IN MEMORY OF THE PILGRIM FATHERS

Tablet Unveiled in Old Church in Holland.

Tercentenary of the Departure of the English Exiles for the New World Observed.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 1.—In the beginning of the seventeenth century there was only one country in Europe where liberty of conscience was allowed and that land was still fighting for its freedom in a war which lasted eighty years. In the long fight, which seemed at first but a hopeless rebellion of little Holland against the all-powerful empire of Spain, it was the seemingly weaker country that was destined to be successful. At the same time it was enabled to be the haven of refuge for persecuted people of other nationalities. In England religious intolerance still reigned supreme, and in 1608 a bill was introduced in parliament to suppress nonconformists gave rise to cruel persecutions and when, after the Hampton court conference of 1640, the edict of "conformity or exile" was issued there remained nothing for British Puritans but to choose between their country and comfort or exile and liberty to worship according to their consciences. They did not hesitate, but chose the latter. A Christian brotherhood had been established in 1608 at Scrooby Manor in Lincolnshire, England, and these men, led by their pastor, John Robinson, fled from England in 1609, after suffering imprisonment and having been deprived of all their possessions. They crossed the sea to Holland and first settled in Amsterdam.

WELCOMED BY THE DUTCH.
The Dutch, who so well remembered their own sufferings, received them with brotherly affection and gave them the Church of the Holy Sepulchre as their place of worship. This place still exists almost exactly as it was in those days. It is a small building with whitewashed walls and quite bare and simple in its interior arrangements as in the days when the first Puritans gathered there for worship. It is in the most secluded spot to be found in all Amsterdam, in the old town of Oudekerk, and with its pretty gardens and ancient gabled houses. It is quite shut off from the city and is reached only through a stone archway. In this pretty spot, so hushed and quiet, where nothing is heard but the singing in the gardens, the tiny white church stands and one can imagine the earnest-faced pilgrims entering the sanctuary of prayer and mingling their psalms with the songs of the little feathered warblers. Later, the pilgrims removed to Leyden, where their memory is preserved in the St. Peter's church and the Peschhof in the Klooster, and the original tablet placed in the St. Peter's church was erected to the memory of their pastor, John Robinson, who often preached there. His house, near the church, is also still in existence, while an inscription on the Peschhof commemorates his residence here with his little flock.

But the Puritans felt that they were but exiles and pilgrims, and that they could have no lasting place of abode in Europe. The spirit moved them to seek a home across the ocean, in far-away America, where they destined to become the forefathers of the great American nation—the "new world" which lay beneath the whole lump—whose spirit of play and love of liberty have permeated the new nation throughout the succeeding generations.

PILGRIMAGE TO AMERICA.
The pilgrims decided first to send a few of their number the youngest and strongest, as pioneers, across the sea, and when those had found a dwelling place the rest were to follow. They sailed in her they embarked at Welshaven, near Rotterdam, on July 22nd, 1620. The whole party, consisting of 102 persons, followed their departing brothers and sisters to Rotterdam, and they passed the night in prayer in the old church of Delfshaven, where the service was held before the departure of the vessel. When the time of farewells arrived the whole congregation went to the landing stage and here John Robinson, who could not accompany the first pilgrims to America, fell on his knees and called down the blessing of the Almighty on the exiles. The Speedwell sailed first to Plymouth, where the pilgrims were joined by another contingent of forty-five from England in the Mayflower. After a long voyage of nine weeks they landed on the barren shores of Cape Cod Bay. How other fugitives soon followed and how with about three hundred people the colony of New England was started—how this colony had an independent existence for ten years, until it consisted of seventeen towns with 15,000 inhabitants and was then merged into the British-American provinces of Massachusetts—all this is written in the history of the United States. What more especially concerns Holland is the gratitude with which the descendants of the pilgrin fathers still regard the Netherlands. The old church at Delfshaven and the landing pier from which the pilgrims sailed is visited annually by many Americans, who also undertake pilgrimages to Leyden and Amsterdam to visit the places where their forefathers lived and worshipped.

Chicago, too, contains a memorial of the exiles in which the American nation still holds the memory of the hospitality of Holland—the beautiful church consecrated in 1867—which has built in its walls in a conspicuous place the stone obtained from the old church in Delfshaven bearing the date of 1585. Two other stones in the church also commemorate the pilgrin fathers—one from Scrooby Manor and one from Plymouth Rock, where the pioneers first set foot on American soil.

In return for the Delfshaven stone the Chicago congregation sent a stone from their own church with the inscription, "One Lord, Chicago, Feb. 7, 1887." This stone was placed in Delfshaven church and can still be seen there, together with the parchment deed of gift and a picture representing the first religious service of the pilgrims on their landing in America.

