MC 2035 POOR DOCUMENT

Bake!

COULD your bake day be made a little easier? Very likely it could. Read this signed, sincere truth and judge for yourself:

Easy bakeday:

Regal Flour readily yields the best quality and the utmost quantity of bread per barrel. No flour in the world yields more per barrel. The loaves it bakes are white and light. Its pastry is deliciously flaky.

Guarantee:

Your first bakeday will tell if we exaggerate or not. If we have, in your judgment, your dealer will gladly return your money. We, in turn, must pay him back. Unless you are pleased we lose. Isn't that fair? Remember—Regal.

The Guilty Party

By RUTH CAMERON

ONE hears a great deal of protest from time to time against the owners of houses and apartments and the hostesses of boarding and lodging houses who bar children.

Now it surely must be pretty trying to find one's self shut out of a home which one is perfectly willing to pay for, simply because he has dared to help keep the race alive. But I wonder if the landlords and hostesses deserve all our blame. It seems to me that the ill-bred children and the careless parents who bring down odium on all children deserve at least half the blame. Surely he who abuses a privilege is just as much at fault when the privilege is withdrawn, as he who withdraws it..

A beautiful apartment house was recently put up in our town. Families with children were not excluded and two moved in. One family had three children; they were well brought up and did not cause any trouble. The other family had but one child, a little girl about six years old who had been as thoroughly spoiled as a fond and foolish mother could spoil her.

This child was an inveterate tease and one of her most most pleasing tricks was to get out on the lawn in front of the house and then argue at the top of her lungs with her mother at the third floor window.

Dialogues like this were frequently howled into the ears of the other tenants:

"What are you doing down there? I told you to stay in the house."

"I want to go down to Ruth's."

"I told you that you couldn't. Come right back up here."

"I don't want to. Can't I go down to Ruth's for just a little while?"

"No, Margery. Come right upstairs. I'll tell your father if you don't."

"Can I have some candy if I come up?"

"Perhaps so. You come in and I'll see."

I have cut this dialogue rather short on account of limited space, but some of the tenants assured me that Margery and her mother were troubled by no limits, and that such dialogues frequently lasted fifteen minutes at a time, interrupting naps, rendering concentration on work or play totally impossible, and generally making things miserable.

The result of this and other displeasing habits of the youngster, quite too numerous to mention, was that two tenants gave notice and the landlord finally had to ask the offenders to leave. The rule has now been made that no families with children will be accepted in that apartment house.

"It isn't that I don't like children. I love them," said the hostess of a boarding house in reference to her refusal to take a family with two children. "It's just that I can't run the risk of getting ill-bred children who will drive away the rest of my guests."

Daily Hints For the Cook

THIN SUGAR COOKIES.

One scant cup of shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, beaten well together, 3 tablespoons milk, a little nutmeg or vanilla, 2 teaspoons baking powder in 1 cup flour. Add flour to mix stiff and roll very thin. When baked sprinkle immediately with granulated sugar.

COCOANUT CUSTARD PUDDING.

Cocoanut custard pudding: One-half cup prepared cocoanut, 2 cups milk, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 cup bread crumbs, yolk 1 egg, a little nutmeg, 1 teaspoon butter. Soak cocoanut and bread crumbs in milk an hour. Bake about an hour. Frost with white of 1 egg beaten, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar and 1 tablespoon cocoanut. Brown slightly in oven.

CUSTARD PIE.

Two eggs, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups milk, few gratings of nutmeg. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and milk. Line plate with paste and build up. Strain in the mixture and sprinkle with few gratings of nutmeg. Bake in quick oven at first to set rim. Decrease the heat afterward, as egg and milk in combination need to be cooked at low temperature.

Another rule with three eggs is as follows: Three eggs and 3 tablespoons sugar, beaten together. Scald 1 1-2 pints milk, stir slowly into eggs and sugar, pour into rich crust and shake a little nutmeg on top. Bake as above.

OCEAN SHIPS TO HEAR ICEBERGS.

Taking his lesson from the bat, which has the faculty of avoiding obstacles in a degree of darkness that renders eyes useless, Sir Hiram Maxim proposes to equip ships with a mechanical apparatus which will perform a function of like nature, says the October Popular Mechanics' Magazine in an interesting illustrated article.

