SIXTH YEAR FRIDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 1, 1886 PRICE ONE CENT

ANGRY AT THE AUTOCRAT.

THE CZAR'S AGENT ABRUPTLY TREATED BY BULGARIANS.

Austria Determined to Prevent a Russian Protectorate—Gen. Kaulbars Bent Upon Creating One—Lively Scenes in the Hungarian Parliament.

SOFIA, Sept. 30.—Gen. Kaulbars to-day received a deputation of prominent Bulgarians who endeavored to induce him to withdraw or modify his circular. The deputation was composed of 114 of the most respected and influential citizens of the principality and was headed by Dr. Voultcheff, who acted as spokesman. He stated that the circular had surprised the Bulgarian people and asked the general to reconsider some of the Russian demands, particularly that for the postponement of the elections two months. In addition to that modification the doctor said that the people desired Russia to withdraw her demand for the immediate raising of the state of siege and also the demand for the instant release of the prisoners in custody for complicity in the coup d'etat. Dr. Voultcheff said that if the prisoners were released as demanded the probabilities were that the people would kill them in the streets, such was the popular indignation against the implicated men. The Government thought the imprisoned officers should be tried first and subsequently offered clemency. In conclusion the deputation assured Gen. Kaulbars that Bulgaria was thankful to the Czar for his past protection, but maintained that the laws of the country must be respected. No other ministry than that at present in power could extricate the country from its present crisis.

Gen. Kaulbars in reply said the Bulgarians knew well that the Czar had their prosperity at heart, but they must confide in the Czar and carry out his wishes. Dr. Voultcheff interrupted Gen. Kaulbars at this point, and said: "If that is all you have to say we will retire." The deputation then withdrew.

Austria Will Intervene.

PESTH, Sept. 30.—Prime Minister Tisza replying to interpellation for the Government in the lower house of the Hungarian Parliament to-day said that Austro-Hungary intended to prevent any single power from establishing a protectorate over Bulgaria. "We want independence among the Balkan States," he continued, "without having any covetous designs towards any of them. No community of interests exists in the Balkans. The Austro-German alliance continues guarding the mutual conditions of existence without endangering the peace. Austro-Hungary will not allow any single power to make armed interference in Bulgaria."

The Prime Minister's declaration that Austro-Hungary would not permit any foreign power to establish a protectorate over Bulgaria was loudly applauded. The Unterhaus presented a lively appearance during the Prime Minister's speech. Every section of the chamber was occupied and the galleries were crowded. He refuted the assumption that Austro-Hungary had either planned, or had been aware, or in the slightest degree had approved, of the plot to depose Prince Alexander. Neither was Austro-Hungary aware, continued the Premier, that Prince Alexander, as was made evident by his telegram to the Czar, regarded his crown as having been received direct from the Czar; or that Prince Alexander made his stay in Bulgaria dependent on the Czar's consent. "No agreement whatever exists," Herr Tisza said "between Austro-Hungary and Russia regarding the exertion of their respective influence either in the western or in the eastern portion of the Balkan states. Austro-Hungary firmly adheres to the Berlin treaty, which whilst it is upheld sufficiently corresponds with Austro-Hungary's interests. Austro-Hungary has taken no steps on behalf of the kidnappers of Prince Alexander. She has merely warned Bulgaria in her own interest against the adoption of any hasty resolution and the results that would be sure to ensue therefrom."

"As regards Austro-Hungary's alliance with Germany," continued the Premier, "we stand with Germany on the old basis. We regard the treaty of Berlin as still in force, although it has been violated in certain cases, the most serious of which occurred last year in Eastern Roumelia. Austro-Hungary adheres to her repeatedly declared opinion that should Turkey claim the right accorded in the Balkan Peninsula, no other power would be entitled to resort to armed intervention or to the establishment of a protectorate there. Also that no change in the constitutional or territorial relations of the Balkan countries can be effected without the consent of the powers signatory to the treaty of Berlin."

