

Axe-throwing was one of the skills tested in the intercollegiate woodman's competition held Saturday as part of Forestry week. The University of Maine took top honors over seven other schools.

Forestry week:

It's not all whisky and beer (sometimes you wouldn't know it).
Some stiff competition (and some not-so-stiff); bull-of-the-woods, forestry queen and water polo.

A group of foresters standing behind the net gloat over their opponents, the UNB mermaids, in a challenge, water-polo match. Forestry association president Joseph O'Leary said afterwards that it was a tough battle for his team to eke out a narrow victory.

photo by John Thompson

Jan Ellingsen, forestry 5, won the bull-of-the-woods title as he accumulated the most points in the interfaculty woodsmen's competition Last Tuesday. Here, he demonstrates a winning technique with the chainsaw.

Brunswickan photos by Ben Hong

Forestry queen Sue Corey, forestry 4, acts as a statistician during forestry week competitions. Sue was crowned at the Bush Ball Friday night.

Dear

The Gradu
is booming

Even tho
offices, no
of its own.
Grad School

The Sc
Studies has
since the fo
versity in 18
was conferr
then, the Gr
a long way.

When D
the present
Studies, wa
only gradu
and Scienc
ministrate
pointment
tion of the
of Graduat
to admini
work at U

The Sc
Dean of G
a Commi
Studies is separate p
Executive
of the Pr academic
an and t
elected
Arts (3),
eering (1
Education
general ma
School. T
mittees o
for each Education
Forestry.

The G
degrees o

Pick- presid

Politi
noted t
mud sh
United
election

Howe
Sunday
There's
punning.

Politi
candidat
plus Sp
Bird for
Nixon
"HHH s backwa
backwa
phrey g
TV sho
Press' s
"I fina
Wallace
Baby."

As l
phrey:
everyon
hasn't

And
candida
of him
fast th
him
'Playbo
ing the
came in 196
orthod
"They'
movie
and 18
to pro