The apparatus Maxim has devised to provide ships with this "sixth sense" mechanically, comprises a device for producing and sending out the necessary air waves; another, for receiving back the reflected waves and making them reveal their presence by ringing bells, and a third, for recording the amplitude of the waves.

RASH SO BAD BABY CAME NEAR DYING

Head Broke Out. Spread to Arms, Legs and Entire Body. Itched So He Would Scratch Until Blood Ran. One Box of Cuticura Ointment and Nearly One Cake of Cuticura Soap Cured Him. Has Had No Return.

"When my boy was about three months old, his head broke out with a rash which was very itchy and ran a watery fluid. We tried everything we could but he got worse all the time, till it spread to his arms, legs and then to his entire body. He got so bad that he came near dying. The rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran, and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to prevent him tearing his skin. He was so weak and run down that he took fainting spells as if he were dying. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like claws.

"He was bad about eight months when we tried Cuticura Remedies. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long while. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura Ointment and he was so soothed that he could sleep. You don't know how glad I was he felt better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment and pretty near one cake of Cuticura Soap to cure him. I think our boy would have died but for the Cuticura Remedies and I shall always remain a firm friend of them. He was cured more than twenty years ago, and there has been no return of the trouble. I shall be glad to have you publish this true statement of his cure." (Signed) Mrs. M. C. Maitland, Jasper, Ontario, May 27, 1910.

For more than a generation mothers have found a speedy, agreeable and economical treatment for their skin-tortured little ones in Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Although they are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each may be obtained free, from the Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole props., 53 Columbus Ave., Boston, U.S.A.

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

The black oxen used to draw the funeral car of the late Mikado, are of a select species which for centuries has been bred solely for the use of the Japanese imperial family. The cream colored horses reserved for the use of the English royal family are also of an exclusive breed, but some of them were once obliged to serve a foreign ruler. When Napoleon occupied Hanover he seized all the cream colored horses. The state carriage at his coronation was drawn by eight of these horses and their employment on this occasion so angered George III. that he gave up using the others of the breed stabled in London.

Labouchere's Former Editor Buys Vanity Fair—Turkey's Crown Prince Believes he is Losing His Reason

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company)

Charles Edward Jerningham, the principal collaborator of Henry Labouchere in the writing and editing of the latter's London weekly newspaper entitled "Truth" and who with Labouchere and the late Horace Voules contributed more than any other to its success has purchased another old-established London weekly newspaper, "Vanity Fair" which has undergone many vicissitudes. Jerningham used to contribute a weekly article entitled "Letter from the Linkman," over the signature of "Marmaduke," to "Truth" but severed his connection with that paper when, after the death of his friend Labouchere, its editors and present owners published a series of articles of a nature to reflect upon the character of the role of Labouchere in its production, intimating that he had won and retained credit that belonged to others.

Under Jerningham's proprietorship and editorial direction "Vanity Fair" is certain to be run on much the same lines as "Truth" in the days of Labouchere, and to observe the same care in refraining from all attacks upon women.

It was originally founded by Thomas Gibson Bowles, a Tory politician, who for nearly a quarter of a century represented Kings Lynn in parliament, and is a recognized authority on all maritime questions. It has been edited and owned in turn since then, by the late Earl of Desart, by Frank Harris and others, with varying success "Vanity Fair" made two or three terrible mistakes, which gave great offence in precisely those quarters to which it professed to appeal.

Perhaps the worst of these faux pas was when, after printing one week a very successful cartoon of a popular and universally respected member of the reigning family, the next issue contained an equally remarkable cartoon, and a laudatory sketch of a man, who, though a clever literateur and lawyer, nevertheless had so evil a record as to cause men to avoid him, and clubs to which he had obtained admission in ignorance of his antecedents, to request his withdrawal. Indeed, the cartoon in "Vanity Fair" attracted public attention to the fact that he was living in England, which he found prudent to quit within twenty four hours, going to the continent, where he spent several years afterwards, while "Vanity Fair" a couple of weeks later printed an abject apology for having included him inadvertently and in ignorance, in its list of cartoon celebrities.

Charles Jerningham knows his London too well to admit of "Vanity Fair" ever making such an amazing mistake while under his guidance. I understand that his friend Ralph Neville, who was one of his most brilliant associates on the staff of "Truth," and who is a son of the wonderful old Lady Dorothy Neville, will cooperate with him on "Vanity Fair." It may be remembered that they were joint authors of a most interesting volume of anecdotes published a few years ago, entitled "From Piccadilly to Pall Mall," and dealing with English society. Both are members of the St. James' Club, and of the Bachelors.