All the deputies were displeased by the Premier's statement. Deputy Haroath maintained that Hungary did not want such a peace as that which the German alliance secured. Others asserted that Russia had violated the treaty of Berlin. A proposal to reopen the discussion was rejected.

The Reply Postponed.

SOFIA, Sept. 30.—The Bulgarian Ministry have decided to postpone their reply to Russia's note. The ministers are not willing to flatly refuse Russia's demands and have resolved to depute and instruct some one to enter into negotiations with Gen. Kaulbars, with the view of finding some other method of settlement.

Russia's Will Must be Obeyed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 30.—The Russian newspapers generally express themselves as satisfied with the action of Gen. Kaulbars in Bulgaria. The Novoe Vermya says: "Nothing remains for the Bulgarian regents but to bow to Russia's will unless it be to force Russia to render it materially impossible for the regents to prevent Russia's wishes from being realized. The election of a new prince in Bulgaria will be impossible until the proper relations which should exist between Gen. Kaulbars and the Bulgarian Government be restored."

Austria is Firm.

VIENNA, Sept. 30.—Diplomats here believe that since the return of Count Kalnoky, Austrian Minister for Foreign Affairs, from Pesth, Austria's attitude against Russia's occupation of Bulgaria is more pronounced. This is partly accounted for by the belief that Austria fears that if Bulgaria is occupied by Russia King Milan will be deposed in Servia and Servia and Bulgaria will be both Russianized. This, it is argued, would cause disorder in Bosnia and probably a conflict with Montenegro.

OIL ON TROUBLED WATERS.

Hundreds of Mariners Testify to Its Efficacy.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 30.—The Hydrographic office has received during the last month about a dozen letters from officers of steam and sailing vessels narrating their experience in the use of oil in the time of storms at sea for the purpose of smoothing the water. There is a singular unanimity in the conclusions of the writers that almost at the instant the oil touched the water it spread far over the surface and reduced the billows to long and heavy but harmless swells. The writers describe a variety of plans for applying the oil. Several of them attribute the rescue of their ships and crew from destruction to the application. Of the hundred of similar letters received in the past no instance of failure has been narrated when the oil was vegetable or fish oil. Kerosene and the lighter oils have some times failed to produce the effect desired.

PASTEUR AND THE PHYSICIANS.

The Efficacy of Inoculation in Hydrophobia Still a Matter of Doubt.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Dr. Reyburn, one of the late President Garfield's physicians, who has returned from a visit to the laboratory of Prof. Pasteur in Paris, says Pasteur told him that out of 1200 natives treated for the bites of rabid animals only 3 died, and of 600 foreigners who came from a long distance only 15 died. "This," says Dr. Reyburn, "would be a good record if it were certain that all who thought they were had been bitten by really rabid animals. But people are apt to think a dog mad that bites them, and in nine cases out of ten they are mistaken. It is hard to tell just how much faith to put in inoculation. I find on talking with physicians in Paris that they feel about as I do about it. They are not quite convinced yet, but are willing to be."

THE CASE OF EDWARD SOLOMON.

The Prisoner Admits That He Has Been Married Twice.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The case of Edward Solomon, who was arrested for bigamy on the complaint of his first wife, Lilly Grey, came off to-day. Testimony was given that when he was first taken into custody Solomon admitted that he was married to Lillian Russell in New Jersey, and said: "Anyhow, we went through some ceremony." It was shown, however, that he had also said at the same time that when he married Lillian Russell he was unaware that his first wife was living, as he had neither seen nor heard from her for several years. Solomon was remanded pending the arrival from the United States of a number of witnesses whose attendance has been secured. The magistrate refused Solomon's request for a reduction of the bail.

The application of the Royal Arch Masons of Australia for representation in the General Grand Chapter was refused, it being decided that no chapter under the American system should be established in that jurisdiction.

