman's valet. "Yes sir, the butler and I carried him up about three o'clock."

They call forgers "autograph imitators" in St Louis.

MISTRESS: "Mary, go into the sitting-room and tell me how the thermometer stands," Mary (after investigating): "It stands on the mantelpiece, just ag'in the wall, ma'am!"

SELF-MADE men are very apt to worship their maker.

WHAT is the worst seat a man can sit on? Self-conceit.

Do not stop to tell stories when calling on business men.

WATER reddens the rose; whiskey the nose; and tight boots the toes.