MEMORIAL TABLETS UNVEILED.
Now, in this year of 1906, the tercentenary of the coming to Holland of more of the pilgrims, the Boston Congregational Club decided to honor the memory of the Puritans and their Dutch hosts. They presented a memorial tablet to be placed in Delfshaven church and this tablet was unveiled Sept. 28. The church was almost too small to contain the numerous congregation in which were many Americans. The church was prettily decorated and the assembly was presided over by Colonel Lister, consul of the United States in Rotterdam, the American minister to The Hague being absent. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Brown, of the Scottish church, the Rev. William Elliott Griffin, of Boston, and two Dutch clergymen. The tablet was accepted by Mr. Benthien in the name of the Delfshaven church and the arms of Massachusetts and of Delfshaven, the name "Jehovah" in Hebrew characters

SIR THOMAS BEING ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

Reiterates His Assertion That He Will Make Another Attempt to Lift the Cup

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—Sir Thomas Lip-don spent most of his time in Boston today with Massachusetts sailors, professional and amateur. He broke up with members of the Boston Yacht Club at their winter station on Rowe's wharf, and then strolled along the waterfront to the distributing centre of the Massachusetts fisheries at T wharf. Sir Thomas went on board number of the schooners and after meeting about among the crews, doles and bait tubs on the decks came ashore and announced to several hundred hardy mariners that he would offer a valuable cup for a fisherman's race next year in Massachusetts Bay. From the water front, Sir Thomas came up town and attended the lunch of the Massachusetts State Board of Trade, of which one of his most intimate friends in this country, Charles E. Adams of Lowell, is president. At the luncheon, Sir Thomas reiterated his statement that he intended to challenge again for the America cup. The day closed with another banquet, Sir Thomas being the guest of the Boston Yacht Club at an elegant function at the New Algonquin Club. The gathering was a representative one, including nearly all the prominent members of Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association. Speeches were made by men who have handled the fastest boats in many a noted race in American waters, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by the foreign visitor.

GUilty OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 1.—Henry G. Bailey, a farm hand, charged with causing the death of George H. Crook, on July 6th, last, was tonight found guilty of murder in the first degree. As soon as the jury's verdict was announced the prisoner's counsel, Judge Daniel J. Donahue and William C. Robinson, crossed over and spoke to him and then made a motion for the postponement of sentence. The court granted a stay until Monday morning.

The case was given to the jury late this afternoon, and after the jury had been out about two hours and a half they filed into the court room and the foreman, Henry J. Denison of Saybrook, stated that one of the jurors was called for instruction on premeditation as applied to murder. Judge Bailey then called the subject at some length, after which the jury again retired.

Exactly four hours after having the case placed in their hands the jurors filed into the courtroom for the second time and announced they found Bailey guilty of murder in the first degree.

The Frederick High School team returned home last evening. They were unable to get a game on with the local team, and felt greatly disappointed. They wanted a guarantee of $10 and the St. John High School would only allow $5.

NEW NAVY FOR SPAIN
Seventy Millions to be Spent in Next Six Years.

Programme Calls for Seventeen New Iron-clads of Up-to-date Type—Half the Ships Must be Built in Spanish Yards.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Spain is making rapid progress with the rebuilding of her navy. The expenditure of $70,000,000, authorized by the Cortes last year, is being laid out to cover a construction programme of six years, which comprises eight 14,000-ton battleships, nine cruisers and several smaller vessels. Half the ships must be built in Spanish yards, and besides the construction now under way, a complete reorganization and equipping of the Spanish fleet is being undertaken. At Cadix and Cartagena has been undertaken, King Alfonso is an active participant in the navy and gives every encouragement to that branch of the government.

According to the latest information, Emperor Carlos V., a protected cruiser of 10,000 tons, three belted cruisers and the protected cruiser Edna Roca, a contract which has just been signed in London for electrical power doors for the Reina Regenta, now at the completion at Perrol, shows that Spain intends to make her new warships as up-to-date as possible.

The day closed with another banquet, Sir Thomas being the guest of the Boston Yacht Club at an elegant function at the New Algonquin Club. The gathering was a representative one, including nearly all the prominent members of Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association. Speeches were made by men who have handled the fastest boats in many a noted race in American waters, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by the foreign visitor.

SAMSON'S WEAPON.
(London Chronicle.)
A Steppen teacher took for the Bible lesson the story of Samson. At the end of the lesson test questions were put to the scholars. "With what weapon did Samson slay a thousand Philistines?" was the question. For a space there was silence. Then a little girl said, "With the axe of the apostles."

MOLASSES AND FEATHERS.
Applied by Women to a Neighbor Woman They Didn't Like.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 1.—Four married women of the village of East Sandy, four miles from here, today treated a neighbor to a coat of stove polish, molasses and feathers.