HARMONY, Me., Sept. 30.—The terrorism caused by incendiary fires in this town is extending to neighboring towns. In Athens, Hartland, St. Albans and other villages the people jump out of their beds at every rustle in the night, and sleep with rifles standing by their bedsides. There is a general fear that the villains who have been ruining Harmony will set fire to some of the neighboring places. On Monday the alarm had become so great that the postmaster here did not dare to have the mail come or leave in the night for fear it would be robbed.

Canada Must Calm Down First.

CROWDS AT THE TEMPLE.

MAYOR HOWLAND AND DR. WILD ON THE PLATFORM.

General Booth Tells What He Knows About the Army and Its Work—Interesting Figures and Statistics—The General's Successor.

By 8.10 last night three thousand persons had squeezed themselves into the Salvation Army Temple. The program announced that General Booth would tell what he knew about the army, and everyone who got into the Temple expected to hear something they had not heard before. It was 5 o'clock yesterday morning before the "all night of prayer" broke up, and many of the army who did not find time to rest during the day reached the Temple last evening in a dozy mood. They were, however, not rudely but suddenly wakened up by the tremendous cheering, waving of handkerchiefs and "music by the band," when shortly after 8 o'clock the arrival of the General was announced. He was accompanied as usual by Mr. Wm. Gooderham and Mr. Daniel McLean, while Mayor Howland, Rev. Dr. Wild and Mr. Geo. J. St. Leger were in close attendance and took seats on the platform beside the Commander-in-Chief. Mayor Howland received an ovation from the audience, especially from the soldiers, who shouted till their throats were sore in their welcome to His Worship. When the cheering had subsided, Commissioner Coombs asked everybody in the room to join in the salvation song:

Soldiers of our God, arise,
The day is drawing nearer;
Shake the slumber from your eyes,
The light is growing nearer.
Sit no longer idly bye,
While the heedless millions die;
Lift the blood-stained banner high,
And take the field for Jesus.

Then the General led off in prayer, and was followed by "Bro. Gooderham," as the Commander announced him. During the prayer a young man, whose dress denoted that he was an artizan, squeezed through the crowd to the front of the platform and sank on his knees before the General, where he remained for 15 minutes, having been suddenly seized with the Holy Spirit, as he announced, amid tears, to his nearest companion.

But it remained for Staff-Sergeant Griffiths, violin in hand, to arouse to its fullest tension the musical proclivities of the vast audience, when he led off with a song called "Save Nancy Lee," to one of the airs in "Don Cæsar." The number told in merry rhyme how "Jim and Nancy" had given up their drunken habits and godless amusements and became converted. In one verse Nancy says:

Now he's very well dressed,
And his soul is well blessed.

Commissioner Coombs then formally welcomed Mayor Howland, and asked God to bless His Worship.

To which Mr. Howland replied: "I am glad to see and know that the Army is doing a good work. I hereby welcome to the city General Booth, than whom there is none I esteem more highly. If it were not for the Salvation Army and other self-sacrificing missions the world would soon die of rottenness. God bless the army, which I hope will long be spared to go on with its work."

General Booth followed His Worship. The General does not wear a vest and carries his watch in his hip pocket. As he reached for his time-piece several times during his remarks a few persons in the audience wondered if he was after, like a certain Texas preacher, a well known persuader to use on the incredulous portion of his hearers. He began by saying that he was intensely gratified with the interest that was manifested in the present demonstration. "I am an observer of the times," he continued, "and you cannot mention the name of the Salvation Army in any public place or on a train without people pricking up their ears and straining them to hear what was said. People said a great deal against the army; but there were plenty of others to say a good word for us. Good or bad be these criticisms, we do not like stagnation. It had been freely asserted that we lived on persecution. Persecuted or not, we have vitality enough in us to live on. I would here remind you that Commissioner Coombs wants to raise $20,000 to carry on the work in Canada, and more especially in Montreal. Please bear it in mind."