Charles Jerningham is a member of that historic family of Jerningham of which Lord Stafford is the chief. The Barony of Stafford was originally one of the honors of the House of Howard. But the peerage, which was heritable in the female line, was attainted in 1680, when Williard Howard, Lord Stafford, lost his head on the scaffold as a victim of the infamous Titus Oates. The peerage remained in that condition until 1825, when the attainder was repealed by act of parliament in favor of Sir George Jerningham, whose ancestor and namesake, the fifth holder of the Jerningham baronetcy, had married Lord Stafford's heiress.

Sir Henry Jerningham was master of the horse to Queen Mary, but did not enjoy the favor of Queen Elizabeth, owing to his refusal to abandon the Catholic faith, to which the Jerninghams belong to this day.

Charles Jerningham is a younger brother of Sir Hubert Jerningham, a former diplomat, former colonial governor, and former member of parliament. As a young attache' of the British embassy at Paris, Sir Hubert was one of the most successful of that brilliant troupe of amateur actors and actresses who, under the leadership of an Austrian ambassadress, Princess Pauline Metternich, not only occupied the stage of the private theatres of the imperial palaces of the Tuileries, of St. Cloud, of Fontainebleau, and of Compiegne, but virtually led the revels at the gay court of Napoleon III. and Empress Eugenie, during the closing years of their reign.

Hubert Jerningham's success was due not only to his complete command of the French language—he was graduated from a Paris instead of from an English university—but likewise to his remarkable histrionic ability and tastes, which latter may be said to have pursued him throughout his entire career. When governor of Mauritius and of other British dependencies, he was in the habit of giving dramatic entertainments, mostly in the nature of farces of his own authorship. He fulfilled the duties of stage manager and nothing but the necessity of maintaining unimpaired the lofty dignity of his office as representative of the sovereign, prevented him from appearing before the footlights.

Turkey's Crownprince Youssouf Izzedine has for some time been laboring under the conviction that he is losing his reason. He makes no secret about the matter, and declares that since several months he has been a prey to fits of melancholia and of intense mental depression, as well as of lapses of memory. He has now gone abroad to consult eminent brain and nerve specialists in Vienna, in France, and in Switzerland, and before his departure from Constantinople, notified his uncle the Sultan, as well as the premier, old Mouktar Pasha Gazi, who was the mentor of his youth, and who has remained his most trusted friend, that unless the foreign physicians afford him relief, and hold out promise of speedy cure, he will on his return to Stamboul resign his position and rank as heir apparent to the throne, making way for his uncle Prince Vahid-Eddine, only surviving brother of ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid, and of the present Sultan, and like them, a son of Sultan Abdul Medjid.

Crown Prince Youssouf Izzedine is the eldest son of the late Sultan Abdul Assiz, who met with a violent death a few days after his deposition in 1876 having either stabbed himself, or having been stabbed by others, with a pair of long, narrow-bladed and very pointed Turkish scissors. The prince is a very short man of about fifty-six, who throughout the thirty odd years of Abdul Hamid's reign, lived in quasi-captivity in his palace, cut off from all intercourse with the outer world, and an object of profound suspicion and aversion to his cousin the Sultan. This species of imprisonment impaired his health.

"77" FOR GRIP & COLDS

Stages of a Cold

Lassitude or weakness, this is the very first symptom of having taken Cold—a dose of "Seventy-seven" ends it.

Heat, fever, restlessness—follow if "Seventy-seven" has not been used.

Tickling or dryness of the throat an early symptom is controlled by "Seventy-seven."

Sneezing, running at the nose, are catarrhal symptoms that yield to "Seventy-seven."

At any of these stages "Seventy-seven" will break up a Cold without delay.

If the Cold is allowed to run on, till the cough or sore throat develops "Seventy-seven" is still the remedy, but may take longer—It pays to keep "Seventy-seven" handy. All Druggists 25c. Book free.

Girlish, Wrinkle-Free Skin Easy to Have

(From Pilgrim Magazine).

Since its remarkable astringent and tonic properties became known, clever women all over the world have been using the saxolite face bath to "tone up" their faces, remove wrinkles and draw flabby cheeks and neck back to normal. After using the solution, the face immediately feels much firmer. The skin tightens evenly, gradually, all over the face, thus reducing lines and sagginess. The formula is: Powdered saxolite, 1 ounce, dissolved in witch hazel, 1-2 pint.

