WANT THE CANADIAN ARCH TAKEN DOWN. Westminster Police Start Squabble About Canada's Representation in London.

London, July 23—A curious squabble has arisen over the Canadian coronation arch. The commissioner of police, the Westminster city council requesting the removal of the arch, which the commissioner says, obstructs traffic by attracting crowds of sightseers. The Westminster coronation committee want the arch to remain, and it is considered probable that the Westminster city council will decide that it shall not be removed. It is the general impression that the action of the police is due to the fact that the arch was the indirect cause of the recent accident to Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary.

THE COTTON MILLS.

Talk With Manager Cudlip About Work in the Big Factories.

It was stated by the Canadian Journal of Fabrics, in a recent issue, that the mills in the United States are producing 40,000 pounds per week of combed, flannel, denim and other cotton goods, which had a ready market in a list of Platt Brothers (Oldham, England) machinery, and putting in good order the large force of mechanics, and it is expected that when completed 80,000 spindles will be in operation. The manager of the mills, Mr. Cudlip, yesterday, The Telegraph learned that there was at present a great shortage of spindles, and that it is expected that during the warm weather a large number of work in the mills and go to other employment, to return, however, during the winter, making it impossible to materially increase the output of the factories. The mills are undergoing extensive changes at the hands of a large force of mechanics, and it is expected that in the fall, when the number of employees is increased, that the benefit of the new machinery will be on a large scale. Mr. Cudlip says that the machinery is being renewed and replaced by modern machinery. It does not take very long to teach an ordinary intelligent hand efficiency in the work. There are a great many men now at work in the mills, and it is expected that the number of men will be increased to 28,000 spindles running, but expect to soon have more.

The situation in connection with the selection of plans for the Carnegie library may be considerably changed as the result of a telegram received Thursday by the common clerk from Copeland & Dobb, architects, of New York. This firm submitted an elaborate plan for the library building which was admitted by members of the civic committee to be the finest plan yet. With their plan they sent a letter stating that the building could be erected for $47,000. There was a difference of opinion about this among the committee and some local architects and builders went so far as to say it would require over $100,000 to put up the building outlined by the New York firm.
