Dr. W. Roger Graham,
Roche's Point,
Lake Simcoe, Ont.

Dear Roger:

J. V. McAree of the Globe and Mail had an article lately on Hector Charlesworth, referring mainly to his three volumes entitled:

"I'm Telling You"
"Candid Chronicles"
"More Candid Chronicles"

I have run through them hurriedly. Charlesworth was a good friend of mine, and Hugh Clark and I used to go to see him somewhat frequently in his later years. My glimpse of the pages did not impress me with the accuracy of the facts. No doubt he thought he was giving the facts as they were, but he was in reality a newspaper man.

You will know from a hurried glance through the books whether they are worthy of anything more than that in the way of study. They are here at my office.

Yours sincerely,

AM/E.