Another wonderful facial beautifier and rejuvenator that has become quite a rage in the United States, as in Europe, is mercolized wax. Druggists report a great demand. The wax literally absorbs a sallow, blotchy or withered complexion, giving the fresh, vigorous, healthy-hued young skin underneath a chance to "breathe" and to show itself. Applying the wax at night, like cold cream, washing it off mornings, will completely renovate a poor complexion in a week or ten days. One ounce usually is sufficient.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentry and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville (Ont.)

SALVATION ARMY CONGRESS HERE

The thirtieth annual eastern congress of the Salvation Army opens next Friday, Sept. 27, in this city. This year the scope of the congress has been much extended and St. John will receive delegates from Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island as well as from this province.

Commissioner D. M. Rees, head of the Salvation Army in Canada, Newfoundland and the Bermudas, will be present while Colonel and Mrs. Henry Mapp, chief secretaries for Canada and Lieutenant Colonel Pugmire, field secretary, will arrive from Toronto to conduct the congress.

On Friday evening at 7 o'clock welcome will be accorded the delegates in the shape of a torch light procession which will start from the citadel on Charlotte street followed by a welcome demonstration in the citadel.

On Saturday there will be an open session of council for the officers while on Sunday at 11 o'clock addresses will be given by Commissioner Rees and others. The afternoon meeting, commencing at 3 p. m., will take the form of a citizen's welcome to the visiting officers and delegates, and farewell of Colonel and Mrs. Happ, who have been second in command of the army's work in Canada for the last four years. His Honor Judge Forbes, will preside. At 7 a. m., a great Salvation meeting will be held. Lieutenant Colonel Pugmire, the army's singing evangelist, the Congress Band, and one hundred and fifty delegates will take part in these services.

From St. John Colonel Rees will go to Westville to open the new citadel of the army there and from thence to Halifax.

Louis Goyet, 81 years old, of Haverhill, is the oldest active bricklayer in that city, and probably in the state. He has been working at the trade for the last 60 years and he estimates that in that time he has laid more than 100 miles of brick. Up to two years ago he was in the habit of laying 500 brick a day, but his average now is 400.

Claude—They say Miss Justine is going into a convent for life.

Jack—Yes; she has promised to be a sister to so many of us that she is going to adopt it as a profession.

THE WORK OF THE W.C.T.U. IN SESSION IN CAMPBELLTON

Campbellton, N. B., Sept. 20—The sessions of the W. C. T. U. at their annual convention are being well attended. On Thursday Rev. Mr. Squires opened the first meeting with Bible reading, after which Mrs. Livingston gave an hour's talk on departmental work, speaking of the alliance between the International Sunday School Association and the W. C. T. U. and also referring to the need of living up to the principles of the order. She advised members to take the pledge card to the homes and have it signed with the sanction of the parent. She would like to see a Sunday known as pledge-signing Sunday.

Mrs. McPhail of Perth, gave a report on her department of medal contests.

On Wednesday evening in the new Methodist church Mayor Murray officially welcomed the delegates and messages of greeting were extended by the ministers of the Protestant denominations on behalf of their congregations. Mrs. Bruce, president of the local union, extended a hearty welcome to which the provincial president replied. Mrs. Livingston gave an address which was closely followed and keenly appreciated. The meeting closed with singing "All Round the World," after services had been taken part in by Rev. Mr. Squires and Rev. Messrs Jeune and Drumm.

WHAT HE ENTERTAINED.

"My wife is a lecturer, and I am an entertainer," said Hobbs. "Indeed? I knew your wife appeared in public but I did not know that you ever did." "Oh, I don't. I stay at home and entertain the baby."—Puck.

ULSTER DAY IN CHURCHES

Armagh, Ireland, Sept. 20—Most Rev. John Baptist Crozier, Primate of All Ireland of the Church of England, has designated next Sunday and the days following it, including Saturday, "Ulster Day" as "days of special intercession and prayer on behalf of our beloved native land." During the week the following special collect will be read:

"Deliver us, we pray thee from these great imminent dangers that threaten the welfare of our church and country. Grant that all that is said or done this week may tend to the glory of Thy great name and the welfare of the church and people, so that truth, justice, religion and piety may be established among us for all generations."