The General then gave an interesting account of the causes and circumstances which brought about the formation of the army. "Twenty-one years ago," he said, "I was a Methodist preacher. I wore a straight-cut coat, and from the style of my get-up I was a sort of cross between a hotel water and an undertaker. [Smiles all round.] I traveled up and down England until I struck the East End of London. I saw in the great thoroughfare of Whitechapel and Mile End Waste thousands of people going to the devil, with no one to save them. I believed that as an evangelist I could do more good than as a minister, and I began my work. I wanted to save the people, no matter what means were employed. I began my meetings and drew followers around me. I did not want to form a new sect, but none of the existing sects would have anything to do with us. For twelve years we had a hard time of it. Then it was revealed to us by God that we were to be the Salvation Army, and that we became. We played drums and wore uniforms because we found it to be the best plan we could discover to save souls. If a better one had been suggested, we would gladly have cast aside the drum and red shirt and adopted it. If this vast audience could have marched before them the tens of thousands of the vilest people of England that we rescued and saved, no matter how bitter they were against the methods of the army, they would certainly modify their censure. [Cries of "Amen."]

Referring to the work and growth of the army, the General said: "Eight years ago we were a little people of 25 corps and 36 salaried officers. In 1886 we number 4063 corps with 1643 officers. At the end of the century, at this rate of growth, we will number 40,000 corps and 100,000 officers. [Cheers.] There was nothing in the growth of other denominations, not even in Methodism, to compare with it. We have established ourselves in nineteen different countries and colonies. The growth of our literature is still more wonderful. We print 19 separate War Crys, with a weekly circulation of half a million. These periodicals are printed in 9 different languages and we preach salvation in 22 different tongues. ["Glory" and "Hallelujah" from all over the Temple.] We have found our way among the Kaffirs of the Cape, among the savages of Australia, in Hindoostan and other far off countries. We were now organizing the Salvation Navy. Fifty ships were already flying our navy flag. We soon hope to have this branch of our work as thoroughly organized as the other, so that when sailors go into port they will be looked after by our navy officers. One of the greatest works we have now on hand, one which has puzzled corporations and social reformers, is the reclamation of convicts. Very soon we expect to have an officer established at every prison gate, so that when a discharged prisoner comes out we will take him by the hand and not only give him a meal but use our best endeavors to save his soul. [Cheers.] Already in England and Australia we have saved 2700 ex-prisoners, and 60 per cent. of them have turned out good citizens and were earning an honest livelihood. Very soon, on the strength of these good results, we expected to hear judges sentence men to 3 days in jail and 6 months with the Salvation Army. [Laughter.] We were also fighting the great social evil. In two years in England alone we rescued 340 fallen girls, who were not only restored to virtue but were converted to God. Recognizing our good work in Australia the parliament of that colony voted us £1000 to finish our last rescue home in Melbourne. Would that the Parliament of Canada do likewise."

The General then told the audience something about the finances of the army, and he answered the charges repeatedly made that he was becoming rich by it. "In the whole twenty-one years," he said, "I have not taken one shilling of the army's funds for the support of myself or family. Our balance-sheets, many statements to the contrary notwithstanding, are the most independently audited balance-sheets on earth. I have not, as has been stated, built a castle in Wales. If I have, I do not know where it is. You need not be afraid," he continued, "to entrust your money with Commissioner Coombs to carry on the work in Canada."

Speaking of his successor he said: "It has been asked, What is going to be done when General Booth is gone? God will look after my successor. Legal safeguards are being thrown around the successor, but I leave it in the hands of God to guide and guard us when I am no more."

After many anecdotes and further references and defences of the army's methods in bringing about its success, the General concluded his address amid loud cheering.

Rev. Dr. Wild said he was well pleased with the services. He liked to see people carry on their services in their own way. He was glad to see General Booth in our beloved city. The army was doing a great and good work, and they were doing it in their own way. "I have a line of my own," said the Prophet. "Twenty-five years ago when I was refused a lecture platform in London I said the Methodists and other religious bodies were too proud; that another strong sect would come to take its place among them. That sect is the Salvation Army. God bless you."

Mr. Wm. Gooderham closed the meeting at 9.50. He agreed with Rev. G. A. Stafford of the Metropolitan Church that the Salvation Army was doing the work of the old original Methodists.

