

be out of place here to enlarge upon the Christian virtues and excellencies of one who was so widely known both in the church and city; and while we grieve that here we shall see her face no more, we rejoice to know that she has obtained an "inheritance among them which are sanctified, and a crown which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will give to all those who love His appearing."

In conclusion, the Teachers would respectfully beg leave to lay the claims of the Sabbath School before the parents, asking earnestly both their prayers and active co-operation, that they may begin the year with a fresh impulse given to their labors, "forasmuch as they know their labor is not in vain in the Lord."
