Guilty of Murder

The jury summoned at Kinsale, Ireland, where the survivors and the bodies of the Lusitania disaster were taken, delivered a verdict finding the officers of the submarine and the Emperor and Government of Germany guilty of wholesale murder, and guilty of a murderous attack on an unarmed liner.

Bareneed Notes

Miss Mary Stevens, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens, went out to the city by Saturday morning's train.

Mr. William Richards, who has been very ill for some time, is able to get around again, though unable to do any work.

Mr. Thomas Boone has been dangerously ill for some time past. A few of his friends have been staying up watching over him this past few nights, as there is not much hope of his recovery.

The weather last week was so disagreeable that the gardeners of this place were unable to do their ploughing and other work in their gardens. Some of the gardeners who had seeds planted fear they will have to sow a second lot as their first sowing was killed by the cold.

Mr. Fred Hartley of Catalina was in town last Monday morning and in the afternoon he drove to Cupids.

A number of our townsmen who were to the sealfishery arrived home last week, all well. We are glad that they arrived home all well, although their voyage was a very poor one.

May 12, 1915. CORRESPONDENT.

Prohibition for Newfoundland

The question of Prohibition for Newfoundland will be submitted to the people in November next. There is a growing agitation for the banning of liquor from this colony. There is one thing, however, that the temperance forces will have to do. They must make it clear that they are not for medicinal purposes, for many people rely on certain kinds of liquor for use in case of sickness. The medical profession could assist in this matter.

At present St. John's is the only place in the island where liquor can be legally sold. But even there the liquor traffic is greatly restricted. The saloons now may be opened only from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., private drinking rooms have been abolished, inebriate drunkards may be blacklisted and three offences against the law entail forfeiture of a license. If Prohibition is adopted, it will go into effect on July 1, 1916.

Storstad Responsible

The Admiralty Court at Montreal found the Storstad responsible for the loss of the liner Empress of Ireland, which sank in a collision with the former steamer in the St. Lawrence on May 29, 1914. The Storstad was held to be solely to blame. Alfred Tutness, the first officer of the Storstad, is found to have caused the collision by having altered the course of his ship. The amount claimed by the owners of the Empress was $2,000,000. The Storstad was sold for $175,000.

Letters from Our Naval Reservists

From Ralph Norman, Country Road. H.M.S. Duncan, March 29, 1915.

Dear Mother—Just a few lines to let you know that I am still alive and in health and strength. We are having fine weather. I haven't seen enough snow fall at a time to cover the lace holes in my boots. We have a shower or two at a time. We have it a little frosty sometimes.

I am getting along fine, but I don't go on shore very much. We are inspected every morning and evening when we go on shore. We have to wash our clothes every week. Saturday is our washday. After dinner on Saturdays we go ashore. Our drill hours are about the same as on the Calypso, only one hour difference. We live on the ship and drill at the barracks. We have had over one week's drill in the gunnery school. Give my love to all friends. I am still trusting in God. I have had it hard sometimes but I take it all as a pleasure. If there was no temptation there would be no Jesus as my guide and comforter. Your loving son, RALPH G. NORMAN.

From Albert Snow, Coley's Point. H.M.S. Hazel, April 11, 1915.

My Dear Mother—I received your kind and welcome letter when I came to port the last trip. Glad you are all well, as I am at present. We are still ploughing the ocean in search of the enemy. It is nice weather over here now. This is Sunday afternoon, and I would like to be home to see the boys. I cannot say much about the war, only they are doing a little every day. It is going to be a long fight I am thinking, and we have to put up with it and smile at it and shout 'Are we down-hearted?' and answer 'No!' It is time for some of the boys at home to wake up and look alive and get to work and do a little in this war. Jim Snow is smart. ALBERT SNOW.

Big Enterprise Still Before the House

The Mtd. Products Corporation Bill is still before the House, and it is being very much debated. Mr. Morine has been the chief opponent of the measure going through in its entirety, and has suggested several amendments. We are glad to see the measure discussed on its merits, for the expenditure of a large amount of money in any country has usually tempted the people directly interested to become unconcerned as to the concessions to be granted and the effect the granting of such concessions would have on the future development of the country.

Present gain is not always to be desired in itself. While we should be always ready and anxious to foster and encourage any attempt at development which would give labor to our people, we should at the same time be careful that our interests for the future are protected.

Don't take our word for it, but call and see the engine yourself. If you don't know very much about motor engines, bring along someone who do. We are not afraid of comparisons. C. E.
