First Manager of The Canadian Gov't Merchant Marine

R. B. Teakle, who represented the Allan Line here for some years, has received this important appointment.

The many friends of R. B. Teakle, who spent five or six years in St. John, will be pleased to learn of his appointment as first manager of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Limited. Mr. Teakle represented the Allan Line here before the war, having an office in the Royal Bank Building.

Mr. R. B. Teakle has just been appointed manager of the C. G. M. M. and has taken up his headquarters at the offices of the Canadian National Railways, at 230 St. James street, Montreal. Mr. Teakle is a Canadian, and is no stranger to Montreal, having been an officer with the Allan Line, whose St. John office he held for some time. From that office he transferred to the Franco-Canadian Steamship in Boston, and later in Philadelphia. His home is Quebec, and he has spent many years in Montreal and St. John.

Since the inauguration of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Limited, last fall, the ships of this fleet have already found their way to such varied destinations as Buenos Aires, the West Indies, and Liverpool, England. The Canadian Voyager and the Canadian Pioneer got into commission during the winter, and since the opening of navigation this year the Canadian Warrior, the Canadian Recruit, the Canadian Ranger and the Canadian Volunteer have been handed over from the shipyard to the company. Had it not been for strikes and labor troubles, other vessels would also have been delivered to the Canadian Merchant Marine and the Canadian Miller are being lying at Vickers for the finishing touches. Other ships expected to come down from the Great Lakes shortly are the Canadian Trader and the Canadian Sailor from the Port Arthur Shipbuilding Company and the Canadian Signaller from the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company.

The present disposition of this fleet is that the Canadian Ranger is at Liverpool; the Canadian Pioneer is at Buenos Aires; the Canadian Warrior is on her way up from Cuba; the Canadian Recruit is on the way to Jamaica, Kingston and Cuba; while the Canadian Voyager, the Canadian Miller, the Canadian Barabado, Trinidad, Demerara and Cuba. The Canadian Volunteer, which was turned over by the War Shipping Administration, Vancouver, is loading up at Victoria.

Questioned as to the problem of securing freights on the return voyages, Mr. Teakle stated that so far as United Kingdom ports were concerned, return cargoes were not very heavy, but from Buenos Aires an absolutely full cargo was expected on the Pioneer, while on the ships plying to the West Indies cargoes of sugar were always brought back.

SCHR. JANE PALMER READY FOR SEA

Big American Five-Master is Largest of Her Class in World—A Fast Sailer, Good Carrier and Fitted Out Most Modern.

The American schooner Jane Palmer, of New York, is loading spruce deals at the I. C. R. dock for the United Kingdom. She will take nearly three million feet. The Palmer is the largest five-masted wooden sailing vessel afloat, and carries 5,000 tons of cargo. She is known as one of the great Palmer Fleet, which company sold all their vessels at the time of the war, and she is now owned by the France and Canada S. S. Co. of New York. The Palmer is known to be one of the fastest sailing vessels afloat, making as high as 17 knots per hour in ordinary weather 12 to 15 knots. She is equipped with electric lights and has a powerful wireless apparatus and is considered one of the finest equipped vessels in the world. Her living quarters are large and modern in every way. Her crew consists of sixteen men and is commanded by Captain Delmont C. Torrey, of Deer Island, Maine. Mrs. Torrey made the trip here from New York, and is making many friends in this city. She will leave for her home in Maine when the Palmer is loaded and ready to sail for Queenstown for orders. She will make return voyage to the United States.

Madame Bedini Writes Standard

Noted Horsewoman With the John Robinson Circus Says She and Other Performers Pleased That St. John Orphans Will Attend Performance Monday.

The following letter received by The Standard from Madame Bedini shows how pleased this wonderful lady is to have the inmates of the orphanages attend the circus:

Halifax, June 30th, 1919.
Editor The Standard.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Robinson has just informed me that under your guidance the poor little inmates of the various orphan asylums will be guests at the matinee performance of the circus in St. John, Monday, July 7th. I am so glad the children are coming, and I want you to tell them that I will do all in my power to give them afternoon of enjoyment. All of the other performers in the circus join me in this statement.

I feel particularly drawn toward the children because of the fact that the early years of my life were spent in an orphanage in England. My heart goes out to the wee ones who are deprived of that love and affection which makes a home the nicest and best place on earth. I know what it is to trace the touch of a mother's hand and to hear my mother's voice.

My heart goes out to the wee ones who are deprived of that love and affection which makes a home the nicest and best place on earth. I know what it is to trace the touch of a mother's hand and to hear my mother's voice.

Problem To Get Out of England

Every Ship Is Booked Up Till September—British Born Resident Says Old Country Is in Terrible Condition.

"To get out of England is a problem that is worrying many folk now," said a British born resident of St. John, who rushed back home after the war, and had to wait for months for a chance to get back to Canada. Every ship is booked up till September.

"Tens of thousands of British born living in Canada who had not seen old home during the war rushed across after the armistice, and many planned on making their homes for the future in the old country," he said. "They thought with all the men killed or maimed there would be plenty of work, and for some reason they still had a notion that England would be a better place to live in. But now they are all plying for a boat to get back to Canada, and their relatives would come with them if they had a chance."

"The old country is in a terrible condition. Strikes follow strikes; hundreds of thousands are out of work; unemployed demonstrations are everywhere; and there is a feeling that the country is on the verge of upheaval. Wages are three times what they were before the war, but prices are out of sight and everybody is worse off than they were in pre-war times. Owing to government control rents are only 15 per cent. higher than in 1914, but owing to the lack of new construction there is a great dearth of houses, and slum conditions have been accentuated in an appalling degree."

"The respect for authority and the orderliness which formerly characterized English life is vanishing. Standards for revolution, but not necessarily violence, and he is receiving unexpected support from Conservative labor leaders who fear the impetuosity of the masses and the direct action policy which the Triple Alliance of Miners, Railwaymen and Transport Workers have shown a strong disposition to adopt, would lead directly to Bolshevism in its violent form. Meantime the middle classes which have long been a powerful element in British life are being crushed by the policy of the nation no longer command the confidence of the masses, and dissatisfaction among the labor men with the peace treaty which is condemned by the labor party as imperialistic, is recalling upon the aristocracy, who are being crushed by the policy of the nation no longer command