The four women are respected members of the community. They are Mrs. Lowry, Mrs. Bertha Brinkman, Mrs. Nellie Glaze and Mrs. Hilda Peterson.

The first victim was Mrs. Hattie Lowry, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Verda Lowry, whose husbands being brothers.

The four women called at the home of Mrs. Lowry today and told her they intended to punish her before the public. Two of the women seized her while the other two daubed stove polish on her face. Then molasses was poured over her head and feathers were applied.

Thus adorned, the woman was marched from her home to a railroad camp, where 200 men are employed. There was a suspension of work until the self-appointed vigilance committee took their victim to the outskirts of the town, where they tied her to a tree and left her. A man came along half an hour later and released the captive.

Mrs. Lowry came to Franklin and had warrants issued for the women. Sheriff McElhinney went to West Sandy and arrested all but Mrs. Brinkman, who was not at home.

When the three were arraigned before Alderman Henderson they pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Glaze said they had no regrets for what they had done. She said the women's actions were intolerable.

Mrs. Lowry, the victim, said there was no justification for such treatment and that she will continue to live at East Sandy.

Canadian Shippers Should Consider Local Fancies.

vals of Canadian Flour Have Caused Perturbation Among the Millers.

STAWA, Ont., Nov. 1.—Mr. Edgar, commercial agent for Canada Prindall, says that shipments of Canadian apples to the United States are both in quality and price with foreign apple. The agent mentions that there is a capital market in Canada for ordinary laundry soap.

A trade in the shipment of cedar is sprang up.

Agent Jackson, at Leeds, sends a report on the conditions of Canadian apples in Yorkshire. He says Canadian apples are arriving in the Yorkshire markets in large quantities and retaining good prices on account of the excellent quality. The fact that apples are now inspected under government supervision before leaving Canada has given confidence to dealers, so that they do not hesitate to deal directly with Canadian apple exporters.

Mr. Jackson suggests that Canadian shippers should endeavor to ascertain the particular varieties of apples which are best suited to the different centres of population. What might suit one locality would not meet the requirements of another city. For instance, at Covent Garden, the great fruit market of the world, the preference is for Gravenstein apples, which are large, red and highly-colored; Leeds has a preference for Russets, Baldwins and King of the Spies, as a distributing point, will take any variety. Mr. Jackson thinks the outlook for the market for Canadian apples in Yorkshire is excellent.

The agent remarks that arrivals of shipments of Canadian fruit have caused some perturbation among the Yorkshire millers, and they are thinking of increasing their capacity in order to meet the competition. Shipments of Canadian hay realized 78s. per ton, a large quantity having been purchased by the Army Depot at York.

An Interesting Address Given Last Evening by Dr. Melvin

Dr. Geo. G. Melvin gave an interesting and instructive address before the Fabian League last night talking for his subject Pulmonary Tuberculosis.

W. F. Hatheway who occupied the chair before introducing Dr. Melvin spoke on the advisability of having a gear inspector appointed by the government.

Mr. Hatheway referred to the many accidents which have occurred lately by which working men were either killed or injured and these accidents were mostly caused by defective gear. He thought a committee should be appointed to wait on the government to request the appointment of such an inspector.

Dr. Melvin's address was listened to with close attention and at its conclusion an interesting discussion on the subject was carried on by the members of the league. Dr. Melvin explained the nature of the disease, how it was contracted and developed in the system and suggested as the best preventive and cure for it plenty of sunshine, fresh air and wholesome food.

The cause of the disease, according to Koch, is the tubercle bacilli. These germs enter the system and rapidly multiply. Moisture, gentle heat, dirt and darkness cause the development of the germs while dryness and sunshine are disastrous to them.

The doctor explained that consumption was not hereditary but a child of consumptive parents would naturally be born with a very weak constitution and might easily develop the disease.

The lecturer claimed that mental culture was the greatest of all safeguards against the disease. Closing Dr. Melvin spoke against isolating tuberculous patients, as when sunlight and dryness are provided the only precaution necessary is the care of the sputum.

DEFINITION OF A MAN.
(Rochester Herald.)
At a dinner in Newport R.I. Admiral Evans spoke with scorn of a young man who had married an old woman for her money.

"That chap calls himself a man, I suppose," said the great sea-fighter, "but there are various definitions of the word and the definition that would fit our friend best is the Peebles one. A Scot of Peebles said to his friend Mackay once, 'I hear ye have fallen in love w' bonny Kate McAlister.'"

"Well, Sanders," Mac replied, "I was near-veera near—doin' it, but the bit lassie had nae siller, so I said to myself, 'Mac, be a mon.'"
