WRESTLING.

Strangler is Victor
Des Moines, Iowa, March 29.—Ed. Strangler, Lewis successfully defended his world's championship wrestling title last night, defeating in straight falls Armos Lastinen of Finland, European champion.

Ruth as Referee
Little Rock, Ark., March 29.—Babe Ruth has been asked to referee a wrestling bout here on April 3 between Stanislaus Zyzanski, former world's heavyweight champion and Charles Renfro, claimant of the world's middleweight championship. Ruth will be here on that date with the New York Yankees.

RING.

Decision for Sharkey.
New York, March 29.—Jack Sharkey, local bantamweight, was given the decision over Willie Spencer at the end of a 12-round bout here last night.

HOCKEY.

St. Patrick's Win.
Toronto, March 28.—St. Patrick's, of Toronto, are the professional hockey champions of the world. They defeated Vancouver Millionaires 5 to 1 in the fifth and final match of the series here tonight, the standing for the series being three wins to two for the Irishmen. The game tonight was not by any means as one-sided as the score would indicate, for, while St. Patrick's had somewhat the best of the play, they had also decidedly the best of the breaks. St. Patrick's second goal was disputed by the visiting players. They claimed to win. Over-anxiety on the part of the visitors had a lot to do with the great difference in the score.

BILLIARDS.

Schaefer Still Leads.
Jake Schaefer, 18 balk-line champion, increased his lead over Willie Hoppe, former world's champion, in the second block of their 1,500 point match in Chicago last evening. Schaefer won 800 to 480. At one time Schaefer was leading 800 to 97 when Hoppe staged a sensational up hill drive.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

In answer to a delegation of prohibitionists from the whole of Canada who asked for legislation prohibiting the manufacture, exportation and transportation of liquor, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister, said that the government was ready to help in any way in the enforcement of the provincial prohibition legislation but that there would be no bill introduced for total prohibition at the present session. Damage to the extent of about $125,000 was done by fire which destroyed the principal business district of the town of Southwest Harbor, Me., on Monday. Five business houses, a residence, and part of the Masonic block were destroyed by the fire. Word was received early this morning in North Sydney, N. S., of the destruction of the old whaling steamer Diana, which has been caught in the ice floes for two weeks. She started to leak and the crew left her yesterday after setting fire to her. They were taken off by the Sagona.

A GOLDWYN PICTURE

WEDNESDAY GAIETY THURSDAY

We respectfully urge your attendance at the showing of George Melford's superb Paramount picture production, "THE GREAT IMPERSONATION," featuring James Kirkwood. This is positively a picture de luxe, and from every standpoint of direction, investiture and acting, it has few superiors. To see this photoplay is tantamount to receiving some great unexpected benefit. It is an E. Phillips Oppenheim story of the first grade. Don't miss it. Patrons are urged to be in their seats at the opening of the regular showings, because it is essential that they should absorb the beginning of one of the greatest stories ever screened. And by doing so, there will be afforded the thrills that accompany the development of a mystery story such as are developed in "THE GREAT IMPERSONATION."

Comedy starts at 7:10 and 9:10. "The Great Impersonation" at 7:30, 9:30.

WILLIAM FARNUM in "A STAGE ROMANCE"

Not to see this picture means missing a photoplay that seldom is equalled for interesting plot and for acting of a high order. The presence of the verile, accomplished Farnum as the star is of itself a magnet usually sufficient to pack any house. But this photoplay gives Farnum a particularly gripping story with which to display his talents. Alexander Dumas, from whose play the picture was made is often called the world's greatest plot builder. Furthermore, the story concerns a crucial period in the life of Edmund Kean, the illustrious actor.

TWIN-LIKE BROTHERS

DAZZLE THE WITNESSES

Confused identities, due to the twin-like resemblance of the brothers Henry J. Miller of 286 William street and George J. Miller, a policeman attached to the Atlantic avenue station, Brooklyn, who was put on trial at New York police headquarters on the charge of assaulting Harry Kalmers of 52 Pike street on November 18, caused so much doubt in the minds of witnesses that First Deputy Police Commissioner Leach had to reserve decision until he could solve the puzzle. Inspector Coleman investigated this case some time ago, when he learned there had been a fight by a group of men in Kalmers' saloon, at Rutgers and Madison streets, during which the proprietor said he had lost four good teeth. He and several witnesses had identified Policeman Miller as one of the assailants, and said the officer was in plain clothes.

"I was not in Kalmers' place, or near it, at that time," declared Miller to the trial commissioner yesterday. "I was two miles distant from it, with Patrolman Joseph Petersen of the West Thirtieth street station, investigating an alleged illicit still location. They have mistaken me for my brother Henry, who tells me he was in the saloon at the time of the fight." His brother was called into the trial room.

"They are twins!" gasped Kalmers, when the policeman and his brother stood smiling before him. Although the complainant and his witnesses had told Inspector Coleman that they believed Policeman Miller to be the man, they admitted then to Leach that they were unable to say which of the brothers was in the saloon. Henry J. Miller, while admitting he was one of those involved in the row, denied he had hit Kalmers. Miller said he had merely defended himself as best he could when a free-for-all fight started over a dispute and he had got out as soon as he could reach the door.
