Loch Lomond Fair Being Held Today

The annual fair of the Loch Lomond Agricultural Society is being held this afternoon in the hall of that district. It was expected that the favorable turn in the weather today would bring about the average number of entries in cattle, horses, vegetables, grains, dairy products and the women's homework, such as knitted garments, preserved fruit, vegetables, etc. The secretary is Alexander Johnston, assisted by Mrs. George Crozier and the officials anticipated a particularly large attendance of suburban and city folks. It was also hoped some of the political speakers would revive an oldtime custom and enliven the proceedings with addresses.

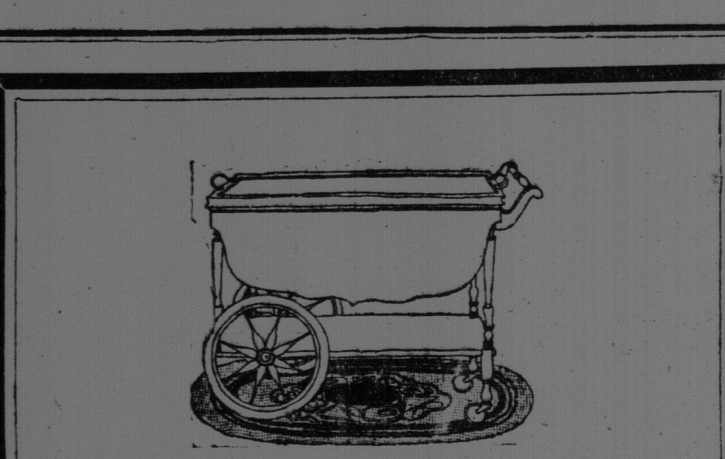

DANCE TONIGHT. Through an error a dance at Victoria Hall was advertised for Tuesday and Wednesday night, whereas the dance is to be held tonight.
