ESTATE OF
JOHN MCCANN
I am instructed, in order to close out estate, to sell at Public Auction at Club's Corner on Saturday, July 22nd, at twelve o'clock noon, property No. 90 Bridge St.
This will be disposed of either as a leasehold or a freehold, as the lot includes the corner (Cor. Main and Bridge streets), on which stands the store now owned and occupied by George Gorman.
The size of the entire lot is sixty feet on the street front, varying in depth from forty-five to sixty-eight feet. The small building which is to be sold is 24 ft. by 35 ft. There is a good store nicely finished, and a large work-room overhead, sheathed and in good condition generally. There is running water and electric lights in the store and workroom over-head. The building has a splendid brick and stone foundation.

HE DESERTED FROM THREE OF THE ARMIESGerman Who Was With His Own French and Belgian

The adventurous career of a young German was disclosed as a result of his appearance in the dock at Marlborough Street police court, London, recently.
His name, as it appeared on the charge sheet, is Rene Ghilot Max Kohler. He was born in Germany of German parents twenty-six years ago. He has joined at one time or other the German, the French, and the Belgian armies, and deserted from all three. Max Kohler, who is his real name—is a well-educated man, and speaks English, French and German, and has such a command of the three languages that he rarely betrays himself in conversation.

All that happened in court was that inspector Jacobs, the alien officer at Vine street, formally asked the magistrate, Mr. Mead, to discharge Kohler, in order that he might be handed over to the military authorities to be transferred to the French authorities.

At a previous hearing Inspector Jacobs said that on May 6 he arrested Kohler at a house in Church street, Soho, where he was residing with his English wife. He said his name was Rene Ghilot, and that he was born at Ixelles, near Brussels, and was being charged with contravening a deportation order and with being an alien enemy, he confessed that he was a German, and that he was born at Sauguis, Wurtemberg.
Deserted the German Army.

The Daily Express has gathered details of Kohler's amazing life story.
There is no doubt of his pure German origin. All his family are Germans, and two of his sisters are married to German officers. At the age of twenty he was called up for service in the German army, but after a few weeks' service he deserted from the army and made his way to England and then to America.

From America he went to France, and for some time lived in Paris. A few months before war broke out he married a French girl in Paris, and she is still living. Then, on the declaration of war, he joined the French army, and was among the first troops to be sent to the front.

On the very first day he was in action August 22, 1914, he was reported to be missing, and later it was found that he had deserted and had been taken by the Germans at Charleroi. He told them he was a German, and persuaded them to allow him to make his way through Belgium to Holland. Later he posed as a Belgian refugee, and as such boarded a steamer, came to Tilbury, and was duly admitted to the country.

Last March he was arrested by the police for being a deserter from the French army, and handed over to a French military escort in the steamer Suisse on March 24 last. While crossing the Channel the Suisse was torpedoed by a German submarine, and about 100 lives were lost. Kohler managed, in the excitement, to escape from his military escort, and jumped into the sea. He was rescued with other survivors by a British destroyer and taken into Folkestone.
As he spoke English fluently and with no trace of a foreign accent, he was able to get back to London a free and unsuspected man. He again went to the theatre to go to the Belgian Con-sulate in London, and join the Belgian army, for which he was duly passed as physically fit.

"I wish to complain," said the bride, happily, "about that flour you sold me.
It was tough."

"Tough, ma'am?" asked the grocer.
"Yes, tough, I made a pie with it, and my husband could hardly eat it."

Artist—"How do you like the portrait?"
"Well, I don't exactly like the nose."
Artist—"Neither do I; but it's yours."
