ANECDOTE OF A SICK MAN.—A man not a hundred miles from this city, complaining of indisposition and want of appetite, requested his wife to make a few Apple Dumplings, as he fancied he could eat some of them. She accordingly made eight. He ate scren and an half, when sticking his fork into the last half, his little daughter, who had been watch-ing her father with glistening eyes and liquo-rish mouth, at this juncture solicited a piece, when patting her on the cheek, he replied, go avay my dear, papa's sick, when he finished the last half.—Maryland paper.

"TRUTH POSIS POLITENESS."——At a tea-party, where some cantabs happened to be present, after the cups had been handed round, the lady, who was presiding over the tea equi-page, "hoped the tea was good." "Very good, indeed madam," was the general reply, till it came to the turn of one of the cantabs to speak, who, between truth and politeness, shrewdly observed—"That the tea was ex-cellent, but the water was smoky." cellent, but the water was smoky.'