Another all night of prayer will follow this evening's services in the Temple.

CHILDREN MISSING FROM HOME.

Two Mysterious Cases From Mutual and Berkeley Streets.

The police had three lost children on their books last night, two of the cases being of a distressing nature. The 8-year-old daughter, a bright little girl, of Mr. John Webster, bookkeeper at the Albion Hotel, left the George-street School at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to go to her home at No. 30 Mutual-street. Subsequently she was seen at Sherbourne and Duchess-street. That was the last seen of her. At midnight her whereabouts was still unknown, her parents being well-nigh distracted over her unaccountable absence. John Clayton, aged 7, who was dressed in blue serge, is missing from 167 Berkeley-street, and at midnight nothing had been heard of him, although diligently searched for by the police. A little curly-haired toddler strayed away from 168 Jarvis-street, but he was afterwards found. Owing to the tough locality where Mr. Webster's little girl was last seen, considerable apprehension is felt for her safety.

An Early Session Indicated.

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—There is a rumor in circulation to-day around Parliament Buildings to the effect that Parliament will be called to meet at a very early date. It was ascertained that preparations in and about the House of Commons had begun for the session by the arrangement of furniture, laying of carpet, etc. It is not usual that this should be done until about Christmas, and it appears that some of the officials take the unusual bustle to portend an early session.

The destitution will consequently be widespread during the winter.

That Great Salvation Parade.

—The parade of the "Salvation Army" yesterday beat "Barnum's circus" into fits. The "Great General" looked immense, happiness was written on his countenance; it was quite a reminder of the happy look purchasers of Strathern's stoves have. They get such satisfaction that really one might think that the heart was made warmer as well as the home. Finest selection of stoves to choose from in Toronto at the great housefurnishing depot, 97 Yonge-street. Strathern takes the lead. x

A GOOD EXAMPLE FOR TORONTO.

Montreal has started out in earnest to have a grand union station for the various lines of railway entering that city. Why should not Toronto do the same? The Canadian Pacific is bent on beginning work on its own account; the Esplanade question is still open; the Don Improvement will soon be a fact.

Here then is Toronto's opportunity. Let the City Council, the Board of Trade, a citizens' committee, take up the matter. Let them first go into the whole question, elicit the facts, interview the railway companies, and then insist on the Railway Committee of the Privy Council ordaining that a union station must be used in Toronto and in Montreal for that matter.

Our two great roads, the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific, were largely built by public money, and the people, as represented by the Railway Committee, would not be insisting on over-much if they demanded two such stations, one in Toronto, another in Montreal. Indeed, why should not the two cities join in enforcing this view on the Government.

There are several things to be done: the Esplanade, in so far as it is a railway thoroughfare, ought to be made public property, administered by a public trust; equal privileges thereover ought to be given to all roads; through freight traffic should all be kept off the Esplanade and sent by North Toronto; a grand union station ought to be built on the city's front, between Yonge and Simcoe-streets, and all passenger trains ought to enter and start therefrom.

Look at the convenience such a union station affords! Look at the saving it effects! The waiting rooms would be first-class; the refreshment rooms ditto; there would be no driving half a mile or a mile when a passenger had to take another line; the cost of handling baggage, of cabs, and the like would be less; and in everyway the public would be benefited, the companies would be benefited and a great saving secured for both.

Such union stations are springing up in all the great cities of the union. Chicago, while she has several stations, most of these are shared by three or more roads. Minneapolis has a magnificent union depot, a monument to Jim Hill. Let Toronto and Montreal take pattern of these before it is too late.

The Board of Trade and City Council ought not to delay this matter. A joint committee could soon ascertain the best way to go about the business. The roads might undertake the job themselves; or perhaps better a joint stock company with a million or more of capital could be entrusted with it—at all events, the thing itself ought to be accomplished and that speedily. Mr. Hickson and Mr. Van Horne are too large-minded men to oppose the project.

EDUCATION AT AURORA.

HON. GEORGE W. ROSS OPENS A NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.

North York Teachers' Convention—Interesting Papers Read—Addresses by the Minister and Local Members—A Banquet—The Town at its Best.

AURORA, Sept. 30.—The flourishing little town of Aurora, which nestles so peacefully on the west side of the Northern Railway thirty miles from Toronto, has taken another step forward in the educational line. To-day a fine public school costing $12,000 was formally opened by Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, in the presence of over 300 teachers and townspeople. The building is constructed on the latest scientific and hygienic principles. It has eight rooms and can accommodate 400 children. The headmaster, M. H. Thompson, takes up his high school work in the senior division, and the prevailing hope is that before long the town will have a high school rivalling, if not surpassing, that of Newmarket.

The half-yearly convention of the North York Teachers' Association opened its session in the new school-house in the morning. D.S. Fotheringham, Public School Inspector for South York, presided and Wm. Rennie acted as secretary. Papers on teachers' work were read by Miss Price, Robert Mayes, Miss E. Spragge, R. O. Harvey, Miss H. Lewis, J. E. Dickson and Messrs. Love and Stouffer.

Hon. Mr. Ross addressed the convention in the forenoon. He pointed out the necessity for fresh air in the school-room, the value of drawing or the art of pictorial expression to young people, and dwelt lengthily on the necessity for government control in the issue of text books.

In the evening Mr. Ross spoke on the place of the Education Department in our school system.

Mr. Wm. Mulock, M.P., and Dr. Widdifield, M.P.P., also briefly addressed the convention.

The meeting was brought to a close at 9 o'clock in order to attend the banquet tendered to the Minister of Education and the convention by the Town Council.

The table was set in the best style of the Queen's Hotel. Over 100 teachers and residents were present. A pleasant social evening was spent. Short speeches were made the order. The principal speakers were Hon. G. W. Ross, Wm. Mulock, M.P., Dr. Widdifield, M.P.P., and Inspectors Fotheringham and Davidson. Toronto's flowery suburb was ably represented by Geo. Tait and James Wismer.

The town is at present looking its best: The population is 2000 and increasing rapidly. The chief industries are the beaver tannery, owned by F. T. Daville, and two agricultural implement foundries owned by Fluery & Wilkinson. The people show great activity and are anxious to make their town the commercial centre north of Toronto.

His Sympathies With Germany.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The visit of Leopold, King of the Belgians, to Emperor William, has caused much comment here. If she defeated Germany the Belgian monarchy would be overthrown, whereas the triumph of Germany would make my throne secure."

The fire was at 33 Scadding-street, an old frame house occupied by Richardson Richmond and Thomas Graham and their families. "We were wakened," said Mr. Richmond to The World, "by the crackling of flames above; I can't tell how the fire started." The building burned like matchwood and the flames extended to J. R. Burns' pottery, which was also destroyed. The Boulton-avenue, Wilton-avenue, Berkeley-street and Court-street sections kept the fire from doing further damage. Mr. Richmond and Mr. Graham, both of whom worked in the pottery, saved some of their effects. Mr. Burns' loss could not be ascertained.

Cross Readings.

The World's Cat's musings upon the moral obliquity of professed prohibition organs in receiving pay for puffing the wares of liquor manufacturers and dealers, suggested the cross reading of their pages, from their editorial to their advertisement columns. Instead of being inharmonious they rhyme in the following fashion:

From the Globe.

The ills of drink we all admit—
"But Bunkum's rye is old."
No law the traffic should permit—
"His wine's as pure as gold."
Our whole life-long we've held the same—
"And Bunkum's beer is good."
The Mail is playing a late game—
"Bunkum has it in the wood."

From the Mail.

Shame on the wretch who dare assert—
"Aught ill of Bumble's rye."
That strong drink does anything but hurt—
"Till Bumble's beer you buy."
We'll carry the flag through storm and shine—
"As customers attest."
Away! away! with rum and wine—
"For Bumble's brandy's best."—Rupert.
